PRESIDENT ANDRUSS RETURNS

Following six months spent at Shrivenham American University, President Harvey A. Andruss arrived in New York on the USS Aircraft Carrier "Enterprise" on December 24th and resumed his duties at the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, on January 1, 1946.

The following citation, signed by Brig. C. M. Thiele, of Shrivenham American University, was written on November 30, 1945, as follows, in appreciation for the services of President

Andruss:

"During the past few months you have had a part in a most important project of the Army Education Program. The establishment of an education program on the University level was unique in military history. The planning, selection of staff, supervision, and operation of Universities on foreign soil created many problems which have been met and solved.

"As Branch Head of the Accounting Department, your ability, zeal, resourcefulness, loyalty, and devotion to duty reflected credit upon yourself and the military service, and contributed materially to the success of Shrivenham American University. Your services have been invaluable in the solving of innumerable problems.

"For an all too fleeting period of four months, we have been associated in what, by the universal testimony of all participants, has been a thrilling experience. This staff was made up from the most distinguished teachers and scholars in the American Academic World. Only a unique project such as this could attract so high a level of teaching ability and scholarly attainment. In this group you have taken an active part.

"May I extend my personal appreciation for the wholehearted support and the valuable and loval service you have rendered.

"I give you my kindest personal regards and best wishes for continued success in your professional activities."

REMINISCENCES

The following appeared in the "Passing Throng" column of the Bloomsburg Morning Press, in its issue of December 4, 1945:

Reminiscent of earlier days at Normal was the visit to the office the other night of Lindley H. Dennis and Howard Fetterolf.

Both graduated from the local institution somewhere around the turn of the century and it is our recollection that both taught in the county before seeking broader fields.

The conversation had to do with "Doc" Aldinger, "Bill" McAvoy, John McGuffey and some of the other well known school figures of their day. It was all nostalgic.

Lindley recalled the time he sought to make an impression upon a group of girls by taking them up in the tower of Carver Hall to get the view from that vantage point.

Everything would have been fine except that he was wearing a derby hat and the wind was strong. To keep it on his head he pulled it down tight over his ears. To his great chagrin the brim pulled from the hat, and he presented a grotesque appearance. "I didn't leave too deep an impression," he confessed.

Then we told him one about the tower of Carver Hall—an incident that occurred the night preceding the annual gymnasium exhibition, when anything could happen on the hill.

We were working in our office in the Dentler building when we heard the patter of feet on the stairs. The door opened and there was "Bill" McAvoy clad in a thin running suit, bare legged and wearing "gym" shoes. The snow was almost a foot deep on the ground.

"I got a great story for you," "Bill" exclaimed as he sought to get his wind. He had run all the way down from the school.

"Yes."

"The college preps. are in the tower of Carver Hall and we are beating up the other classmen as they try to get up to us."

"That's fine. How did you get down here?"

"Pshaw! That was easy. I made my way down the outside of the building so you would be sure to have the story in the morning."

Nothing like that happens these days.

Through the years the careers of Dennis and Fetterolf have closely paralleled each other.

Lindley went with the Pennsylvania Department of Education in 1911 and set up the vocational, industrial and home economics program, and called in Howard, a Mifflinville boy, who was then teaching at Port Allegheny.

As he sat in the office the other evening Howard remarked that he had been with the State's agricultural program in the schools for the last thirty-one years. Today, there are something over 200 of these departments in the schools of the state. There was quite a heavy mortality during the war years because of the requirements of the new law which makes it mandatory there be a minimum of 22 students to each unit. Earlier, these units were being carried through with 10 or 12 students. In Columbia County alone it meant the elimination of these departments in Orangeville, Sugarloaf, Centre and Madison.

But Mr. Fetterolf was confident there would be a great increase in the near future. Many schools are waiting only until they can secure competent instructorship.

It was his impression that one of the great pieces of work done by the department during the war years was the setting up of farm machinery repair schools, all of which were very largely attended and of great practical benefit. In Columbia County these schools were held in Orangeville, Beaver, Benton, Mifflinville, Madison, Locust and Millville and were for the farmers themselves.

After setting up the department and staying with it for some years, Lindley left to become assistant state superintendent in Michigan. He went from there to Washington, where he is secretary of the American Vocational Association, which is supported by the vocational teachers of the nation.

The following, also taken from the "Passing Throng" column, should be of interest because of Mr. Wirt's long association with the College as a member of the Board of Trustees.

We noted by a New York paper yesterday that Lewis Edson Waterman, Jr., seventy-eight, son of the founder of the Waterman pen, died at Plainfield, New Jersey, and that the father "invented the first modern fountain pen."

Were Paul E. Wirt alive he would take exception to that statement because for years Wirt compelled Waterman to pay a royalty to him on every Waterman pen sold.

The battle to get a fountain pen that would work had been on for some years, as George Rosenstock, superintendent of the Wirt factory for years, recalled yesterday. All these inventors played with an underfeed. Mr. Wirt came along with a "loop feeder" and it proved a success.

Waterman copied the idea and landed in the patent courts. After long drawn-out litigation Wirt's invention was upheld and Waterman's outlawed. Hence the royalties.

The pen factory of that day is now the home of the Public Assistance staff, and has been for some years.

In its heyday forty persons were given employment there, divided between the gold pen, rubber case, assembling and shipping departments. When it was the nation's best known pen 500,000 yearly were sold.

When the factory was first set up here, the gold pens were made in New York and sent here for assembly with the feeder and the rubber case. That eventually proved a headache. Mr. Wirt was required to advance the gold pen makers money to keep them in operation, and the time came when they closed down. That was when A. B. Tyson, who had been associated with the gold pen company in New York, came here to head that department, of which Robert D. Young was later to become the head.

It was then that every part of the pen was made in the factory, the gold for the pens being received from the mint, the rubber from South America, and the iridium from which the pen points were made from Russia. That metal had a value of $125 an ounce.

Mr. Wirt was not satisfied with his fountain pen invention. He allowed his interests to become diverted and started out to develop a new type suspender. Into that—his invention centered around the buckle—he placed great sums of money, but it was a dead loss as were the time and money he invested in seeking to develop a new type of automobile tire.

It was about that time that modern advertising came into the picture—and that was where Wirt lost out.

Waterman, in spite of the royalties, went in for modern advertising in a big way, as did Schaeffer in the mid-West. Wirt didn't, and it wasn't long before his two principal competitors began to absorb the market.

With his markets gradually going out from under him Mr. Wirt turned to making pens for mail order houses. That was but another step on the way out.

He was becoming older; his patents were expiring and his one son wasn't keen about the business.

In due course of time the plant folded up. It could easily have been that it would be employing twenty-five times as many people as it did at its peak. Other competing plants have gone on until they employ far more.

(From the "Passing Throng" column of the Morning Press)

The departure from Bloomsburg of the last member of the Waller family, which first became associated with Bloomsburg in 1838 when Rev. David J. Waller came here as the Presbyterian pastor, supplying all the English Presbyterian Churches between Danville and Wilkes-Barre, as well as those in the valleys of Fishing Creek, recalls the part he played in Bloomsburg development.

For thirty-three years he proved indefatigable in his ministerial work, eventually introducing four additional workers in the field to care for as many separate charges. In 1848 the brick place of worship in Bloomsburg, built under his direction at a cost of $3,100, was dedicated. This stood on the site of the present Jones residence on Market Street.

In 1871, when the Bloomsburg Church had reached the point of self sustenance, Mr. Waller resigned his pastorate, but still occasionally preached as his health would permit. It was with considerable reluctance that he laid down the active work of the ministry, but after the arduous labor of so many years, having achieved the object of his original mission, he felt that the demands of his growing family—he was the father of ten children-called upon him to devote his energies to their care and education. During the active part of his ministry Mr. Waller found ample scope for the employment of the energy and executive ability with which a Divine providence had blessed him. Notwithstanding the arduous character of his early missionary work, he interested himself and others in procuring advanced educational privileges for the community. He was chiefly instrumental in founding a classical school in Bloomsburg in 1839, securing his brother, C. P. Waller, as principal. This gentleman, subsequently president judge in Wayne and Pike Counties, was admirably fitted for the work and laid a foundation on which the State Normal School was subsequently erected.

Mr. Waller's interest in the educational features of Bloomsburg did not languish with this initial effort, and in all the history of the growth of secondary instruction in the county seat was found his guiding and supporting influence. His contribution to the Bloomsburg Literary Institute and Normal School reached $3,500.

He came to Bloomsburg at the time when the movement for the removal of the county seat was at its ebb tide and the most sanguine of its supporters were about to despair. He espoused the sinking cause with undaunted courage, and with the cooperation of Dr. John Ramsay and William McKelvy succeeded in buoying the stranded movement to the deeper waters which led to eventual success.

Devoting his attention more exclusively to business matters his career was remarkable in that, after devoting the active years of his life to the seclusion of the study, he proved so eminently successful in ventures which have always taxed the abilities of those especially trained for the particular service. In all his enterprises Mr. Waller evinced a public spirit, which has accrued to the highest advantage of the town of his residence.

On leaving the ministry he devoted his attention to farming with eminent success. He soon felt the difficulties which the community labored under for the lack of transportation facilities, and discovered the latent possibilities for Bloomsburg which he determined to develop. In 1859 he bargained for ninety-five acres that is all now included in the town of Bloomsburg. This tract included the plot of the borough bounded on the north by the alley between Fourth and Fifth Streets; on the east by a line a little east of Catherine Street; on the south by Canal Street and on the west by the Irondale Railroad. It comprised the most substantial residences of town, several of them erected by Mr. Waller, among which were the residence he built on the corner of Fifth and Market Streets, and the Sanitarium Building costing upward of $15,000.

He owned 150 acres south of the canal adjoining this plot, which later were included within the corporate limits of the town.

In these private ventures Mr. Waller was not neglectful of public interests, and in spite of persistent opposition, secured for the town, at his own expense, a broad street, lined with attractive residences. In 1861 he secured the location of the railroad depot at an accessible point, and in 1870 began to devise means to relieve the business interests of the burden which the railroad monopoly placed upon it. The result of his efforts in this direction was the construction of the North and West Branch Railroad, which he constructed by his own efforts and in spite of the most determined opposition of other corporations. Even his friends felt that it was a foolhardy undertaking and his success won for him the well merited respect not only of his fellow-townsmen, but of the railroad magnates who tried in vain to thwart him. It was that enterprise that largely proved the foundation of the Waller fortune.

His ambition was to make Bloomsburg a vigorous manufacturing center with railroad facilities second to none in this section of the State. Every public improvement received his hearty cooperation, and when the public was slow to proceed his own judgment would not falter. The lot on which the jail stands was donated by Mr. Waller, as was the land occupied by the woolen mills and now owned by Bloomsburg Mills, Inc. In 1876 he was nominated by the Republican party as candidate for Congress for this district. The hopeless adverse majority gave little hope for his success, but he nevertheless ran 500 ahead of the Hayes electoral ticket.

He was married in 1839 to Julia Ellmaker, of Philadelphia, a daughter of Levi and Hannah (Hopkins) Ellmaker of that city. Their children were Hannah Ellmaker, born August 30, 1840; Elizabeth, born May 14, 1842; Maria Louise, born May 29, 1843, died February 8, 1844; Harriet, born November 16, 1844, died June 13, 1845; David Jewett, born June 17, 1846; William Patterson, born January 20, 1848, died April 22, same year; Levi Ellmaker, born July 16, 1851; George Phillips, born April 2, 1854; Julia, wife of Charles W. Hand and Laura Pettit.

From the "Twenty-Five Years Ago" column of the Morning Press, November 5, 1945.

The annual reception of the faculty of the Normal School to the members of the Board of Trustees of the institution, with their wives and husbands, was tendered last evening in Philo Hall. Receiving the guests were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, Prof. and Mrs. Hartline and Miss Kingman. A luncheon was served with Mrs. Goodman and Miss Schools presiding at the refreshment table. Serving the refreshments were Miss Crittenden, Miss Babb, Mr. Werntz, Mr. Hall and Miss Benson. The guests were A. Z. Schoch, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Wirt, Judge and Mrs. John G. Harman, James C. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Miller, Dr. D. J. Waller, Prof. and Mrs. J. G. Cope and Prof. and Mrs. G. E. Wilbur.

Miss Martha Hathaway, Danville, was awarded the R. Bruce Albert Scholarship Award of $100.00 at a recent assembly program at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Miss Betty Fisher, of Bloomsburg, and Miss Adda Myers, Hughesville, received special scholarship awards of $50.00 each. Presentation of the awards was made by Dr. T. P. North, Acting President of the College and the candidates were presented by Dr. Kimber Kuster, Chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

The Alumni Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College established a loan fund to aid students some years ago. Since part of the fund bears interest, the residual interest is being used to provide the recently awarded scholarships.

The Alumni Association has established an annual $100.00 scholarship in memory of the late R. Bruce Albert, President of the Alumni Association for many years. In addition to this scholarship this year, the Association made available four additional $50.00 scholarships, two of which have not yet been awarded. The only stipulation by the Association in making the awards is that the student be worthy. However, the committee, appointed by Dr. North to make the awards, also considered scholarship, personality, professional promise and financial need. The remaining awards will be made by the committee sometime in the near future.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Pauline E. Egizi, of Berwick. to John Paul Ix, of New York City. Miss Egizi is a graduate of the Berwick High School, class of 1943, and is at present a Junior at the College. Mr. Ix is a graduate of the George Washington High School, Manhattan, in 1942, and entered the Navy in August of that year. After serving sixteen months in the Aleutians, he was transferred to the V-12 program, and came to Bloomsburg in November, 1944. He is now at the Pennsylvania State College, where he was transferred November 1, 1945.

Many of the boys who left the campus to go to all corners of the earth to protect The Spirit that is Bloomsburg are back this semester. Already their influence is being felt. Matt Kashuba hustled down to Philadelphia to an indoor championship track and field meet on January 25, and topped the field with a 6 feet 434 inch high jump, which incidentally broke the meet record and left a couple of national stars in second and third positions. Matt scouted weather in Scotland during the war, but prefers high jumping to cloud guessing. The New York Herald-Tribune carried his picture on the first page of the sporting section on Sunday, January 27.

Afine response has come in from those interested in an "All-Alumni Library." Come back Alumni Day, May 25, and see the fine display. Included will be paintings, sketches, and some craft work. We do want your contribution. Won't you contact us right away? What better place could your work be on display than at your Alma Mater?

We were thrilled some time ago (January 21) to hear a musical question on "Information Please" submitted by Mrs. J. K. Miller. You will remember Mrs. Miller well. For many years she was instructor in instrumental music at the College. The pleasing thing about the question was the fact that it stumped the experts, and Mrs. Miller received a bond. Mrs. Miller is now retired, living at the beautiful Masonic Home in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania. She will be pleased to hear from you, I know.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, College President from 1927 to 1939, now State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Pennsylvania, maintains an active interest in the affairs of the College and is always pleased to greet Alumni. Pay him a visit when you are in Harrisburg. His office is on the third floor of the Education Building.

Campus Happenings

The Secondary Education Group of Future Teachers of America at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College organized at a dinner meeting held in the College dining room Friday, January 4 and a succeeding meeting held January 9.

The purposes of the organization are as follows: to acquaint students with the purposes and activities of professional organizations; to stimulate their interest in current educational problems and issues, and to provide experiences that will induct new teachers into the profession.

The officers of the group are; President, Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland: Vice-President, Eltheda Klingaman, Shumans; Secretary-Treasurer, Lillian Guis, Sheppton; Representative, Violet Weller, Turbotville, to the general Future Teachers of America, Bloomsburg College Group. Sponsor, Mr. Joseph R.

Bailer, Director of Placement and Secondary Education.

The members of the group are as follows: Athamantia Comuntzis, Bloomsburg; Henry Gatski, Bloomsburg; Lola Good, Wapwallopen; Lorraine Fichter, Hazleton; Kathleen Hess, Dalton; John Hmelnicky, Exeter; Hazel Keeler, Espy; Virginia King, Dallas; Karliss Kight, Bloomsburg; Ralph Mc-Cracken, Danville; Lenore Seybert, Lightstreet; Frances Saunders, Danville; Charles Wagner, Bloomsburg; Violet Weller, Turbotville and William Wanich, Lightstreet.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College was well represented at the twelfth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference for the education of Exceptional Children held in the Fifth Street Methodist Church, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, November 9 and 10. Clinicians and teachers of exceptional children from the entire state attended. Those attending from the College were: Miss Edna J. Hazen, Director of Elementary Education and Miss Elma Major, teacher of Special Class, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Students majoring in Special Class who attended are: Mrs. Amy Hinkelman, Williamsport; Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg; Renee Paul, Lavelle, and Martha Stitzel, Hamburg. "Mental Hygiene for Exceptional Children" was the theme of the Conference.

Dr. Paul Sloane, Temple University, spoke at the dinner meeting Friday evening on "The Shy Seclusive Child." Dr. Edgar A. Doll, Director of Research, Vineland Training School, Vineland, N. J., spoke at the morning session Saturday on "Maturation in Relation to Mental Hygiene."

Sectional conferences were held for workers in classes for the blind and partially seeing, the mentally retarded, orthopedic, deaf and hard of hearing, mentally superior and for clinicians. Mr. David Porter, Harrisburg, President of the state organization, presided at the closing session Saturday afternoon when summaries of the sectional conferences were given by the chairman. Miss Martha Fisher, Sunbury, was elected president for the next year.

Members of the Hospitality Committee of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College entertained over a hundred young men and women recently on the campus of the local institution. The guests were attending a youth conference at the local Methodist Church and were invited to make a tour of the teachers college. They were taken through the college administrative offices, dining room, training school, social rooms, the gymnasiums and given an opportunity to inspect the dormitories. The Hospitality Committee with Ann Williams, Luzerne, Chairman, includes the following: Jeanne Reitz, Northumberland; Gloria Galow, Hazleton; Pauline Kokolias, Matamoras; Jane Niles, Wellsboro; Charlotte Young, Lewisburg; Evelyn Pethick, Milanville; Eloise Noble, Milanville; Shirley Henley, Taylor, and Madge Fuller, Berwick.

President Harvey A. Andruss attended in Philadelphia a regional meeting of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association.

The meeting was attended by the Educational Consultants of this National Organization from the States of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Among the speakers were Dr. Kenneth Holland of the Inter-American Union; Dr. Walter G. Carr, Executive Director of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association.

For the last meeting the group of Educational Consultants adjourned from the Philadelphia Board of Education Building to the Girls' High School in order that they might join with a larger group addressed by Archibald MacLeish, formerly Assistant Secretary of State.

The program was built around the forthcoming publications of the National Education Association and a description of UNESCO (United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization) which was formed in November, 1945, in London, during the time that President Andruss was stationed at Shrivenham American University.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College was host to the eighty-ninth session of the Columbia County Teachers Institute held November 28 and 29. The Columbia County School Directors met with the teachers November 28.

The Northeastern District of the Pennsylvania State Association also held a two-day meeting at the College Friday and Saturday, November 30 and December 1. Saturday morning a session of the House of Delegates was in the auditorium in Carver Hall.

One of the highlights of the combined sessions was a lecture Friday evening in the College auditorium by Stanley High, one of America's best known commentators. Mr. High's extensive background makes him one of our outstanding authorities on world affairs. The subject of his lecture at Bloomsburg was "What Kind of America Do We Want?"

Mark Jury, of Bloomsburg, now a staff sergeant in the United States Army stationed at Ford Ord, Calif., will become the new field executive of the Columbia-Montour Boy Scout Council.

Jury expects to be honorably discharged from service in the near future.

He is a former Eagle Scout and before entering service was the assistant scout executive at Middletown, Ohio, serving there a year and a half. Prior to that he completed the national training program for scout executives. He will enter the local field as an experienced executive. His experience as a staff member of Camp Lavigne and the training received in the armed forces will well qualify him for leadership at Camp Lavigne.

The Philadelphia Branch of the B. S. T. C. Alumni held their annual Christmas party in the Paul Revere room at Gimbles on Saturday, December 8. Following the luncheon, gifts were exchanged.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Hubert Price, Miss Gertrude Rinker, '99; Miss Mary E. Richard, Mrs. Stella Swenk, Mrs. Anna Solomen Rubrecht, 1900; Grace Fenstemaker Frantz, '06; Nora Woodring Kenny, '07; Kate Seasholtz Morris, '09; Anna Sacks Allen, '10; Luella Burdick Sinquet, '10; Emelie Nikel Gledhill, '12; Lillie Hortman Irish, Ruth Albert Rach, '15; Evelyn Wagner Grover, '20; Ruth Johnson Garney, '20; Edith McMichael Dodson, '24; Lena Oman Buckman, '24. Visitors were Misses Helen and Janice Kenny, Mrs. Mary K. Riccobono and Myron F. Garney, Jr.

Mary Moser, Ringtown, and Janet Gilbody, Bloomsburg, undergraduates of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, represented the local institution at a three-day Student Christian Association Conference held at the YWCA at Williamsport. Seven colleges were represented at the conference which embodied area five of Pennsylvania.

Representatives of the Community Government Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College attended a conference of the Student Government Association of Pennsylvania Teacher Colleges held recently at the Cheney Training School for Teachers at Cheney, Pa.

General sessions and panel discussions featured the conference at which student government problems at the teacher training institutions were discussed.

Attending from Bloomsburg were: Ann Baldy, Catawissa; Marcia Patterson, Berwick; Helen Wright, Bloomsburg; Henry Gatski, Bloomsburg; Helene Brown, West Hazleton and Dean of Men, John C. Koch.

Thirty-eight educational leaders on the nine local districts of the PSEA met at the College Monday, October 29, to consider ways in which each local branch could aid the "back to school" movement, secure able recruits for the profession, and elevate the standards of those now teaching. Miss Hilda Maehling, executive secretary of the organization of classroom teachers, of the National Education Association, was the speaker at one of the sessions. The presiding officer of the sessions was Raymond Webster, field secretary of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College is going ahead with its football schedule for 1946 and is confident that it will be set by that time to put an excellent team on the field. Many GI's have already stated that they will enroll on the hill top when the second semester opens in late January.

It appears highly probable that one of the teams to appear on the Husky grid schedule will be College of the City of New York, and if that game is booked it may be staged as a night contest at Athletic Park.

The Huskies are anxious to make contacts in various sports in the New York area.

The Freshman Class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College elected officers for the current year at a recent organization meeting. The class of 1949 of approximately one hundred members, selected the following to serve out the year: President, Harold Miller, Danville; Vice-President, John Guy, Nesquehoning; Secretary, Elizabeth Lehet, Wilkes-Barre; Treasurer, Peter Parnell, Hazleton; Boy Representative, John Morgan, Old Forge; Girl Representative, Betty Jane Anella, Hazleton; Historian, Peggy Ann Lewis, Phoenixville; Advisor, Mr. Gehrig.

The Women's Chorus of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore, presented a musical program at a special College assembly at 10:00 A. M., Monday, December 17. Miss Martha Hathaway, Danville, was accompanist for the chorus which contains about eighty-five members.

Officers of the Women's Chorus are: President, Dorothy Kocher, Espy; Vice-President, Renee Paul, Lavelle; Secretary, Mae Klinger, Lykens; Treasurer, Janet Gilbody, Bloomsburg; Librarians, Marjorie Brace, Hunlock Creek, and Doris Gilday.

Springfield.

Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, has been appointed a member of the Board of Control representing the State of Pennsylvania, of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers.

Part of Dr. North's responsibility will include having charge of intervisitation of students and faculty between member colleges. The Spring meeting of the association will be held as usual, in New York at the Commodore Hotel.

Mr. Lewis Alber, author, world traveler and businessman, was the guest speaker at a recent assembly of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Alber later in the day was the guest of the Economics class in the college in which Mr. William Forney was the instructor.

Dorothy Parrish, talented young pianist, who has presented concerts all over the world, played at the assembly program at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Wednesday, November 14, at 10:00 A. M.

The following members of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College undergraduates have been selected for inclusion in "Who's Who Among the College Students of America," Gloria Beleastro, Wyoming; Athamantia Comuntzis, Bloomsburg; Eileen Falvey, Berwick; John Hmelnicky, Exeter; Kathleen Kurilla, Atlas; Althea Parsell, Orangeville; Mary Schroeder, Easton, and Jacqueline Shaffer, Bloomsburg.

Those selected for this honor were chosen because of outstanding qualities of leadership, academic achievement and campus activities.

Prof. George J. Keller, of the College faculty, returned in October after having been on tour with his wild animal act since May. He started in Windsor, Ontario, and finished at Wilson, North Carolina.

Former Students

Dr. Romain Willard Miller, of Berwick, died Wednesday, December 5, in the Geisinger Memorial Hospital at Danville. Dr. Miller had been in ill health since October, but had been confined to his bed for only two weeks, and had been a patient in the hospital for eight days previous to his death.

He was born in Mainville, and had lived in Berwick since 1904. He was a graduate of the Berwick High School and Temple University, and had practiced dentistry in Berwick since his graduation from Temple.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church and served in World War I at Annapolis as a dentist with the rank of Lieutenant junior grade. He was a charter member of the Berwick American Legion Post. He was also a member of Knapp Lodge 462, Free and Accepted Masons, of Caldwell Consistory, Irem Temple, the Berwick Kiwanis Club, the Berwick Aeronautical Society and the Dentists' Association.

Dr. Miller was an ardent flier, and was an accomplished pilot. He worked tirelessly in the interests of aviation in his home community.

He is survived by his wife and four children.

Miss Catherine Minerva Herman, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Mark A. Herman, of Espy, became the bride of Robert Foster Vanderslice, of Bloomsburg R. D. 4, Saturday afternoon, December 1, at the Espy Evangelical Church. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Herman, father of the bride.

Mrs. Vanderslice is a graduate of the Scott Township High School, class of 1942, and at present is employed in an office at the Bloomsburg Court House.

Mr. Vanderslice has been recently honorably discharged from the Army under the point system. He entered the service in February, 1941, and served with the expeditionary forces in England, Africa and Italy since August, 1942. He had been affiliated with the local National Guard unit from the time of its organization in November, 1939. At present he is employed at the Bloomsburg High School.

Cadet-Midshipman Guild P. Conner, twenty-three, whose home is at Benton, Pa., was graduated from the United States Merchant Marine Academy, at Kings Point, New York

Merchant Marine Academy, at Kings Point, New York.
Ensign Conner received his license as third mate and received an ensign's commission in the United States Maritime Service and the United States Naval Reserve.

The United States Merchant Marine Academy trains officers for the merchant marine just as Annapolis and West Point train officers for the Army and Navy. The academy is on the same basis with respect to the federal government as are West Point and Annapolis.

Ensign Conner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Conner, of Benton, and attended the Benton High School and Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He joined the United States Marine Cadet Corps December 7, 1943, and has served eight months at sea, visiting the Solomon Islands and Australia.

Technician Fifth Grade William W. Hummel, of Espy, has been attending Shrivenham American University in England, where the enrollment consisted of more than 4100 students from all the states of the Union. T/5 Hummel majored in geopolitics. He has returned after having been overseas for over a year, has three campaign stars, and was a member of the 94th Signal Battalion.

Mr. Hummel resumed his work at the College at the beginning of the second semester.

Sgt. David L. Shaffer, of Bloomsburg, Pa., has been honorably discharged from the United States Army Air Forces.

Entering service in August, 1941, Shaffer was overseas 14 months with the 8th Weather Squadron in Canada as a weather observer. A graduate of Bloomsburg High School, he was attending State Teachers College when called for military duty.

Prior to reporting for separation, he was stationed at Malden Army Air Field, an installation of the Air Forces' First Troop Carrier Command, Malden, Mo.

Eleanor Elizabeth Benscoter, of Muhlenberg, and Wilson Scott McCarroll, of Town Line, were married Sunday, October 14, at the home of the bride. Mrs. McCarroll has taught at Town Line and Koonsville, and is at present teaching in Muhlenberg. Mr. McCarroll is employed in Shickshinny.

Mrs. Robert F. Vanderslice, nee Hartman, of Bloomsburg, died Sunday, October 21, at the Bloomsburg Hospital. Her death was due to an embolism. She was born in Hemlock Township, Columbia County and spent all her life in the Bloomsburg area. Her husband died in 1941. She is survived by one daughter, two grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers.

Mrs. Gertrude Hewitt Hopkins, of 130 West Cliff Street, Somerville, New Jersey, died Sunday, November 18, in the Middlesex Nursing Home at Metuchen, following a long illness.

Mrs. Hopkins was associated with the Somerville public school system for twenty-seven years as attendance officer and substitute teacher. A native of Zenith, Pennsylvania, she taught in Pennsylvania before going to Somerville in 1907. She is survived by her husband and one brother.

ber 22, 1945, had the following editorial comment:

"In the death of Mrs. Charles F. Hopkins, Somerville has lost one of its most beloved characters. A "beloved truant officer" might seem to be a contradiction in terms, yet Mrs. Hopkins, in her capacity as truant officer and substitute teacher, was that. True, she could put on a most formidable exterior when some youngster's behavior seemed to call for discipline, and this formidable exterior could be matched with suitable physical force when the situation got beyond the point where other means were effective. There was never a time, however, when Mrs. Hopkins admitted that she was dealing with a "bad boy." She was just working on a problem which soon would be straightened out.

"Many generations of Somerville pupils—most of whom were never guilty of truancy (Mrs. Hopkins was highly effective)—knew her as a substitute teacher. She was on call to teach any grade at any time. She hardly could be expected to carry on with the regular teaching program in such emergencies, but she could enforce discipline and pass the time of day. This she did by generous reading periods, with Mrs. Hopkins as the principal reader. Her selection of stories, and her rendition of them, will be remembered as long as her pupils are alive."

Dr. Thomas S. Armstrong, physician and surgeon in Mc-Keesport for more than 40 years, died recently at his home, 1400 Evans Street, at the age of 63.

He was born in Edwardsville, Pa., May 28, 1882, a son of the late James A. and Mary Armstrong. He received his high school education there, and later attended Wyoming Seminary and Bloomsburg State Normal School from which he was graduated in 1899.

After earning his medical degree at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1903, he interned at McKeesport, Wilkes-Barre and Pittston City hospitals, then opened his office in this city.

Dr. Armstrong joined the McKeesport Hospital orthopedic staff in 1911 and during World War I served as chief examiner of McKeesport Draft Board No. 2.

' He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Allegheny County Medical Association, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, and the American Medical Association. He also belonged to the Masons and the Benevolent and Protected Order of Elks.

Surviving are his wife, Marion Greenwood Armstrong; one son, Dr. T. S. Armstrong, now serving in the U. S. Army at Okmulgee, Okla.; one daughter, Mrs. John C. Moon, of Alexandria, Va.; one sister, Miss Janet Armstrong, of Los Angeles, Cal.; and one brother, Albert, of Prospect, Pa.

Ruth C. Kintner (Mrs. T. D. Parrack) lives at Cathedral Mansions, Ellsworth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She has retired as teacher of English in the Westinghouse High School, Pittsburgh. During the war she wrote letters to hundreds of her former pupils, a loving service which was greatly appreciated. Her son, a neutenant in the United States Coast Guard, expects to return soon to resume his work as owner of a teachers' agency in Washington, D. C.

Stricken with a heart attack while attending a meeting of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club Thursday evening, October 18, Elbert A. Roberts, maintenance superintendent in Columbia County for the State Highway Department, died two and a half hours later at his home in Rupert, where he had been taken in an ambulance. He was sixty years of age at the time of his death.

Mr. Roberts, superintendent in Columbia County since March 8, 1939, and recognized as one of the most efficient in the state, was apparently in his usual health, and his death came as a profound shock to his family and his great number of friends and acquaintances.

A native of Montour Township, he was a graduate of Bloomsburg and taught for some time in the vicinity of Numidia. He was also employed by the Reading Railroad Company, and the Magee Carpet Miil, as well as the Fred Fear Match Company, and for a time was in the employ of the Rockefeller interests in Canada.

Mr. Roberts was a member of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club, Van Camp Lodge of Odd Fellows, and of the Rupert Methodist

Derl Hess, Northumberland County Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture, who organized the teaching of agriculture in the Northumberland County schools 25 years ago, died in the Community Hospital, Sunbury, Saturday, November 10, 1945, three hours after suffering a stroke at his home, 103 South Eleventh Street. He was 61 years of age.

When stricken at three o'clock, he was removed by ambulance to the hospital. His wife and his youngest son, John, were at his bedside when he died. Steps were taken to reach his son, Private Joseph W. Hess, United States Army, who had been at Camp Shanks, N. Y., embarkation point, awaiting orders to sail for foreign service.

Although he had been in failing health for several years, he was about his work as usual in the office of County Superintendent C. E. Hilbish, Friday afternoon, and dictated to Cleon McCreary, clerk in the SUN District, comprising Snyder, Union and Northumberland Counties. The letters, dealing with future vocational activities reached their recipients after his death.

Three years ago he suffered an asthmatic condition which undermined his health. When he had opportunity, he took brief periods of rest, returning from them almost immediately to re-enter his activities with renewed vigor.

He was born May 17, 1884, in Sugarloaf Township, Columbia County, Benton, R. D., the son of C. W. and Mary J. Hess. He attended the township schools, graduated from the high school and then went to Bloomsburg State Teachers College, graduating in 1907 and from the Pennsylvania State College in 1914. He taught school in Columbia County and then became principal of the Sonestown High School, Sullivan County. One of his pupils there was Alice Converse, and some years later they were married.

In his school and college days he played football, baseball and in after life he retained his love of sports. He was one of the area's outstanding fishermen, member of a hunting lodge in Lycoming County, affiliated with various sportsmen's organizations. He was active in promoting amateur athletic leagues, and officiated in many contests. He was strongly imbued with the competitive spirit, and through him his pupils also attained the "will to win." He also managed Sunbury's town baseball team in the West Branch League for a number of years.

He was completely engrossed in his work and profoundly impressed with its importance. His associates said that every utterance "expressed the faith within him."

He was a member of the Pennsylvania Vocational Association, and the Pennsylvania State Educational Association.

He joined Lodge 22, Free and Accepted Masons, early in his career, and served as its master. He also was a member of Northumberland Royal Arch Chapter and Mt. Hermon Commandery 85, Knights Templar.

He was an active member of the Masonic Temple Club, and frequently engaged in billiard games in the club rooms.

He affiliated with the Odd Fellows lodge at Espy early in his career and retained membership there.

He was outstanding in affairs of the First Presbyterian Church, an elder and teacher of the Men's Bible Class.

He is survived by his wife and the following children: Jane Converse Hasek, wife of Carl W. Hasek, Jr., Ridgeway, N. J.; Robert L. Hess, at State College, engaged in research work; Private Joseph Hess, with the U. S. Army at a port of embarkation; John M. C. Hess, at home; three grandchildren, Thomas and Peter Hasek, and Ann Lindsay Hess; one sister, Mrs. George Follmer, Benton, R. D., now residing at the old family homestead. Derl Hess, Jr., preceded his father in death in 1938.

David R. Moses lives at 132½ State Street, Salem, Oregon. In a recent letter he states that he had an interesting visit with Miss May T. Hayden, a former member of the college faculty.

1911

Ray E. Cole, Superintendent of the schools of Columbia County, has been re-elected district chairman of the Fishing Creek Boy Scout District Committee.

1912

Ruth Nuss (Mrs. Howard F. Fenstemaker) died Wednesday, December 5, at the Bloomsburg Hospital from a complication of diseases. She had been in failing health for several weeks and had been at the hospital for a week.

A native of Manville, Pa., she was born November 5, 1893, the daughter of Mrs. Annie S. Nuss and the late Jere B. Nuss. She moved to Bloomsburg with her parents in 1906, and lived in Bloomsburg since that time, except for seven years immediately following her marriage, when she lived in Highland Park, Michigan.

She was a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School, in the class of 1910, of the Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1912, and of Drexel Institute in 1917. Following her graduation from the Normal School, she taught for one year in Mordansville and for two years in Montour Township, and, after her graduation from Drexel, she was instructor in home economics at the Benton Vocational High School.

She was married July 23, 1919, and went with her husband to Highland Park, Michigan, where the latter was an instructor in the Highland Park High School and Junior College.

Mrs. Fenstemaker was a member of the choir of the First Baptist Church during all the years of her residence in Bloomsburg. She was the teacher of a young married women's class which, in her honor, was named the Ruth N. Bible Class. She was sponsor of the World Wide Guild and a member of the Women's Missionary Society.

At the time of her death, she was serving her second year as regent of the Fort McClure Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was also a member of the Ivy Club.

She was active on the home front through World War II, and was a member of the consumers' panel of the Office of Price Administration. She headed the Red Cross home nursing courses through the war, and served on the nursing committee of the Bloomsburg Hospital. She was a member of the executive board of the Bloomsburg Chapter of the American Red Cross, and for years was active in the Girl Scouts. For a long period she provided transportation for the Red Cross crippled children's program, taking scores of children to the clinics held in the area.

Surviving are her husband and two children: Howard F. Fenstemaker, Jr., honorably discharged from the Army after serving with the armed forces in the European theatre, and Miss Mary Louise Fenstemaker, who has been serving as a secretary with the Pennsylvania Central Airlines at the National Airport, Washington, D. C. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Annie Supplee Nuss, of Bloomsburg, and by a brother, Preston S. Nuss, who lives in Wayne, Michigan.

Funeral services were held Saturday, December 8, at the First Baptist Church, and were very largely attended. Services were in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Malcolm C. Hunsicker, assisted by the Rev. L. M. Fetterolf, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Pottsville. Burial took place in the New Announcement has been made by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation that a fellowship, valued at $2,500, has been awarded to Lieutenant Colonel John Bakeless, associate professor of journalism at New York University. Mr. Bakeless plans the preparation of a biography of Lewis and Clark. This is the second fellowship awarded by the Foundation to Lieutenant Colonel Bakeless. The first resulted in the writing of the biography of Daniel Boone.

Arthur C. Morgan, of Berwick, after an excellent record of services in the Pennsylvania Guard, has resigned his commission as major because of the press of other activities. Major Morgan, who is assistant principal of the Berwick High School, chairman of the Draft Board, and secretary of the American Legion Home Association, commanded the battalion that includes Company D at Pottsville, Company E at Williamsport, Company F at Berwick, and Headquarters Detachment at Sunbury.

Major Morgan's military career began when he enlisted in the Army in May, 1917, at Fort Slocum, New York, and went overseas. He saw action in all the engagements of the Eightieth Division, and returned to this country in June, 1919. He was commissioned a first lieutenant and commander of Company F in May, 1941, and became captain in August of the same year. While he commanded Company F, it had a strength of 120 men, with many more in the reserve list. In the first year the company was called out to guard bridges of the area for six weeks, providing valuable guard service during the emergency.

In June, 1943, he became acting executive of the battalion, and was made commanding officer of the battalion in December, 1943, with the rank of major. Since that time, the battalion has been outstanding in state and federal inspections, and was judged the best of the regiment at Indiantown Gap last year.

Priority For Veterans At Teachers College

Letters are going out to 700 veterans of World War II who are graduates or who attended the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, explaining that they will be given a priority at Bloomsburg if they wish to continue their education here.

The letter is being mailed out under the signature of President Harvey A. Andruss. Only veterans who are former students at Bloomsburg will be granted priority, and the letter is a frank statement of the situation, explaining the number of students which the local college can accommodate.

The letter follows:

"Upon my return to Bloomsburg after six months in the European Theatre of Operations, I am gratified to find that we have more than one hundred entering students for the second semester, which began January 23, 1946. Three-fourths of this number are returned veterans who are taking advantage of the educational provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

"A feeling of gratification is now followed by a feeling of some anxiety as to the ability of the college to admit all those who may want to return.

"We have the names of more than 700 Bloomsburg students and graduates who have served in the armed forces, and this letter is being sent to each name on our list at the last address, asking that you help us to hold a place for those veterans who want to return to Bloomsburg to complete their college education. This group will be given an A-1 priority on our list, subject to our housing limitations. Married veterans will be admitted as long as adequate housing exists in the town of Bloomsburg. However, it will be necessary for each veteran to let us know, well in advance, when he intends to return and if he intends to live in the college dormitory or reside in the town of Bloomsburg as a married veteran.

"Graduates of high school are going to college in larger numbers since the war is over and employment is slackening.

"We also have an opportunity to cooperate with Pennsylvania State College in accepting some of their students for a limited time, after which they will transfer to Pennsylvania State College.

"It seems at this time there will be more students seeking entrance to colleges and universities in America than can be accommodated. We do not want to refuse any former student the opportunity to continue his education at Bloomsburg, However, we shall begin immediately to compile a list of those who expect to return. These reservations will be closed on April 1, 1946, since our high school contacts begin after the Easter vacation. After April 1, 1946, we shall open our enrollment to worthy high school Seniors.

"Since our housing accommodations are limited to 400 resident students, we will of necessity close our registration when that number is reached. Registration for married veterans will be closed when adequate housing accommodations in or near the town of Bloomsburg are exhausted. Day students living at home may be accepted above that number. Women students attending this college are expected to live in the college dormitories unless they live at home, or are working in Bloomsburg for their board and room under approved conditions.

"Please fill out the enclosed card and return to us immediately, indicating whether or not you expect to return to Bloomsburg. Your complete mailing address for future use will be appreciated.

"It will also be necessary for you to make immediate reservation by drawing a check payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or securing a money order drawn on the Postmaster at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, for $10.00 and mailing immediately to Harvey A. Andruss, president State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania.

Alumni Day -- May 25, 1946

Plans are well underway for the largest Alumni Day celebration in years. The day's activities will begin with the annual Commencement Exercises, which will be followed by the Alumni meeting. A full program has been planned for the afternoon and evening, but detailed announcement cannot be made at the time of going to press. Notice will be sent to all graduates whose correct addresses are on file. There is no need of urging the Alumni to come back to Bloomsburg on May 25; they will miss something if they stay away.

Fifty Taking CAP Training

The war is over, but the Civil Air Patrol is carrying on, with approximately fifty boys of fifteen to eighteen years fitting themselves for the advancement of peace-time aviation and elementary military training.

The work, which covers various subjects, is taken at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and the Bloomsburg Airport.

The cadet program of the civil air patrol covers a broad field in aviation. The movement started with the training of young men before they were called for army service, giving them many of the fundamentals before they entered the service as air cadets. It continues to promote the advancement of peace time aviation as well as to insure a flow of young men who are ready to go into military aviation should the need again rise.

Five years ago the nation-wide program was launched originally to fulfill flight missions that the army and navy had neither the machines nor the men to divert to that type of work. This included coastal patrol, border patrol and courier service. As soon as the armed forces became fully equipped, this program was taken from CAP to a great extent.

During the war CAP provided training for thousands of boys before entering the service. At the present time this training is continued with peace-time objectives.

Navigation, meteorology, engines and maintenance, theory of flight, first aid, use of controls, map reading, communications, military drill, field maneuvers and concealment are the major subjects covered in the program.

A boy may enter at the age of fifteen and continue the instruction three years during which he would have taken up the

The local program is under the direct supervision of Lieut. Frank P. Pursel, Jr., who has been associated with the work two years. His assistants include: Executive Officer Lieut. Eugene Yurkovsky; adjutant, Warrant Officer Lester Hart; intelligence officer, Lieut. George Buchheit; supply, Lieut. E. A. Reams; training officer, Lieut. James Gillespy; communications officer, Lieut. H. Woods; operations officer, Capt. Roy D. Snyder. Lieut. Joseph Gillespy, Serg. Robert Nietz, Serg. William Vought, William Forney, J. Clair Patterson are serving as instructors and are members of the Senior organization. Clifford Luthod, manager of the Bloomsburg Airport, has given much valuable assistance.

Meetings are held every Thursday evening, and the attendance is unusually good. The boys are uniformed, with each cadet required to purchase the uniform. Classes get underway at seven o'clock and continue for two or two and a half hours. The work is scheduled, with the time allotted for each subject dependent upon the scope of the work to be learned.

The unit is set up for emergency mobilization, which might occur in the event of a lost plane, lost persons, forest fire or disaster of any kind.

The only funds received from either state or federal governments are those for training equipment which includes each items as training turrets, code training sets, navigational trainer and manuals. Supervision is all voluntary, nor do the members of the unit receive pay.

It is the hope of the Civil Air Patrol to enlist into membership any returned war veterans interested in aviation, regardless if the person served in the air corps forces.

To date flight instruction has not been made available except where the cadet pays for this work. However, it is hoped in the future to offer flight scholarships to outstanding cadets.

Elementary Group Organized

The Elementary Education Group of the Future Teachers of America was organized at a dinner meeting held in the college dining-room Wednesday, December 12. The officers of the club are as follows: President, Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg; Vice-President, Dora Brown, York; Secretary, Lorraine Utt, Orangeville; Treasurer, Mrs. Carl Shultz, Benton; Sponsor, Miss Edna Hazen, Director of Elementary Education.

The club was fortunate in having two guest speakers since its organization. Mrs. Charles Beeman demonstrated art work dealing with nature study. At a later meeting, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, a former missionary teacher in Japan, told of her experiences as a teacher of the Japanese people.

The club is planning a meeting for teachers in service who are graduates of Bloomsburg. It is to be a social get-together.

Reminiscences

Long Commencement programs have gone out of fashion. Proof of this fact may be established by comparing the usual program of today with that presented June 24, 1886. The program began at 9:30 A. M., and it is a question whether the participants were out in time for lunch. The program was as follows:

Those who were students at the Bloomsburg State Normal School during the administration of Dr. Waller will recall that, once a year, Dr. Waller would make remarks to the students, warning them of the dangers of going from one room to the next by way of the windows. His remarks found their source in a fatal accident that occurred in 1884, the details of which are related in an old copy of the Columbia County Republican, dated January 31, 1884. There are many alumni still living who remember the accident.

The newspaper account is as follows:

"On Friday morning of last week, a frightful accident occurred at the Normal School, and resulted in the almost instantaneous death of one of the students. Soon after breakfast, or about a quarter before eight, a young man named George W. Suplee, Jr., a son of Squire Suplee of Jerseytown, as he was getting ready for school, left his room and went to another portion of the dormitory for his hat. It seemed he had been calling the evening before, and left his hat in a friend's room on the third floor. He found the room locked and the occupants out. The door of the adjoining room was open, although its occupant was also out. Young Suplee went into this room, hoisted the window, and proposed to climb around the outside into the window of the adjoining room.

"As he was leaning out and stooping to raise the window, his feet slipped on the ice-coated window sill and he fell to the ground below. In his fall, he first struck upon his head on the frozen snow and ice. The young man who saw him fall, speedily informed Mr. Wells, the steward. He was picked up and carried into the building, and Dr. Reber was summoned. The doctor found his skull crushed and his neck broken.

"J. M. Clark, Esq., was notified. He summoned the following jury: J. C. Brown, J. R. Townsend, I. W. Niles, William Chrisman, F. C. Eyer and M. C. Woodward, who, after examining the body and calling a few witnesses, rendered a verdict of accidental death in accordance with facts above related.

"Mr. Suplee's father was notified. He came about noon and had his son's body removed to his home in the afternoon. Mr. Suplee had a sister in school at the same time.

"The funeral was held at the residence of Mr. Suplee's parents near Jerseytown on Sunday, January 27. The sympathy of the public for the bereaved family was seen in the unusually large attendance upon the obsequies. Over six hundred persons were in the solemn procession. Some of the professors and many of the students were among the number. The services were held in the Baptist Church at White Hall, and were conducted by Rev. H. C. Munro, assisted by Rev. Dr. D. J. Waller and Rev. Prof. Curran. Prof. Noetling and the students very feelingly sang appropriate music for the occasion. The deceased was a young man of more than ordinary promise. Apt and diligent in study, with a disposition and character that command the respect of all who knew him."

At a meeting of the students of the Bloomsburg State Normal School held January 26, 1884, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, In the dispensation of His all-wise providence, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our esteemed fellow-student, George W. Suplee, Jr., an earnest student, a genial companion, and an ambitious and promising young man, therefore be it

"Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the divine will of our Heavenly Father, yet it is befitting and proper that we place on record a testimonial of high regard for him, and

"Resolved, That while we deeply mourn the loss which we have sustained, we sincerely hope that this loss of ours will prove an eternal gain to our departed associate.

"Resolved, That we send our tenderest sympathy to the bereaved family of the deceased in this, their sad affliction.

"Resolved, That we attend in a body the funeral service of our late friend and companion.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased and also be published in the Bloomsburg Columbian and in The Republican."

F. T. A. Chapter Organized

The Bakeless Chapter of Future Teachers of America was formally inducted at a dinner meeting on the Bloomsburg State Teachers College campus Monday evening, March 4, 1946. Miss Eileen Falvey, President of the local chapter of F. T. A., introduced Mr. Raymond C. Webster, Assistant Executive Secretary of the P. S. E. A. who presented the charter to the group. Webster administered the pledge, which was followed by group singing of "I Would Be True."

"A Teacher, Oscar Hugh Bakeless" was the theme of an enlightening and interesting talk delivered by President Harvey A. Andruss.

Mr. Webster then paid tribute to the impressive plaque and decorations, which were in charge of Miss Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg. He also outlined the activities, duties and work of the P. S. E. A. and N. E. A.

The newly initiated members of F. T. A. include Mark Wanich, Lightstreet; Dora Brown, York; Eileen Falvey, Berwick; Lorraine Fichter, Hazleton; Margaret Kane, Shenandoah; Helen Fehl, Reading; Lola Good, Wapwallopen; Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg; Kay Kurilla, Atlas; Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland; Rose Cerchiare, Nesquehoning; Karliss Knight, Bloomsburg; Martha Stitzel, Hamburg; Evelyn Witman, Shillington; John Hmelnicky, Exeter; Hazel Keeler, Espy; Reed Buckingham, York; Frances Saunders, Danville; Mary Longo, Sheppton; Athamantia Comuntzis, Bloomsburg; Isabel Gehman, Ephrata; Marian Creveling, Bloomsburg; Vincent Husovsky, Swoyersville; Lorraine Utt, Orangeville; James LaBarr, Wilkes-Barre; Stephen M. Hotz, Hudson; Dorothy Kocher, Espy; Jacqueline Shaffer, Bloomsburg; Betty Shultz, Benton; Betty Smith, of Catawissa; Anna Pappas, of Danville; Marie Krum, Bloomsburg; Mary Schroeder, Easton; Kathleen Hess, Dalton; Anna Bucinell, Forrest City; Lillian Guis, Sheppton; Eltheda Klingman, Shumans; Violet Weller, Turbotville; Martha Donahue, Shippensburg; Ralph Tremato, Mt. Carmel; Betty Lingle, Lewisburg; Paul Rowlands, Nanticoke; Frank J. Novelli, Mocanaqua; Gloria Gillis, Duryea; Janet Shultz, Philadelphia and Ann Williams, Luzerne. Other guests included: Shirley Keiser, Dalton; Frances Mylet, Sugarloaf; Mae Klinger, Lykens; Betty Adams, Dalmatia; Harriet Rhodes, Bloomsburg; Edith Fling, Glenside; Florence S. Hartline, Bloomsburg.

Faculty guests were: Harvey A. Andruss, Dr. and Mrs. T. P. North, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Forney, Joseph R. Bailer, Miss Edna J. Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gehrig, Bertha Rich, Anna G. Scott, Miss C. C. Van Scoyoc, Iva Mae Van Scoyoc, H. Harrison Russell, Ethel A. Ranson, Grace Woolworth, Elma L. Major, Edna Barnes, Dr. and Mrs. Kimber Kuster, and the guest speaker, Raymond C. Webster.

Students Complete Work

Thirteen students completed the requirements for the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Education at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

A convocation was held in the College Auditorium to commemorate the event, and the graduating class was addressed by President Harvey A. Andruss, who spoke on the topic of "So You're Going to Teach."

The part of education in the world weary of war, so as to promote peace, was in the light of the meetings of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization, which met in London, November 1 to 16, 1945. President Andruss, who was stationed at Shrivenham as Head of the Department of Accounting in the American Army University there, attended some of the sessions.

The place of education in the new world order for peace can be realized from the statement that "war is made in the minds of men and it is there that the defenses of peace must be constructed." Each generation must be educated to understand that race, color, and creed must cooperate and understand one another to the end that they live together in this world where transportation has made everyone the neighbor of everyone else. The teacher of children—the next generation—is, therefore, in a strategic position to build for the peace of the world of tomorrow.

The graduates included: Linda Culver, Elementary, Wyalusing; Edwin Deleski, Business, Bloomsburg; Doris Dickinson, Elementary, LaPlume; Elizabeth Ertel, Business, Williamsport; Henry Gatski, Secondary, Bloomsburg; Wanda Kehler, Business, Ashland; Virginia King, Secondary, Dallas; Norine Miles, Business, Shenandoah; Audrey Althea Parsell, Secondary, Orangeville; Winifred Romberger, Elementary, Elizabethville; Phyllis Schrader, Elementary, and Special Ed., Lewisburg; Charles Wagner, Secondary, Mt. Carmel; and Mary Yearick, Elementary, Selinsgrove.

New officers of the local Kappa Delta Pi Chapter are announced as: President, Eileen Falvey, Berwick; Vice President, Mary Schroeder, Easton; Recording Secretary, Athamantia Comuntzis, Bloomsburg; Corresponding Secretary, Shirley Keiser, Dalton, and Treasurer, Kathleen Hess, Dalton. Recent initiates in Kappa Delta Pi who are Juniors and

Seniors at Bloomsburg in the upper quartile of their classes include: Alberta Naunas, Karliss Knight, Helen Wright and Harriet Rhodes, Bloomsburg; Reed Buckingham, York; Kay Kurilla, Atlas; Anna Bucinell, Forest City, and Isabel Gehman, Ephrata.

Speaks on G. I. Problems

Kimball Young, grandson of Brigham Young, was the speaker at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College on Wednesday morning, January 30, 1946, at 10:00 o'clock. This was the first convocation of the second semester.

Doctor Young was Head of the Department of Sociology at Shrivenham American "Army" University, Shrivenham, Berkshire, England, at the same time President Harvey A. Andruss was stationed there as Head of the Department of Accounting.

As President of the American Sociological Society, and having twice been selected by the War Department to act in a research capacity in the European Theatre of Operations, Doctor Young can draw upon a background of rich contacts in discussing the subject "The Veteran and the Post-War World." Over a period of years he has been on the faculty of University of Oregon, University of Wisconsin, and Clark University. He is the present Head of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Queens College, Flushing, New York, and Lecturer in Social Psychology at the New School of Social Research, New York City.

Doctor Young is also the author of numerous books in his field and is editor of the Sociology Series of text books published by the American Book Company.

In his address, Dr. Young pointed out that the veteran of this war averaged two years of high school education, which is five years more than averaged in the last war. One phase of the problem concerning the returning veteran concerns the fact that in the eyes of his family and friends in the community he returns the same boy they saw enter the service, while actually his military experience has caused him to age far beyond his years.

The veteran will find, according to recent surveys, openings in the following vocations: dentistry, medicine, architecture, teaching at all levels, librarians, county agents, sports directors, social workers and all phases of construction work. Unfortunately many veterans would like to enter the fields of radio, photography, aviation, pharmacy, engineering, auto mechanics and draftsmen, in which there are few vacancies. The veteran is very much interested in an attempt to maintain world peace through international organizations but he is reluctant to see this nation give up its complete sovereignty. Four out of ten veterans expect another world war in twenty-five years.

Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction at Bloomsburg, was elected Vice-President of the Department of Higher Education of the Pennsylvania State Education Association at the meeting held in Harrisburg last December.

Reception To New Students

Representatives of different groups, including former service men, were introduced at the reception held Friday evening, February 15, for entering students at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The affair opened in the college auditorium, where Helen M. Wright, President of the Community Government Association, welcomed the new students on behalf of the student body. President Harvey A. Andruss spoke briefly and introduced the following as representatives of various groups now attending the college: Shirley Evans, Forty Fort, who previously attended the Benjamin Franklin Training School at the college; James Tierney, New York City, a former Navy V-12 student at Bloomsburg who had seen service in the Mediterranean and England; Nancy McHenry, Stillwater, transfer from Penn State; Dorothy Snyder, Bloomsburg, representing the Waves; Helen Arment, Bloomsburg, representing the Wacs; William Miller, Hummelstown, who with his brother, were the only twins to fly in the same bomber over Japan; Jay Scarcella, Hazleton, who served in the Merchant Marine in the Mediterranean and Philippines.

Representing the young married couples at Bloomsburg were Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Dalberg, of Windber, Pa. Among the former Bloomsburg Service men who have returned to college here were: Army, Royal Conrad, Benton, who served in Germany; Air, Andrew Magill, Sugarloaf, who wears R. A. F. wings as well as A. A. F. and flew in India; Marine, Vincent Husovsky, Swoyersville, who served at Guadalcanal; Coast Guard, Robert Martin, Edwardsville, who was a photographer on a troop ship; Navy, Walter Kritzberger, Courtdale, who was an instructor.

A short play under the supervision of Miss Alice Johnston and student direction of Gloria Mainiero, Hazleton, concluded the auditorium program. The cast included: Betty Jane Anella, Hazleton; Shirley Boughner, Trevorton; Ruth Swartz, Millerstown; Betty Bolig, Richfield; June Hontz and Jean Hooper, both of Shickshinny.

Refreshments were served in the Social Rooms after a brief reception, followed by dancing in the Waller Hall gymnasium.

Mrs. A. Park Orth died Sunday, January 13, at her home in Harrisburg. She had been confined to her bedroom for six weeks previous to her death. She is survived by her husband, a former member of the faculty at Bloomsburg, by two daughters, and her mother.

Receives Air Agency Certificate

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College has received their joint Air Agency certificate No. 2911 from the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington, D. C. The college holds this certificate with Columbia Aircraft Service operating at the Bloomsburg Airport.

The Air Agency certificate entitles the college to offer complete ground school courses from primary through commercial and flight instructor ratings. Five members of the regular college faculty are licensed under C. A. A. to offer ground school courses in Civil Air Regulations, Navigation, Meteorology, Theory of Flight, Engines and General Service of Aircraft. A great deal of technical equipment, including instruments, maps, weather charts, movies, etc., used by the college in its military aviation programs remain available for present use. Also included among the equipment at the college is a complete airplane, three types of wing structure and three motors.

Available at the airport for practical flight work are three primary trainers, three secondary planes and a Fairchild and Vultee for advanced work. A Grumman twin-engine amphibious is available for training and charter work. Twelve new ships have been ordered, including five amphibiaus.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT INCREASED

Returning from service in all parts of the world, over one hundred veterans of World War II entered Bloomsburg at the beginning of the second semester, effecting a marked increase in the College enrollment. The enrollment had reached its lowest point in November, after the close of the V-12 program. For the first time in several years, North Hall, the men's

For the first time in several years, North Hall, the men's dormitory, is filled, and there is an overflow of men students who have secured rooms in town. About thirty of the veterans are married, and apartments were secured for them through the cooperation of the Bloomsburg Chamber of Commerce.

The staff for the "Obiter," yearbook of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, has been announced. The class of 1946 which sponsors the year-book has selected the following to serve on the staff: Co-editors, Rose Cerchiaro, Nesquehoning and Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg; Business Manager, Ann Bucinell, Forrest City; Photography Chairman, Isabel Gehman, Ephrata. Kay Kurilla, Atlas, originally appointed editor, had to relinquish the position because of illness.

Individual and group pictures are being taken at the present time for the year-book which will be published later in the

Former Students

Faculty, school directors and employes of the Conyngham School District held a testimonial dinner Thursday evening, January 25, at Meg's Restaurant, Aristes, in honor of Miss Mercy E. Gottshall, retired teacher who recently completed 29 years of teaching in the Conyngham Township High School.

John J. Reilly, supervising principal of the Conyngham

John J. Reilly, supervising principal of the Conyngham township schools, acted as toastmaster. During the dinner he presented Miss Gottshall with a gift on behalf of the district.

Speakers included Ray M. Cole, superintendent of Columbia county schools; Russel M. Kostenbauder, principal of Conyngham Township High School; and Daniel Weller, Guy Beaver, Clarence Tilmont, Violetta Rupert and Martha B. Martz, members of the faculty.

Miss Cecelia R. Brennan led the group singing.

On Friday morning, January 26, the students of Conyngham Township Junior and Senior High School presented a farewell program dedicated to Miss Gottshall.

Miss Ione Hendershott, of West Chester, formerly of Bloomsburg, and Rodney C. Williams, Sp. A 2-c, of Margate City, New Jersey, were married in February at the Methodist Church in West Chester. The bride is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and of the West Chester State Teachers College. Mr. Williams was graduated from the Atlantic City High School and the Pennington Preparatory School. He attended the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College until he was called to the service. He was a member of the V-12 unit at Bloomsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Williams are now living in Astoria, Oregon, where the former is stationed at the Naval Air Station.

Miss Loretta Anne Clancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin N. Clancy, Alderton Street, Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., and William G. Lentz, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lentz, East Fifth Street, Bloomsburg, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, March 2, at 3:30 o'clock in the Ascension Church, Forest Hills. The Rev. Andrew J. McKeon, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was a doctor's secretary in the Medical Center, New York City. Mr. Lentz is a graduate of Bloomsburg High School and attended Gettysburg Academy and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He entered the service in 1942 and served in Ceylon, Burma, India and China as a photographer with the British Army. He received his discharge in December.

Word has been received of the recent election of George A. Getty, president of the Brookville Bank and Trust Company, Brookville, Pa., as president of the Thrift Plan of Pennsylvania.

Born at Numidia in 1888, son of George W. and Matilda (Hoffman) Getty, he was educated in the public schools and at the Bloomsburg Normal School. He began his career as a worker in the car shops at Berwick.

After leaving this area, he held positions in Norristown, St. Benedict and Summerville. He was president of the Union National Bank in Summerville from 1921 until 1927, and in 1936 was elected to his present position in Brookville.

In 1925, Mr. Getty was instrumental in having the Hanley Company of Bradford locate at Summerville, its brick plant now one of the most modern plants of its kind in the United States.

For the past seven years he has been connected with Thrift Plan of Pennsylvania, and is director of Thrift Investment Corporation and T. I. C. Consumer Discount Company.

Pfc. Robert D. Hopfer, of Bloomsburg, has been discharged from the Army after serving for three years in the European Theatre of Operations. He was awarded the Bronze Arrowhead with five battle stars, and the Good Conduct ribbon. He received his basic training at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. His present home is in Buffalo, New York.

A son was born Tuesday, November 27, to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rockwell, of Chalfonte. Mr. Rockwell is principal of the Chalfonte school. Mrs. Rockwell is the former Violet Pataki, of Bloomsburg.

The Elementary Education Club of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Edna Hazen, Director of Elementary Education.

The program was a particularly enjoyable one, as the Club was very fortunate in having as its guest speaker, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, a former B. S. T. C. graduate. She was a former missionary teacher in Japan, having taught in the Philippines, after which she was forced to hide out for six months in the jungles. Miss Schmidt is able to speak the Japanese language fluently.

Refreshments were served to the following: Dora Brown, York; Marian Creveling, Bloomsburg; Margaret Kane, Shenandoah; Charles Harmony, State College; Stephen Hotz, Hudson; Dorothy Kocher, Espy; Marie Krum, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Carl Shultz, Betty Smith, Catawissa; Martha Stitzel, Hamburg; Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg; Lorraine Utt, Orangeville; Dorothy Schmidt, Scranton, and Miss Edna Hazen.

CAMPUS NOTES

The work of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg, Pa., in the field of Aviation Education is favorably commended in an article published in "National Aeronautics" written by Dr. Edgar S. Fuller, Acting Chief of the Aviation Education Division of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C. Dr. Fuller will soon leave C. A. A. to become Commissioner of Education for New Hampshire.

In his article in which Dr. Fuller deplores the fact that so few U. S. colleges recognize the importance of Aviation Education, Dr. Fuller points with commendation to the fact that Bloomsburg has been offering aviation courses for teachers since 1940. Dr. Fuller notes that Bloomsburg has been approved by the State Department of Public Instruction for the education of high school aeronautics teachers in Pennsylvania and that a four year program of courses in aeronautics is available leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education. Aviation Education courses are also available for elementary school teachers.

Dr. Fuller also mentions the aviation workshop and laboratory school which includes both ground school and flight, which is available in monthly courses in July and August at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College for high school boys and girls, and teachers of aviation courses.

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, recently attended a regional meeting of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association held at Philadelphia, Pa.

This meeting was attended by the Educational Consultants of this National Organization from the States of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Among the speakers were Dr. Kenneth Holland of the Inter-American Union; Dr. Walter G. Carr, Executive Director of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association.

For the last meeting the group of Educational Consultants adjourned from the Philadelphia Board of Education Building to the Girls' High School in order that they might join with a larger group addressed by Archibald MacLeish, formerly Assistant Secretary of State.

The program was built around the forthcoming publications of the National Education Association and a description of UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) which was formed in November, 1945, in London, during the time that President Andruss was stationed at Shrivenham American University.

Twenty-five undergraduates of Bloomsburg State Teachers College have achieved the Dean's Honor List for the first semester 1945-46 as announced by Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction, at the college. To attain the honor list, a high Quality Point average for the current semester and a high cumulative grade average is required.

The list includes: Ann Bucinell, Forest City; Eileen Falvey, Berwick; Isabel Gehman, Ephrata and Mary Schroeder, Easton, Seniors in Business Curriculum. Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland; Athamantia Comuntzis, Bloomsburg; Lillian Guis, Sheppton; Karliss Kight, Bloomsburg; Ralph McCracken, Riverside and Althea Parsell, Orangeville, Seniors in Secondary Curriculum. Doris Dickinson, LaPlume and Jacqueline Shaffer, Bloomsburg, Seniors in Elementary Curriculum. Juniors—Shirley Keiser, Dalton, Elementary; Ellen Moore, Bloomsburg, Secondary and Harriet Rhodes, Bloomsburg, Business. Sophomores—Anne Baldy, Catawissa and Mary Rush, Lewisburg, Secondary; Martha Hathaway, Danville and Dorothy Winkelblech, Berwick, Elementary. Freshmen—Verna Cope, Berwick, Secondary; Louise Garard, Lewisburg, Elementary; Elizabeth Lehet, of Wilkes-Barre, Business; Anita Webb, Bloomsburg and Anne Wright, Bloomsburg, Secondary. Special Education — Amy Jacobson, Williamsport.

Miss Alice Johnston has returned to the speech department of the college after a year's leave of absence. She was a member of the speech department at Hunter College for the semester last Spring and since then has been engaged in rehabilitation work in the hearing program at the Hoff Army Hospital in California.

E. A. Reams, of the social studies departments, is back to resume his work after visiting in California. He and Mrs. Reams made the trip across the continent by motor, traveling by way of Arizona, New Mexico, and East Florida. While in Georgia they visited with Miss Ermine Stanton, a former member of the faculty of the Benjamin Franklin School.

The Kindergarten has resumed at the Benjamin Franklin School and is filled. Miss Grace Woolworth, as in the past, is the teacher. Miss Harriet M. Moore, for the balance of this school year, is the teacher of the third grade in the school.

New linoleum-tile flooring has been laid in the first floors of Noetling, Carver and Waller Halls, the result being a great improvement in the appearance of the corridors. The project which was under the supervision of Nevin Englehart, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, included the raising of floor joists, securing foundations and the placing of a plywood base. The tile was laid by the Gentzler Tile and Marble Company of York, Pennsylvania.

The Dramatic Club of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston, presented their annual play Thursday evening, April 11. The play selected for presentation this year, "The Man Who Came To Dinner," was the popular and well known Broadway success which later enjoyed a profitable movie presentation.

This year's play was the first in two years because of the absence of Miss Johnston from the college campus and was the first all-civilian presentation since the beginning of World War II. The cast this year included a number of returned veterans, some of whom were featured in the last play given by the Dramatic Club before the war started. War-year plays included members of the Navy V-12 groups stationed at Bloomsburg.

The cast for "The Man Who Came To Dinner" included: William DeWitt, Schuylkill Haven; John O'Donnell, Coaldale; Robert Millard, Spring City; James LaBarr, Wilkes-Barre; Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland; Evelyn Hirt, Berwick; Gerry Demaree, Berwick; Harold Swisher, Falls Church, Va.; Helen Richard, Lightstreet; Isabel Gehman, Ephrata; William Miller, Hummelstown; Karliss Kight, Bloomsburg; Ann Williams, Luzerne, and Harry Reitz, Shamokin.

Over three hundred students are registered for the second semester at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College including a hundred veterans who are resuming or beginning their preparation for teaching in the schools of Pennsylvania. Some college organizations, which lapsed temporarily during the past several years, will begin to function in normal fashion again. A college band under the direction of Prof. Howard Fenstemaker, has begun rehearsals.

The college dramatic club, which continued during last semester under the supervision of Prof. Bailer and Miss Van Scoyoc, will continue with increased membership under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston. recently returned from a year's leave of absence. During that time she was on the faculty of Hunter College, New York, and a staff member of Hoff Hospital, California, where she was engaged in speech rehabilitation for returned service men.

Mr. Bertrand Shurtleff, nationally known authority on wrestling and author, presented a very interesting program at a recent assembly at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Shurtleff spoke on the many interesting phases of professional and amateur wrestling and illustrated with the aid of several college students, much of his material.

Shurtleff, former professional football player, drew heavily on his vast experiences as a wrestler, football player and athlete, for colorful illustrations.

The Elementary Group of Future Teachers of America at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College recently organized at a dinner meeting in the college dining room. Mrs. Charles Bee-man was the guest speaker at the meeting.

This club was organized as a means of developing educational ideas and uniting students in the elementary fields. The officers in the club are: President, Marjorie Stover, Lewisburg: Vice-President, Dora Brown, York; Secretary, Lorraine Utt, Orangeville; Treasurer, Mrs. Betty Shultz, Benton, and Sponsor, Miss Edna Hazen, Director of the Elementary Education.

The members of the club are as follows: Marian Creveling, Bloomsburg; Jean Dickinson, LaPlume; Margaret Kane, Shenandoah; Dorothy Kocher, Espy; Marie Krum, Bloomsburg; Phyllis Schrader, Lewisburg; Jacqueline Shaffer, Bloomsburg; Betty Smith, Catawissa; Martha Stitzel, Hamburg.

Undergraduates and faculty representatives of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College attended the Twentieth Annual Spring Conference of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers at New York City, Thursday and Friday, March 14 and 15. The meetings were held at the Hotel Commodore, and the theme of the conference was "Education for a New World."

Miss Helen M. Wright, Bloomsburg, President of the Community Government Association at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was a member of a panel discussion scheduled for 2:00 P. M., Thursday afternoon. The panel discussion topic was "Curricular Needs and Interests of Students."

The group representing Bloomsburg included: Helen Wright and Janet Gilbody, Bloomsburg; Eileen Falvey, Berwick; Ralph McCracken, Danville; John Hmelnicky, Exeter; Dr. Marguerite Kehr, Dean of Women and John C. Koch, Dean of Men.

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was reelected Secretary of the Cooperative Commission on Teacher Education at a meeting held in Harrisburg in February. Other officers are Dr. Arthur Ferguson, Superintendent of Schools, York, Pennsylvania, President; Dr. Frank Kramer, Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, Vice-President, and Dr. I. M. Wright, Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pennsylvania, reelected as Treasurer.

This organization is a planning body intending to coordinate all teacher education institutions of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Consideration was given to "The Building of Attitudes in an Atomic Age," and a discussion with a representative of the American Council on Education on "Newer Practices of In-Service Teacher Education," at the two meetings held by this body.

William C. Johnston, eighty-five, of East Third Street Bloomsburg, died February 17 at the Bloomsburg Hospital, where he had been a patient since February 14. His death was due to complications. He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, June 22, 1860, and lived nearly all his life at Jerseytown and at Bloomsburg.

He was educated in the common schools at Jerseytown, at the Friends Seminary at Millville, the Normal School at Bloomsburg, where he graduated as president of his class in 1887, and at the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia where he graduated in the class of 1899; he was president of the class in the year 1898, was associate editor of the Law Journal, won the cash prizes in the 1898 Frazier University debate, and was a member of the debating team from the university in the Inter-Collegiate Debate with Cornell in 1898.

He started to teach school at the age of seventeen, taught nine terms and was then elected superintendent of the schools of Columbia County in 1890 and in 1893 was reelected without opposition at an increase of salary. He then quit school work to study law. After graduating at the Law School he opened an office in Bloomsburg in September, 1899. When in active practice he was engaged in the courts of Columbia, Montour, Northumberland and Luzerne counties, and in the Supreme and Superior Courts of the state and the Federal District Court at Scranton.

For more than fifty years he was active in the Democratic party of the county as committee man from his home township of Madison, as a member of the executive committee of the party in the county, for years its treasurer, delegate to state conventions, and chairman of the last three Democratic County Conventions under the delegate system.

In 1910 he was a candidate for Representative in the Gen-real Assembly and he was defeated by thirty-seven votes.

He was a member of 224 Danville Lodge of Masons, which lodge gave him a jewel, he having been a member more than fifty years, was a member of Captain Brockway's Camp of Sons of Veterans, a member of the Columbia Bar Association, and of the First Baptist Church of Bloomsburg.

The students and faculty of Bethlehem Business College honored their beloved president, William F. Magee, by having a birthday party in the School Auditorium Friday, February 8. On Sunday, February 10, Mr. Magee became an octogenarian. C. H. Bowser, principal of Bethlehem Business College,

C. H. Bowser, principal of Bethlehem Business College, was master of ceremonies for the gala event. The festivities commenced with the singing of "Happy Birthday" by the assemblage. Rev. Harvey I. Crow, pastor emeritus of Bethany Reformed Church, gave the Invocation. Mayor Robert Pfeisle extended best wishes and congratulated the founder and president of Bethlehem Business College for the important educational role this institution has had in the community since it was organized by W. F. Magee, May 17, 1897.

Brief remarks were made by the following: E. Kenneth Smiley, vice president of Lehigh University; John W. Hedge, superintendent of Bethlehem Schools; David H. Brillhart, president of Union Bank and Trust Company, and E. M. Haas, reportorial staff, Bethlehem Globe-Times.

Woodrow W. Frable, president of B. B. C. Alumni Association, conveyed birthday greetings for the thousands of graduates who had the pleasure of their "grand old Schoolmaster's" guidance and tutelage.

After the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the assembly, Frederick Zillinsky, faculty member, presented Mr. Magee with a fountain pen, a gift from the faculty and student body.

Erma A. Musselman, Allentown, a student in the Day Division, presented Mr. Magee with a huge birthday scroll, having the signatures of all students in the Day and Evening Divisions, faculty, and a host of friends.

Mr. Magee acknowledged the gifts and thanked everyone for their expression of friendship and good will. With the singing of the "Alma Mater," this part of the program terminated, after which a social hour was enjoyed in the stenographic department. Refreshments were served. The table was beautifully decorated, a huge birthday cake with 80 candles occupying the center. Marianna C. Snyder, of Lehighton, was the piano accompanist.

Mr. Magee was born February 10, 1866, in Buffalo Township, Union County, the son of Lewis and Ellen (Zellers) Magee. On July 5, 1892, he married Ida L. (nee Boyer) Magee, who died July 19, 1936.

After completing his public school education, he entered Bloomsburg State Normal School, (now Bloomsburg State Teachers College), and was graduated in 1888. Later he took post-graduate work at Bucknell University. Prior to his founding of B. B. C., May 17, 1897, he taught for three years in Pennsylvania Public Schools, and taught commercial subjects for seven years in Shamokin Business College, Shamokin.

Mr. Magee belongs to the following organizations: Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Director of Union Bank and Trust Company, H. Stanley Goodwin Lodge, No. 648, Tall Cedars of Lebanon; Bethlehem Shrine Club and Lehigh Consistory S. P. R. S. 32nd degree.

This business educator is affiliated with the following educational organizations: Past President and Member of Pennsylvania Association of Private Business Schools; Eastern Commercial Teachers Association, National Council of Business Schools and National Business Teachers Association. Through his untiring efforts, B. B. C. has been approved by the Pennsylvania Committee on Standards and Approval for Private Business Schools and the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools.

He has two sons, Harold Tyler Magee, Somerset, Pa., and Frank Lynn Magee, Pittsburgh, a graduate of Lehigh University, class of 1917. One grandson, Curtis Weston Magee (son of Frank McGee), a discharged Ensign, is taking a refresher course in Accounting at B. B. C. before resuming his studies at Lehigh—February class. Mr. Magee has one brother, James E. Magee, of Selinsgrove.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Magee, Pittsburgh, were on hand to extend birthday greetings. Harold T. Magee, Somerset, was unable to attend due to illness in his family.

Mrs. Linn Sherwood (Ruth Weber) lives in Tunkhannock, Pa., where her husband is serving as Treasurer of Wyoming County. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood have two sons, aged seven and nine. Mrs. Sherwood taught eight and one-half years before her marriage and two years afterwood.

Classmates of Anna Jones Todd, of Plymouth, will be interested in the following, which appeared in the Wilkes-Barre Record under the date line of January 23, 1946:

President Truman learned something today from a 9-year-old Plymouth Cub Scout.

He learned from Bobby Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Todd, of 62 Academy Street, that anthracite not only was useful in heating homes and running much of the nation's industry but also could be fashioned into attractive gifts.

Bobby presented three such gifts—a set of book ends for the President, a necklace for Mrs. Truman and ear rings for daughter, Margaret—in a White House visit this morning. They were contributed by Cub Scouts of the Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley area of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Truman told Bobby he never knew hard coal could be used for such purposes. He showed the gifts to newsmen and White House attaches in his office at the time and expressed his wonder at the highly polished surfaces of the coal used in them.

Bobby displayed no awe at being in the office of the nation's chief executive.

"He's a cool youngster," was the comment later of Rep.

Flood (D.-Pa.), who had awarded Bobby the trip to Washington for selling nearly $10,000 in Victory Bonds.

After the White House call, Bobby had lunch with Flood and several other congressmen in the House restaurant, visited the Bureau of Engraving where he met Director Alvin Hall, a native of Hazleton, Pa., and then went to the Zoo.

Miss Marjorie Orr, of Berwick, formerly of Shickshinny, and Joseph C. Tearpock, of Mocanqua, were married Saturday, December 29, at Hazleton. Miss Ruth M. Lewis was recently appointed Personnel Assistant for the Eastern area, American Red Cross, according to an announcement by Ramone S. Eaton, area manager. She received the appointment on her return in July of this year from Italy, where for six months she had aided in the rehabilitation of Italian refugees. She was a member of the Red Cross "Spear Head" unit, so-called since her activities were virtually within the front lines.

A native of Kingston, Pa., she attended Bloomsburg, State Teachers College and took her B. S. degree in 1933. She accepted a position with the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, serving until 1936, when she was loaned to the Red Cross to assist the Reserve Disaster Staff on the Pennsylvania floods. In 1937 she served in the Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood as supervisor of the Louisville-Central District Office. In 1938 she became a Red Cross itinerant secretary, visiting rural communities in Virginia. She was assigned to executive secretary in 1939 to the Hancock County Chapter in Findlay, Ohio, and in 1941 she took the post of executive secretary with the Schenectady, N. Y., chapter. She went overseas in 1943, as an Assistant Field Director in Hospital Service and was one of the first Red Cross women to go into Italy, where she served with a 5th Army Field Hospital.

She was transferred as Field Representative in July of 1944 to Civilian War Relief and for the six months preceding her return to the States, she was liaison for Italian Red Cross workers, reorganization of the Italian Red Cross services, and worked in the "Spear Head" unit.

The daughter of Mrs. B. L. Lewis, 120 Lathrop Street, Kingston, Pa., she makes her present home at 189 "G" Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Howard Berninger, who recently left the Army in which he held the rank of captain, has begun his study at Dickinson Law School in preparing for the practice of law. His wife, a registered nurse, has joined the staff of nurses at Carlisle Hospital for the present. Mr. Berninger was graduated from B. S. T. C. and then received his master's degree at Bucknell, after which he taught in the high schools of Hop Bottom and Clark Summit before entering the service. He served for twenty-eight months in the Pacific War Theatre.

Dr. Chester C. Hess lives at 660 Elm Street, Budgeville, Pennsylvania. He is doing Industrial Medicine and General Practice in Pittsburgh. He is in charge of the Lawrence Medical Unit of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and belongs to the staffs of Shadyside Hospital, and the Cannonsburg General Hospital.

She is a graduate of Milton High School and Bloomsburg State Teachers College and attended Bucknell University.

1938

Robert R. Williams, formerly of Blakely, was recently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant, Junior Grade, in the Navy. He taught in the high school at Troy, Pennsylvania, before entering the Navy in 1943. He was commissioned an ensign in July, 1944, following which he went on sea duty on the USS

"West Point" as a deck officer. His wife is the former Louise Bailey, of Troy.

Neil M. Richie was recently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. He joined the Air Forces in September, 1941, and spent three and one-half years overseas. He was later discharged from the Air Forces and is now enrolled in the graduate school of Northwestern University.

Alex J. McKechnie, Jr., of Berwick, has been elected to the faculty of Gettysburg College as an instructor in the department of physics, and took up his duties January 29, at the beginning of the second semester. Mr. McKechnie served in the armed forces for three years in both the Atlantic and Pacific areas, and recently returned from the Philippines. He acquired the rank of Lieutenant Senior Grade in the Navy, serving as a specialist in radar and sonar aboard destroyers in the anti-submarine warfare division of the Atlantic Fleet until V-E Day, when he was transferred to the Philippines for similar duty with the Pacific Fleet.

After V-J Day, he was made a member of the faculty which was responsible for setting up the instruction program for GI's in Dewey University, in Manila. Before entering the service, Mr. McKechnie taught in the schools of Shickshinny and Columbia. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education from Bloomsburg and degree of Master of Science in Education from Bucknell University.

There is no need to say why you should come to your class reunion on Alumni Day, Saturday, May 25. You'll be sorry if you miss it.

Technical Sergeant Max Arcus, of Bloomsburg, has received his discharge from the armed forces and is now engaged in business with his father. He entered the service October 13, 1941, and was sent to Fort Meade, after which he was transferred to the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Lee, Virginia. From there he was assigned to the Air Corps at Gunter Field, Alabama, and later to the infantry at Camp Howze, Texas. On May 16, 1945, he landed on Luzon and was attached to the 43rd Division, and later was transferred to Japan. He left Japan December 24, 1945.

Capt. and Mrs. J. Rutter Ohl, Jr., who have been spending a few weeks with the former's parents, have moved to Ann Arbor, Michigan. Capt. Ohl, who has been in the Army Air Forces four years and four months, was discharged March 10. He has been accepted at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan, for post-graduate work for a Master of Arts dgeree in education.

Lieutenant Stuart L. Hartman has been released from active duty in the United States Navy. He served for nine months in the Pacific Theatre and for ten months in the Atlantic Theatre, aboard the USS YP 390 and the USS "Purdy." He participated in the invasion of Okinawa.

A daughter was born Thursday, December 27, to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Letterman, of Taylor, Pa. Mrs. Letterman was the former Marjorie Jones, of Taylor.

Miss Mary Kathryn Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, of East Fourth Street, became the bride of Charles Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Lynch, of Pittsburgh, Thursday, December 27, at St. Columba's Catholic Church, Bloomsburg. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father William Burke.

The bride is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. She has taught school in Boundbrook, New Jersey, for the past three years.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Pittsburgh High School and has recently been discharged after five years of service with the U. S. Army, holding the rate of sergeant at the time of discharge. He served three years of this time in the E. T. O.

Mrs. Lynch will finish the term of teaching in Boundbrook, following which the couple will reside in Pittsburgh.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Hazel O'Brien, of Benton, to Ensign Joseph P. G. Davis, of Brooklyn, New York. Miss O'Brien is now teaching in Gellette, New Jersey. Ensign Davis attended North Carolina State College for two years and is a graduate of the United States Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, New York. He is now third officer on the S. S. Cape May, United States Lines.

Miss N. Elizabeth Singley, of Lewisburg, and Mr. Harold R. Trexler were married Thursday, December 27, 1945, at Lewisburg. They are now living at 82 East Goldengate, Detroit, Michigan.

Not many years have passed since 1944, but much has happened since then. Bring yourself up to date by attending your class reunion on Alumni Day, Saturday, May 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Algatt are living at 10 Harvard Place, Somerville, Massachusetts. Mr. Algatt is a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mrs. Algatt was formerly Miss Betty Katerman, of Bloomsburg.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Cleo Kinney, of Danville R. D., to Vincent L. Pass, of Export, Pennsylvania. Miss Kinney is a member of the faculty of the Millville High School. Mr. Pass is now attending Pennsylvania State College under the Navy College Training Program.

A daughter was born Sunday, May 2 in the St. Joseph's Hospital, Hazleton, to Mr. and Mrs. William Heupcke, Bloomsburg, R. D. 3. Mrs. Heupcke was formerly Alice Mae Zehner, Bloomsburg, R. D. 3.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Kocher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Kocher, Espy, to Billie D. Pugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pugh, Newtown, Pa. Miss Kocher graduated from the Scott Township High School in the class of 1943. She is at present a Senior at Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Pugh graduated from the Bloomsburg High School in the class of 1941. He served three and one-half years with the U. S. Marine Corps and is now employed at the Housenick Motor Company.

DON'T FORGET

ALUMNI DAY

Class of 1896 Honored

Six of the eight "girls" of '96 who sang "Annie Laurie" at the Class Day exercises a half century ago did an encore of that number as one of the many features at the fifty-year reunion dinner held in the College dining hall. Forty of the class were in attendance, together with thirty-nine guests.

Harry S. Barton, of town, was the acting president and genial toastmaster. The Rev. Mr. VanWie gave the invocation. Mrs. Marion Chase Newmeyer sang two selections during the delicious dinner.

Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College, said he was humble and grateful in the presence of such a display of loyalty to Bloomsburg. The institution, he said, was built by many people and what it is today is the result of their efforts and provided for the class being able to be present, a half year after graduation, to associate with classmates.

In the face of existing conditions, he said it was exceedingly fine that so many could return. "You perhaps are amazed by the changes that have taken place but that is life. It brings changes and progress."

Edith Ent Adams sang beautifully three solos, "A Little Song of Life," Mallotte; "The Cuckoo," Lehman; "Friendship," Haensche. She was accompanied by Dr. Robert W. Jacobs.

Mrs. Louise H. Llewllyn, of Berwick, accompanied by Mrs. Melvin Whitmire, also of that borough, provided another feature with two solos, "Music of the Spring" and "Maytime."
Mrs. Gertrude Miller Postle gave the class poem, after

Y.; Millie S. Thomas, Berwick: Charles M. Keefer, Portland, Maine; Dr. A. L. Smethers, Mrs. Roy Nance Smethers, Laurie Roberta Lizon, Anderson, S. C.; Jane Rosser, East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Ida Miller Masteller, Marqueen Girton, Mrs. Elizabeth Zehner Keiper, Mrs. John W. Kistler, Mrs. Bessie Vance DeMott, Mrs. George DeMott, Mrs. W. C. Keefer, Dr. E. E. Saunders, Elenore Stark Crater, Easton.

In a pretty candlelight ceremony performed Saturday evening, May 24, in the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, at Numidia, Miss Margaret Billig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Billig, Rt. 1, became the bride of Earl Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Long, Bloomsburg, Rt. 1. Rev. Walter J. Drumm officiated.

The bride is a graduate of Locust Township High School and the bridegroom, a veteran of two and one half years service with the Army in the European area, was graduated from Bloomsburg High School and is now attending Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

The bride is employed by the Magee Carpet Mill.

Commencement

"There is no security for any of us until there is moral rearmament and that can begin now if America will throw its force behind such a program," Henry C. Wolfe, war correspondent and authority on foreign affairs, told the forty-seven members of the graduating class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College at commencement exercises held in the Carver Hall auditorium.

Speaking to an audience of around 700, Wolfe asserted "The free world wants American democracy to live and grow. That is true in Europe and it is true to a degree in Japan where Gen. MacArthur has done outstanding work. The year of 1946 will mark the beginning of a downward trend. The world is watching. The fighting is over but the most important and hardest part is to win the peace. It is a real challenge and a glorious opportunity.

Wolfe replaced Royal Arch Gunnison on the program. The latter had to leave by plane for Holland to cover an assignment or wait three months for another reservation.

The commencement speaker arrived in Paris six hours before the German garrison surrendered. He has made personal surveys of global developments for twenty-seven years and his book on Hitler's Germany, "The Great Octopus," caused him to be banned from that country prior to the war.

The exercises opened with the processional "Marche Celebre" and the invocation by the Rev. Edgar D. Ziegler, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran Church. After the address Howard F. Fenstemaker played the organ selection "Andante Expressivo," by Dudley Buck. President Harvey A. Andruss conferred the degrees and the commencement concluded with the singing of "Alma Mater" and the recessional "Finale." Miss Harriet M. Moore directed the music with Mr. Fenstemaker at the console.

The individual, said Wolfe, generally does not realize the critical period in which we live. We are neither at peace or at war. But from the present we can generate into peace or degeneration.

"Americans are still in control of our own destiny." As to what we are going to do with it, that, too, he said, is up to us. He pointed out that our enemies could not stop our railroads but we did. "The only force that can defeat America is that inside ourselves. We are short sighted in not realizing we are a team. It is ironic if America can accomplish miracles only in time of war.

"We are hovering between communism and the free way of life and make no mistake about it. What happens in America is being watched closely by the rest of the world.

"There are but two first class nations in the world today, those whom I talk to in Europe say, one the United States and the other Russia. One will take the lead and the rest will follow. Europeans are hoping the one to take the lead is the United States. Such things as the coal and railroad strikes discourage the trend toward democracy. It is ironic that we cannot accomplish in peace things not half so difficult as we accomplished in war. The spirit that won the war is so lacking in civilian life now.

"Looking at it from one side the situation ahead seems hopeless. It is lined with black clouds. Looking at it from the other side it is almost clear. What we can see ahead is largely in our own hands. The spirit of 'we can do nothing about it' did not win the war and it will not win the peace.

"We have everything today that we had when we defeated Germany and Japan. America is well off but it is wise to realize that we cannot live in a vacuum.

"The Russian system will go just as far as it can but we need have no fear that it will engulf the world if we follow enlightened and vigorous policies. I don't think the Paris Conference was a failure. It accomplished the end of American appearement and retreat.

"In our fast moving world there is only one kind of a policy that will succeed and that is one rooted and grounded in justice. I don't feel the economic, diplomatic or military problems insolvable. The main problem is the moral and spiritual collapse. We leave too much to the government. That is the way totalitarianism grows. Let those who represent you know how you feel."

New officers for the Waller Hall Student Government Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College have been announced for next year. Those who will direct the activities of the Girls' Dormitory for the college year 1946-1947 are: president, Shirley Keiser, Dalton; vice president, Betty Lehet, Wilkes-Barre; secretary, Mary Moser, Quakertown; treasurer, Dorothy Mitten, Camptown; Senior representative, Wanda Barth, Silverdale; Joyce Smith, Sugarloaf; Betty Adams, Dalmatia; Edith Fling, Glenside; Junior representative, Bertha Sturman, Tunkhannock; Helene Brown, West Hazleton; Marjorie Brace, Hunlock Creek; Sophomore representatives, Shirley Henley, Taylor; Midge Fuller, Berwick; Fern Shirk, Richfield.

Retiring officers of the Waller Hall governing board are: president, Mary Schroeder, Easton; vice president, Eileen Falvey, Berwick; secretary, Dora Brown, York; treasurer, Doris Condor, Hazleton; Senior representatives, Ann Williams, Luzerne; Rose Cerchiaro, Nesquehoning; Jean Dickinson, La Plume; Mary Longo, Sheppton; Junior representatives, Mae Klinger, Lykens; Shirley Keiser, Dalton; Gloria Gillis, Duryea; Sophomore representatives, Rosemary Kaiser, Horsham; June Novok, Sheppton; Mary Pelchar, Kaiser; Freshman representatives, Midge Fuller, Berwick; Shirley Henley, Taylor;

BACCALAUREATE

Obedience, love for humanity, and growth are the characteristics of a true Christian, the Rev. Edgar D. Ziegler, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, asserted in the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The services were held Sunday afternoon, May 19, in the auditorium in Carver Hall and the theme of the message was "The Marks of a Christian."

The processional was "Ancient of Days," and the Rev. Mr. Ziegler gave the invocation. The audience sang the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" and following the Scripture reading the Rev. Mr. Ziegler delivered the sermon. The Rev Mr. Ziegler gave the benediction and the recessional was "Awake My Soul." Miss Harriet Moore directed the music, with H. F. Fenstemaker at the console.

The Rev. Mr. Ziegler in his sermon spoke in part as follows:

"The Apostle Paul says that he bore in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus. In a very much more significant manner he bore in his character the marks of a true Christian. Every true Christian must bear in his life and character attitudes which will mark him as a person of real worth.

"Obedience is a mark of a Christian. If you are to be a good teacher, you will have to be obedient to truth and to knowledge. You will have to be obedient to the facts and laws of the physical and scientific world. But there are other truths, facts and laws to which you will likewise have to be true. The facts of the moral order are no less law and fact than those of the physical. You will have to be obedient to these laws which cannot be violated. To seek to save your life, is to lose it. To live an out-going, self-spending life is to find it.

"The second mark of character is love for humanity. Human personality is the greatest thing in the world, the only thing with abiding and eternal value. Today the world is too much concerned about international economic equation. Yet the world is going to ruin because of a lack of sympathetic human love. Life is an interdependence, the influence of personality on personality. We cannot stand alone, unmindful of the welfare and condition of those around us.

"The third mark of a true Christian character is growth. Only a growing character can hope to achieve. But growth is always synonymous with sacrifice and surrender. Paderewski was called a genius but he called himself a drudge to practice.

"Progress is always the fruit of toil. Real character is marked by industry and work. True and satisfying happiness are never to be found except as the interest on invested service and self-sacrifice. Happiness is the by-product of obedience to the fundamental laws of life and love."

IVY DAY

"If we as teachers lay a strong and stable groundwork for young America, we shall be helping to pave the way for a strong and durable peace," Miss Mary Schroeder, of Easton, asserted Wednesday, May 15, in the traditional Ivy Day exercise held at Science Hall following a Senior Honor Assembly in the Carver Hall auditorium, where awards were announced.

Five of the graduating class, Misses Jacqueline Shaffer and Athamantia Comuntzis, of Bloomsburg; Miss Mary Schroeder, of Easton; Miss Eileen Falvey, of Berwick, and Miss Marjorie Stover, of Lewisburg, were presented with the College Service

Key awards by President Harvey A. Andruss.

The keys are awarded to students for service, with the basis a point system which covers four years of participation by the student in extra-curricular activities at the college. The policy under which the awards are made was developed by the Community Government Association.

Eight of the graduating class were presented with certificates indicating they have been selected to have their names appear in the 1945-46 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges."

Those so honored were Miss Shaffer, Miss Comuntzis, Miss Schroeder, Miss Falvey; Miss Gloria Belcastro, of Wyoming; Miss Althea Parsell, of Orangeville; John Hmelnicky, of Exeter, and Miss Kay Kurilla, of Atlas.

The deans of men and women selected candidates for inclusion in the biographical dictionary of college students which was originally founded in 1943-45 and now represents an authoritive list of names of students whose promise of future achievement is much above the average.

The activities opened with the honor assembly at ten o'clock and then the class proceeded to Science Hall for the Ivy Day exercises. John Hmelnicky, president of the class, presided. He presented the spade to the class of 1947, and the acceptance was by Miss Alberta Naunas, vice-president of that class.

Miss Schroeder's oration follows:

"Once again we gather together to reenact one of the traditional ceremonies on our campus—the planting of the Ivy. Never before has this custom been so symbolic of the beginning of new life—new life in a world of peace.

"Our class has lived through one of the most turbulent stages of world history. The tempo of war has been the dominant theme of the last few years. Now we are in the transition period to a just and lasting peace. It will be our duty to contribute what ever we can to this noble cause.

"You have probably heard it said that 'He is educated who can best adapt himself to existing situations or circumstances."

In view of this statement we might review our stay here at Bloomsburg and see wherein we have adjusted ourselves to the existing situations which were never static but always changing.

"On entering college we severed mother's apron strings and assumed responsibilities of our own. We welcomed and endeavored to assimilate in our ranks many different types of students—naval aviation cadets, navy V-12's, naval special flight instructors and cadet nurses. We changed our living quarters, attended classes in the summers, held commencements in January, studied under new faculty members, and made many other departures from the regular college routine of previous years. The degree to which we made these changes is the degree to which we may call ourselves truly educated.

"And as educated men and women, as teachers and parents, we shall be entrusted with the education of the future citizens of America. It will be our duty to instill in them the principle of democracy and freedom so that they may be better able to cope with the multitudinous problems of living in harmony with their neighbors.

"A house is only as good as its foundation. And so it is with people. If we as teachers lay a strong and stable groundwork for young America, we shall be helping to pave the way for a strong and durable peace.

"The ivy, as it climbs steadily upwards and adjusts itself to the existing situation, is symbolic of our responsibilities as future teachers and citizens of America. Our source of strength is not a root, but instead our education. Upon it is a foundation we must build. Let us also adjust, harmonize, progress, and strive for new heights of achievement."

The Bloomsburg Players, dramatic organization of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, presented "The Man Who Came to Dinner" by George Kauffman and Moss Hart in the college auditorium Thursday, April 11.

The play, which enjoyed outstanding success on Broadway, was directed by Miss Alice Johnston of the college faculty. The cast and production staff included: Martha Stitzel, Hamburg; Jean Richard, Bloomsburg; John O'Donnell, Coaldale; Karlis Kight, Bloomsburg; Evelyn Hirt, Berwick; Martha Sitler, Bloomsburg; Gloria Mainiero, Hazleton; Harold Swisher, Falls Church, Va.; Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland; George Smith and Harry Reitz, Shamokin; Isabel Gehman, Ephrata; Gerald Demaree, Berwick; William Millard, Spring City; Ann Williams, Luzerne; James LaBarr, Wilkes-Barre; William Miller, Hummelstown; Robert Martin, Edwardsville; Philip Joseph, Easton; Carson Whitesell, Hunlock Creek; Robert Llewellyn, Wilkes-Barre; William DeWitt, Schuylkill Haven; Gloria Galow, Hazleton; Gladys Kuster, Bloomsburg; Harold Miller, Danville; Jane Wilson, Waymart; Alberta Naunas, Bloomsburg; Betty Jane Anella, Hazleton; Joan Hooper, Shickshinny; Fern Van Sant, Numidia, and Helen Wright, Bloomsburg.

ALUMNI MEETING

Tribute to the memory of twenty-four men and one wo-man, alumni or students at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, who made the Supreme Sacrifice in World War II, was paid by the alumni at its meeting. The Rev. C. Carroll Bailey, of York, a member of the class of 1911, offered a beautiful memorial prayer.

Those to whose memory tribute was paid were Kenneth Morse Allen, John L. Atkinson, Jr., Lamar K. Blass, Leonard M. Bowers, John R. Carr, John Hancock, James Harman, Earl J. Harris, Leo J. Hoffman, Jr., John L. Hower, Woodrow W. Hummel, Donald Jenkins, Walter J. Kania, Clyde C. Kitch, Allen C. McCracken, Paul J. McHale, Thomas W. Reagan, Walter H. Reed, Cyril J. Rowland, Albert E. Rudy, Mary F. Schuyler, Michael Soback, Victor R. Turini, Charles G. Wenrich, Anthony C. Yenalavage.

Around 500 attended the meeting and around 1,500 graduates and friends were on the campus during the day for one of the most outstanding reunions in Bloomsburg's history.

The Rev. Mr. VanWie, a husband of a member of the class of 1896, gave the invocation. The graduates then sang the school color song "Maroon and Gold" and retired.

Reports of the treasurer, Miss Harriet F. Carpenter, and of Howard F. Fenstemaker, treasurer of the student loan fund, the latter now totalling $12,594, were presented.

Dr. E. H. Nelson, president, informed the alumni that from the earnings of that fund the alumni were able to give a $100 R. Bruce Albert Memorial Scholarship during the past year and four $50 special scholarships.

Elected directors for three years were Miss Harriet Carpenter and Howard F. Fenstemaker, of Bloomsburg, and Mrs.

Ruth Speary Griffiths, of Wilkes-Barre.

Memorial resolutions were adopted on the deaths of Mrs. Harriet Keffer Hartline, widow of Prof. D. S. Hartline, and Dennis D. Wright, class of 1911 and long active in alumni activities.

Dr. Nelson spoke of some of the athletic achievements of Bloomsburg teams and presented George C. Buchheit as "the best track coach in the country." Buchheit has had remarkable success in track and basketball since coming to Bloomsburg in 1932.

Alden J. (Lefty) Danks and John A. Hoch, of Milton, who have been named football coach and assistant at Bloomsburg, were presented. Nelson asserted he was sure they will do a good job but "if you want good sports we want your cooperation. What are we going to do to back them up? Work for Bloomsburg all the time and these fellows will produce good teams." A new program of "life" memberships in the association was inaugurated.

Those reporting for reunion classes were: 1886, the Rev. N. H. Sanner, Pittsburgh; 1891, W. A. Turnbach, Hazleton; 1896, Harry S. Barton; 1901, Gertrude Morgan Northy, Akron, Ohio; 1906, John Y. Shambaugh, Camp Hill; 1911, George Ferris, Bridgeport, Conn.; 1916, Clara Hartranft Hopkins, Hazleton; 1921, M. T. Shaffer, Hanover Township; 1926, John T. Rowlands; 1931, Clarence Wolver, Scranton; 1936, Dan Jones, Millville, N. J.; 1941, Joe Malinchoc, Nesquehoning.

One hundred and twenty-five boys and girls from the surrounding area were guests of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College recently at a High School Recreation Day. The high school visitors arrived on the campus at 9:00 A. M. and after registration were guests at the regular college assembly when the Berwick High School Girls' Chorus gave an excellent musical program under the direction of Prof. Llewellyn. Mrs. Llewellyn sang several solo numbers with a choral background which were very favorably received.

After assembly the high school visitors, in groups of ten, were escorted on tours of the college campus by undergraduate students of the college.

Following a 12:30 lunch the guests moved to recreation hall, where they danced and played ping-pong. Swimming and softball occupied many of the visitors until they attended the Bloomsburg-East Stroudsburg baseball game on the college diamond. They saw Bloomsburg administer a 6-4 defeat to Stroudsburg.

The high school visitors came from the following high schools: Locust Township, Benton, Berwick, Scott Township, Mifflinburg Township, Danville, Catawissa. Beaver Township and Bloomsburg.

The undergraduates who acted as guides and members of the Hospitality Committee included: Kenneth Wire, Harrisburg; Donald Houck, Berwick; John Longo, Sheppton: John Guy, Nesquehoning; John Cohoat, Frackville; Harold Reinert. Slatington; Royal Conrad, Benton; Robert Bunge, Catawissa; George Smith, Shamokin; Harold Swisher, Falls Church, Va.; Elizabeth Lehet, Wilkes-Barre; Estelle Friday, Phoenixville; Peggy Lewis, Phoenixville; Midge Fuller, Berwick; Madge Fuller, Berwick; Martha Sitler, Bloomsburg; Ruth Trimpey, Mt. Wolfe; Pauline Kokolias, Matamoras; Margaret Suchy, Forest City; Mary Fox. Quakertown; Nancy McHenry, Berwick; Betty Evans, Wilkes-Barre; Doris Condor, Hazleton; Lydia Shirk, Richfield; Rosanna Broadt, Bloomsburg; Mary Moser, Ringtown; Evelyn Pethick, Milanville; Ruth Swartz. Millertown, Eloise Noble, Milanville, and Phillip Joseph, Easton.

LARGE ENROLLMENT EXPECTED

Bloomsburg State Teachers College is already assured of an enrollment of 650 for the term opening in September and how many more can be accommodated will depend upon whether students can secure living quarters in the town, President Harvey A. Andruss, president of the college, told the alumni at the general meeting recently.

He said all of the accommodations for men on the campus have been taken. These include North Hall and the third floor in Waller Hall over the library.

The campus is equipped to care for 150 men and 250 women on the campus. It will take fifty girls and fifty men, who wish to enter the Pennsylvania State College but cannot be accommodated, provided there are living accommodations in the town for the men.

The graduates were told that Bloomsburg, which was the first institution of higher learning in Pennsylvania and one of the first in the nation to be accredited to give courses in aviation, will continue in that field.

In addition the college during the coming year will introduce a new course in the business education department in retail selling.

Within the year the college anticipates the opening of a radio station so that a course can be offered in radio production, a new development in the speech department.

"With your interest and loyalty we will go on to bigger and better things," the president told the alumni.

In the opening of his address, he spoke of nearing the close of his seventh year as head of the institution and that "all organizations at the moment have difficulty in looking through the cloud that shrouds the future."

He spoke of the wartime program of the institution when more than 2,000 service men took instruction here and as many more persons attended night classes at the institution. Mr. Andruss is confident that the record of Bloomsburg during the crisis stands unequalled by any college of its size in the nation.

As to the accepting of some Pennsylvania State students during the coming year, he emphasized that the courses given them will be from the regular curriculum. "We are a Teachers College and we will remain a Teachers College."

In his address he read these portions of a news dispatch from Penn State with regards to the cooperative plan between that institution and the Teachers College. They follow: "Co-operation of the State Teachers Colleges in this plan was insured when Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of Public Instruction, informed the college that Governor Edward Martin had authorized these institutions to cooperate in giving programs designated to take care of Freshmen who cannot be accommodated by Penn State's own facilities.

"Teachers Colleges participating in the program are: Bloomsburg, California, Clarion, Edinboro, Indiana, Kutztown, Lock Haven, Mansfield, Millersville, Shippensburg and Slippery Rock. (Not included are West Chester, East Stroudsburg and Cheney).

"Registrar William S. Hocman, who will administer the plan, explained that Freshmen when admitted will be informed of the college to which they will be assigned. He said the selection would depend upon the curriculum elected by the student. It may even be necessary in some instances, he added, for students living in a city where a State Teachers College is located, to enroll in a Teachers College in another city.

"He explained that students admitted to the State Teachers Colleges by Penn State will be guaranteed transfer to the campus upon the successful completion of their Freshman year, but emphasized that the student will be under no compulsion to transfer if he or she decides to remain at the Teachers College. Students at Teachers Colleges will enjoy the same privileges, such as participation in sports and other extra-curricular activities, as other students and also will be subject to the same rules and regulations as obtain at that institution."

Senior Banquet

The Senior Class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held their Senior Ball and Banquet at the Hotel Altamont, Hazleton, Pa., Saturday, May 18. The Serenaders furnished music for the Ball.

Senior Class officers are: John Hmelnicky, President, Exeter; Eileen Falvey, Vice-President, Berwick; Bernice Gabuzda, Secretary, Freeland, and Kathleen Hess, Treasurer, Dalton. The 1946 class flower is the gladiola and the class colors are cherry and white.

Lillian Guis, Sheppton, was general chairman of the affair, Bernice Gabuzda, Freeland, chairman of the Ball and Ralph McCracken, Danville, Banquet chairman. Frances Saunders, Danville, Program Committee; Evelyn Witman, Shillington, Orchestra Committee; Kay Kurilla, Atlas, Refreshments; Lenore Seybert, Lightstreet, Programs; Mary Longo, Sheppton, Publicity; Athamantia Communtzis, Bloomsburg, Decorations; Mary Schroeder, Easton, Investigation Committee and Reed Buckingham, York, Transportation.

Professor William C. Forney, Head of the Department of Business Education, is on the way to recovery after a serious illness, during which time he was a patient at the Bloomsburg Hospital.

NEW DEAN OF MEN

Major William E. Landis, World War II veteran and formerly with the Hershey Industrial School, has been appointed dean of men of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He succeeds John C. Koch, a member of the faculty for many years, who has resigned.

Until recently Major Landis was executive officer of the personnel staff section of the Information and Education Division, European Theatre, Frankfort, Germany.

A graduate of the Indiana, Pa., State Teachers College in 1934. Landis received the degree of Master of Science in Education in 1939 from the University of Pennsylvania. For eight years he was head of the department of business education at the Hershey School, where he was also head football coach.

He enlisted in the Army in June, 1942, and later that year was commissioned as a second lieutenant. In 1943 he was promoted to first lieutenant; in 1944, captain, and this year to major.

While in the Army he was head of the department of type-writing at the Army Administration School, Austin State Teachers College, Nacogdoches, Texas; commanding officer of the ASTP unit at Southwestern Medical College, Dallas, Texas; chief of the orientation branch of the Eighth Service Command, having charge of Army orientation in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas.

Later he was detailed to duty with the Information and Education Divisions, War Department, at Washington; with the U. S. Armed Forces Institute, Madison, Wisconsin; and served as an instructor in the College of Commerce in the Army University at Shrivenham, England.

While at Shrivenham he was assistant coach of the university's football team, and helped develop the ETO championship team.

Landis is a member of Phi Sigma Pi, Gamma Rho Tau and Phi Delta Kappa fraternities, and has written articles for the following magazines: Business Education, World, Journal of Business Education, The Balance Sheet and the Athletic Journal.

The classroom is not reclaiming as many former teachers from the ranks of ex-servicemen as has been expected, Dr. Henry Klonower, of the Department of Public Instruction, reported recently, predicting a teacher shortage for another four or five years.

Married women teachers are rejoining their husbands released from the armed forces and giving up teaching. Many teachers granted special wartime certificates will give up their positions unless their is "urgent solicitation" to stay on the job.

"SAUCERED AND BLOWED"

By E. H. NELSON

As promised in this column of the September "Quarterly," Elwood Wagner '43 got his campus jeep ride. Maybe it wasn't as exciting as flying the Himalaya peaks, but we did cover the route as previously outlined. The jeep carried a crew of seven—four males and three females. Its performance was remarkable under the expert guidance of LaRue Fetzer—a returned Sea Bee. No ditch or terrace blocked the journey. For further details consult three campus policemen.

To Mrs. Jennie S. Rush, of the class of 1896, goes the honor of taking out the first life membership in the Alumni Association. Her check for $25.00 was handed in immediately after the Alumni meeting, Saturday morning, May 25th. Within the next six months we should have twenty-five more such memberships, and at least a hundred of the $5.00 sustaining memberships. Let's show our loyalty by paying our dues from "reunion to reunion" thereby meeting our own just obligations and at the same time making possible a working fund that will be of real worth to the inter-scholastic program of the college. If you paid $1.00 Alumni Day, send along four dollars more and have all accounts paid until your next reunion.

You did yourselves proud! The association was honored to be your dinner host. As platform guests your conduct was superb. From here on you will always be the guests of the 50 year class in reunion. Some more surprises will be worked out for next year. Don't miss another single reunion.

The writer may be a trifle prejudiced, but 1911 certainly was great in reunion—as always. Can any other class boast of still having, in excellent condition, its large class banner, its class motto (over 10 feet long in twelve inch letters), and a record of every class meeting from Freshman organization to Senior graduation? Send us any facts that make your class outstanding. Your information will be given publicity in this column.

Homecoming Day in the fall is just around the corner. Francis Rampola '36 is already getting his famous class in line for a get together at that time. You will want to come, too, and see Coach Dank's football team in action, and also attend the College dance in the evening. Date and details in the next issue.

ATHLETICS

NEW COACH APPOINTED

Alden J. (Lefty) Danks, who directed Milton High School football out of gridiron doldrums and built the Panthers of the Susquehanna's North Branch into a scholastic football power, has been named football coach of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, the Board of Trustees announced recently through President Harvey A. Andruss.

John A. Hoch, assistant to Danks for the past five years as line coach, has also been named to the College faculty.

Danks has been appointed instructor in the Department of Business Education. In addition to his teaching experience as vice principal and commercial instructor of the Milton Senior High School, he has also been an instructor in extension courses in accounting for the Pennsylvania State College; critic teacher in the teacher training program of Bucknell University and supervisor of the Milton play ground.

Hoch, who is an accomplished public relations man as well as coach and teacher, has been on the Milton faculty for twelve years, and has been named instructor in English and social studies at the College.

He has been exceedingly active in the community life of Milton, being one of the leaders in the Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, a supervisor of the Milton Teen Age Canteen and otherwise identified with civic projects.

Known throughout the region as a stickler for details and a master strategist, "Lefty" Danks early in his coaching career won the respect of scholastic rivals by sending hard-hitting, fighting ball clubs on the gridiron to out-battle opponents from schools with larger student populations. In fact, Danks-coached clubs have been so successful that championship calibre elevens have become almost commonplace in Milton.

From the doldrums of the early thirties to the suberb performance of this year's title-winning, undefeated eleven was a long, hard climb, but Coach Danks negotiated it successfully and won the respect of Milton and the entire Susquehanna Football Conference.

In that thirteen-year period, Danks-coached clubs won 91 games, losing only 27 and tying nine. Seventeen of these losses came during his first two seasons, in 1933 and 1934, and in 1944 when the demands of war cut 27 from a squad of 33.

Take away those three lean years, and the remaining sparkle as brightly as any in the state for the Panthers dropped only ten decisions in 98 starts, an average of only one loss a vear.

His 1935 "team of destiny," one of the greatest aggregations to wear the Orange and Black, gained statewide notoriety

when, after dropping an early-season decision to Bloomsburg, went on to register a clean sweep against Williamsport, Shamokin, Berwick, Lock Haven, and five other regional opponents which were supposed to make mince meat of the Panthers.

Two of his 1935 "kids" won fame during the past several seasons with National Professional League teams—Tom Miller, of the Washington Redskins, and Jack Hinkle, of the Philadelphia Eagles.

His 1939 team was unbeaten and untied and ranked first in the state offensively and defensively. It clicked off a total of 306 points and held ten opponents to a lone touchdown.

Then, as if it was a perfect swan song to a great career at the Orange and Black school, the 1945 Panthers wrapped up a second undefeated and untied record as they steam-rollered eleven scholastic rivals—one of six school boy clubs in the state to do the trick. It scored 326 points with the starting eleven seeing action little more than half the game, while no club was able to puncture the hefty line for a score.

With all this to his credit, Coach Danks brought Milton high five Susquehanna Football League trophies in the eight years the Panthers competed in the circuit. His teams have always been noted for their precision and careful drilling. Conditioning is stressed, and regional coaches have developed a healthy respect for his knowledge of the techniques of defensive play.

Through all these years, John A. Hoch has been his righthand man. He broke into the athletic picture as publicity head, but, in 1940, he became junior high school coach and in 1942 varsity line coach. During those seasons, he tutored two championship lines—in 1942 and 1945—gaining an intimate knowledge of line play by working along with Coach Danks.

He has attended coaching schools under Lou Little, Carl Snavely, George Mun'ger and Clark Shaughnessy, but the bulk of his knowledge of the game has come from his intimate association with the newly-elected teachers college coach. His five-year experience with the Danks system and style of play should pay dividends with the development of a strong Huskies' line.

Danks is a graduate of Susquehanna University, where he received his baccalaureate degree. He received his master's degree from Bucknell. Hoch graduated from Penn State in 1933, and he received his master of arts degree from Bucknell in 1941. Both coaches have taught at Milton High School for more than ten years, Danks having gone there in 1932 and Hoch in 1934.

Two years ago, Coach Danks married Miss Maudmae Edwards, of Bloomsburg, who is also a teacher in Milton High High School. Hoch is married and the father of two children, Beverly Ann and Carolyn, aged twelve and nine respectively.

THE OLD SCORE BOARD

(From the "Fanning" Column, Morning News)

There is going to be a new electric scoreboard and timer in operation in the Centennial Gymnasium at the Teachers College when another basketball season rolls around.

That is good news to the fans. It is something that has been needed ever since the gymnasium was opened in the early days of World War II. It couldn't be secured in war-time and they had to get along with the wooden, manually operated scoreboard of ancient vintage.

It certainly looked out of place in the $350,000 structure. If you wanted contrast, all you had to do was look around the gym and then focus your attention on the little black board down at the north end. It looked like something an absent minded collector of antiques had just temporarily misplaced.

But now that the old board is going to pass out of the picture, something we've all wanted for so long, it seems a little like parting with an old friend and you just sort of dislike to see the thing take place.

We don't at the moment recall just when it made its appearance on the college scene but it was at least a quarter century ago. Chances are that it was constructed in the days when George Hall was in charge of the shop and faculty manager of athletics. They called it "manual arts" in those days. Now its vocational education.

When it was tacked up on the north wall of the old gym it was a real improvement. The fans were going to be kept informed of the score just by spinning a number dial and that certainly was better than one of those boards where you had to slide the number in and out of a panel. In a fast scoring game the scorer was generally a few points in arrears on the panel board and the ultimate result was that the fans much of the time were more confused than if no attempt had been made to post the tally.

Yes sir, the "old board" was quite something when it made its debut.

The balcony, with its running track, was then in the old gym and, of course, if you weren't on the main floor, where comparatively few could get, or in the south end you couldn't see what was posted. But some of the folks could see the score board and pass the information around.

What really helped to hasten the construction of the scoreboard was the inauguration of the scholastic basketball tourneys. George M. Meade, then coach, was a real promoter and he wanted everything just as good for the fans as possible. The tourney that brought the old board into being is now

The tourney that brought the old board into being is now pushing it into discard. Some of the receipts from the 1946 revival of the event were placed with a memorial gift of the class of last May to make the purchase possible.

But the board hung on tenaciously as part of the college basketball scene. It stayed after they decided to do away with the balcony in the old gym for two very good reasons. It was unsafe and also a nuisance. It stayed on when they knocked out the east and west walls and put in permanent bleachers for 600 or so. And then, because of the war, it stayed when basketball was moved into the new gym and it was used right along until the tourney of March. Then they borrowed the electric scoreboard from the high school.

The progress of games were recorded on that board for what we believe were Bloomsburg's greatest teams. That is sure to raise argument from many veteran fans and could lead to one of those endless debates that never change the debaters' opinions but are the source of much fanning.

It was there when George Meade trotted out his great five of Joe Schwall, Joe Kozłosky, Arch Turner, Louis Lerda and the late George Sach.

It was still serving when Thornley Booth was head coach and built a team around Gordon Wambaugh, "Tam" Kirker and others. The points the late Nick Rudowski piled up were recorded on the board. Ray Hawkins, Frank Golder, Nick Van-Buskark and a host of others who wrote basketball history in the old gym did it while the board was serving.

Lamar Blass, the all-around athlete from Aristes, who gave his life fighting in Italy, kept the dial under the marking "Bloomsburg" spinning plenty.

In more recent years it kept tab of things for the outstanding Navy teams of the war years, those coached by Jack Llewellyn and George Buchheit. And whenever we think of that period we think of how fortunate Bloomsburg was to have such excellent basketball through the war years.

The youngsters are going to miss it. There was always a host of volunteers, for the little fellows considered it quite an honor to be out there, where all could see, twisting the number dials.

There are a number of men, some of them now with sons of their own, who will recall how proud they were to have kept score for games at the college. But now with the modern, electrically operated equipment the lads of the days ahead will be denied this honor. It's just another evidence that the kids aren't getting as much of a break in modern living as we like to feel.

Certainly it is fitting that the old scoreboard get more of a tribute than being turned into kindling wood. After its long period of service, it appears only appropriate that some of the student athletic historians see that it is given a fresh coat of paint and then has listed upon it some of the outstanding athletes who played basketball while it was in use. It has earned its place in the trophy room. We'd like to see it there.

TRACK SPORTS AT BLOOMSBURG

(From the "Fanning" Column, Morning News)

When a fellow turns in a good record year after year the school and fandom gets to taking it for granted. That is particularly true when the coach is an unassuming chap like George C. Buchheit, of the Huskies, who has molded Maroon and Gold thin clads into a track and field power and has turned out many winning basketball combinations since the early thirties.

It was fitting that Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the college alumni, called attention to Buchheit's splendid record during the graduate activities of the past commencement season.

He spoke of Buchheit on that occasion as "the best track coach in the country." Certainly none has had more success with what material they had to work with than Buchheit.

Just turning to basketball for the moment, we cannot recall one of his teams that did not win its full share of games and most of them had many more triumphs than defeats. In his early coaching regime on the hill he also directed football and he did a splendid job in that sport.

Track and field events are his first love. When he came to Bloomsburg the sport was a dead issue. There had been some such events in the past and the school had a set of records. But little was heard about track and field.

He got going in 1933 when his team won a dual meet, lost one and placed seventh in the State Teachers College events of the state. From then on he was a power. He moved his club up to fourth in 1934. They were tie for third in 1935 and third in 1936 and then stepped in to break West Chester domination by taking the event four times running. The Huskies finished second in 1941 and again in 1942, the last time that the state meet was held.

There are few schools that have a record in dual meet competition equal to that of the Huskies. During the seasons from 1933 to 1942 the Bloomsburg charges of Buchheit turned in thirty victories and lost two meets. One of those losses was to Shippensburg when a Cumberland Valley athlete, with a final desperate heave of a javelin in the last event of the day, came up from the pack to take first place and get enough points for his team to eke out a title. That was back in 1935. For the next seven years the Huskies did not bow in dual competition. Among their victims was Bucknell University.

All of the records now at the school were made by boys under his coaching. Here they are and as you read them over some pleasant memories probably will be enjoyed:

100-yard dash-9.7 seconds, made by Frank VanDevender, Shamokin, 1939.

220-yard dash—21.7 seconds on a straight stretch, made by VanDevender, 1939; 22.3 seconds on a curve, made by Harry VanGordon, Kingston, 1936. 440-yard dash—50.5 seconds, set by Edward Mulhern, Forty Fort, 1939 and equalled by Don Jenkins in 1943. Jenkins, an Army aviator, lost his life in the first Allied raid on the Polesti oil fields in World War II.

880-yard run—1.58.4, set by Daniel Kemple, Cumbola,

Mile run—4:29.2, set by Kemple, 1939.

Two mile run—9:43.4, set by Kemple in 1940.

220-yard low hurdles—24.5 seconds on straight stretch, set by VanDevender, 1939; 25.5 seconds on curve, set by Harry Jenkins, Forty Fort, 1940.

100-year high hurdle—13.7 seconds, Harry Jenkins, 1940.

Shot put—46 feet 67/8 inches, made by Daniel Bonham, Forty Fort, 1941.

Discus throw—141 feet, 57/3 inches, Bonham, 1941. Javelin throw—199 feet, 2 inches, Bonham, 1938. Pole yault—10 feet, 7 inches, Gerald Burke, 1937.

Running high jump—6 feet 43/4 inches, Mathias Kashuba, Forty Fort, 1946.

Running broad jump—21 feet, 10 inches, Lamar Blass, Aristes, 1936. Blass, an artillery officer, was killed in action while fighting in Italy.

One-mile relay—3.23.2, set by Stanley Zelesky, Edward Mulhern, Frank VanDevender and Harry Jenkins, 1942.

Bloomsburg Huskies hold more state meet records than any other institution. They hold seven outright and a tie for another. West Chester has four records and a tie and Cheyney and Shippensburg each hold two marks.

The Bloomsburg State meet records are: shot put, 48 feet 67% inches, Bonham, 1941; discus, 141 feet, 57% inches, Bonham 1941; 880-yard run, 1.58.4 (four curves) Kemple, 1940; mile run, 4.33.2, Kemple, 1940; two mile run, 10.5.6, Ken Hippensteel, of Espy, 1940; 220-yard low hurdles, 24.5, Van Devender, 1939; 120-yard high hurdles, 15.4, Harry Jenkins, 1940.

Huskies trained by Buchheit have placed well against the nation's best. Bonham took a third in discus in the junior AAU and fifth in the senior event. George Spontak, of Pottsville, was third in the 400-meter hurdles in the junior AAU and Kashuba sixth in the high jump. Spontak took fourth in the 400-meter hurdles and Kashuba fourth in high jump in senior AAU. These marks were made in 1941 and 1942.

Kashuba's record in indoor meets during the past winter is well known. So is his fine work in the Penn Relays.

Of the track men of that golden era three made the supreme sacrifice. Don Jenkins and Lamar Blass were mentioned above. The other was Walter Reed.

Reed, an Army aviator, flew a combat plane throughout the African campaign and was numerously decorated. He was brought back to the United States when the Nazis were forced out of Africa and died some months later in a crash in this country.

They were all fine men and their achievements will live always on the hill. Many of their records will stand for years and at least until George Buchheit builds another golden era. He hopes to get those plans in operation next year.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Awards won at the Nineteenth Annual Invitation High School Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College were presented May 16 during special assembly exercises at Edwardsville, West Wyoming, Berwick and Scott Township High Schools. Edwardsville won Class "A," with Berwick as runner-up. West Wyoming finished second in Class "B," and Scott Township walked off with Class "C."

The awards were made by Coach George C. Buchheit and John C. Koch, Dean of Men, of the college faculty. Colored movies taken by Professor George Keller during the tournament were also shown. Winning schools received beautiful plaques and first and second team members received individual medals.

On May 17 awards were made to Nescopeck, Rock Glen, Sheppton and Ringtown at similar assembly programs. Nescopeck was runner-up in Class "C," Rock Glen won Class "B" and Sheppton captured Class "CC" with Ringtown as runner-up.

The Tournament Committee selected the following boys on the all-tournament team: Forwards, Ross Hughes, Espy and Gene Chamberlain, Berwick; Center, Leonard Smith, Edwardsville; Guards, Michael Helosky, Rock Glen and Daniel Sachs. Nuremberg. The committee felt strongly that Honorable Mention should be given to the following boys: Joe Capobianco, Berwick; Frank Shepura, Edwardsville; Dominic Dante, Exeter; Eugene Nenstiel, Rock Glen; Joseph Milnick, West Wyoming; Michael Fischetti, Shickshinny; Robert Morgan, Kingston Township; John Severn, Bloomsburg, and Joe Henger, Berwick.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE—1946

The football schedule of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College for the 1946 season has just been announced by George C. Buchheit, Acting Director of Athletics. Alden J. Danks and John A. Hoch, newly elected coaches, will take over their duties in the near future.

The schedule includes the following games: September 28, Mansfield, home; October 5, Lock Haven, away; October 12, Clarion, home; October 19, Millersville, away; October 26, Shippensburg, away; November 2, Kutztown, away and November 9, East Stroudsburg, away.

BASEBALL

Resuming baseball activities with the first civilian team since 1943, Bloomsburg ended the 1946 season on Alumni Day, when it lost to Kennedy-Van Saun, Danville by a score of 9-8. The team was coached by Ben Pollock, who recently returned to Bloomsburg High School after serving with the United States Navy. The following is the record for the season:

April 10—Bloomsburg 9; Lock Haven 0 (forfeit).
April 12—Bloomsburg 3; Millersville 6.
April 25—Bloomsburg 3; Kutztown 10.
May 3—Bloomsburg 7; Kennedy-Van Saun 6.

May 8-Bloomsburg 6; East Stroudsburg 4.

May 11—Bloomsburg 14; Kutztown 6.

May 13—Bloomsburg 10; Millersville 11.
May 15—Bloomsburg 3;; East Stroudsburg 11.
May 22—Bloomsburg 2; Lock Haven 3.
May 25—Bloomsburg 8; Kennedy-Van Saun 9.

Either a thirst for knowledge or an escape from danger prompted a deer early Sunday morning, June 2, to leap through a window in Waller Hall at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, make its way through the hall and down a flight of steps to the boiler room and then, finding its escape to freedom blocked, jumped over a six foot wall.

This all occurred while the majority of residents along East Second Street and at the college were slumbering, for about 6:30 A. M. the deer, whether it was a doe or buck has not been determined, was apparently chased down toward the corner of Waller Hall.

Excited, the deer leaped a height of six feet through one of the window panes, landing in the main hall. Glass was shattered, attracting the attention of James Tierney, formerly of the United States Navy and now enrolled at the college.

Tierney tracked the animal from blood spots. The deer turned into the entrance of the former gymnasium and then made a sharp right turn down a flight of stairs into the boiler room.

One of the windows was raised, and the deer leaped through. But here the level of the ground was at least six feet higher than the window. The deer had but one chance of escape, and in some manner, having no room in which to get a running start, leaped over the six foot concrete wall.

The deer was last seen heading for Wood street.

Miss Martha L. Teel, daughter of the late Harold J. Teel, former member of the Bloomsburg faculty, was one of the three high honor students in the graduating class of the Bloomsburg High School.

Commercial Contest Resumed

Placing contestants in the first three of each event, Easton High School on Saturday, May 4, won the fourteenth annual Pennsylvania Commercial Contest at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Twenty-two schools entered in the contest were represented by ninety-seven students and teachers.

Scoring was made on the basis of five points for first place, three for second and two for third. Although Easton failed to place an entrant in first place of any event, two second places, in shorthand and bookkeeping, and a third in typing made a team score of eight points.

Abington, Edwardsville and Plymouth were tied for second place in the team ratings, each with five points by virtue of first places in three events.

Mt. Carmel had a team score of three points, while Bloomsburg and Stroudsburg figured with two points apiece.

The winning team was awarded a commercial plaque, which becomes the permanent property of the Easton school.

Members of the faculty and students of the business education department connected with the contest, which was held in Navy Hall. The director, Prof. William C. Forney, was unable to attend because of illness.

Earl Gehrig was in charge of the bookkeeping contest, Walter S. Rygiel conducted the shorthand event, and Miss Isabelle Gehman, a Senior student in the department, took charge of the typewriting contest.

The individual winners received gold medals, and those in second and third place were given silver bronze awards, respectively.

Medalists in each event, together with point scores and the possible total score of each event, follow:

Bookkeeping, 281 points—Charlotte Kuhar, Plymouth High School, first, 234; Charles Johnson, Easton, second, 230; Edith Pollak, Bloomsburg, third, 229.

Typing, 310 points—Gerard Walko, Edwardsville, first, 277; Grace Dorothy Semicek, Mt. Carmel, second, 274; Mae Joyce MacDonald, Easton, third, 269.

Shorthand, 400 points-Virginia Tull, Abington, first, 322; Blanche Bogari, Easton, second, 303; Dolores Buck, Stroudsburg, third.

The following have been elected to serve as officers of the Community Government Association for the year: President, William Horvath; Vice-President, Robert Martin; Secretary, Betty Fisher: Treasurer, Joseph Lyons.

MRS. DANIEL S. HARTLINE

Mrs. D. S. Hartline, eighty-two, well-known and highly respected Bloomsburg woman, died decently in the Bloomsburg Hospital where she had been a patient. Her death was due to complications.

Mrs. Hartline's husband, for over forty years head of the biology department at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

preceded her in death two years ago.

She was born at Lancaster and following her graduation from the West Chester State Normal School, came to Bloomsburg where she was a teacher in the local college in the English department. She is the last of her family.

Mrs. Hartline was an active member of the St. Matthew's Lutheran Church and among her other activities were memberships in the Ivy Club and D. A. R.

She is survived by one son, Keffer Hartline, of Philadelphia, and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Hartline's death came as a profound shock to her wide circle of friends. She lived a rich life and found relaxation and inspiration in the woods and hills in which she spent so much of her time with Dr. Hartline.

Quiet and unassuming, Mrs. Hartline both loved and lived for the richer aspects of life. Her interests likewise centered in the church and women's organizations. The eighty-two years of her life, which concluded following a week's illness, were full of accomplishments and steeped in fellowship and happiness.

The annual banquet of the Business Education Club and the Pi Omega Pi Fraternity was held by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College undergraduates at the local Elks' Home. Isabel Gehman, Ephrata, presided at the banquet and group singing was led by Betty Lehet, Wilkes-Barre. Eileen Falvey, Berwick, Historian, gave a summary of the year's activities and then presented Professor Walter S. Rygiel, club sponsor, with the historian's book.

New club officers installed were: President, Harold Miller, Danville; vice president, Harold Reinert, Slatington; secretary, Doris Gilday; Springfield; treasurer, Estelle Friday, Phoenixville; historian, Raymond Popick, Forest City.

New officers for Pi Omega Pi are: president, William Horvath, Allentown; vice president, Harriet Rhodes, Bloomsburg; secretary, Rose Kraiser, Hatboro; treasurer, Betty Fisher, Bloomsburg; historian, Charlotte Reichert, Lightstreet.

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was the speaker of the evening and Ann Williams, Luzerne, sang several solos. The dinner was followed by informal dancing and cards.

DAUPHIN-CUMBERLAND BRANCH

A fine meeting of the Dauphin-Cumberland Alumni Branch was held at the William Penn Hotel in Harrisburg on Thursday, May 2. After a fine dinner Dr. William B. Mausteller, of Harrisburg, presided at the business meeting at which time officers were elected for the coming year.

Dr. Mausteller then turned the meeting to the toastmaster, W. Homer Englehart '11, of Harrisburg. Mr. Englehart introduced Dr. E. H. Nelson, President of the Alumni Association, who spoke of Alumni achievements during the past year, and plans for the coming year. President Andruss then spoke of affairs at the College, and showed movies taken during his service in England.

Those attending from Bloomsburg were the following: President H. A. Andruss, Dean John C. Koch, Prof. S. I. Shortess, H. F. Fenstemaker, and Dean and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff.

MONTOUR BRANCH

Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the B. S. T. C. Alumni Association, spoke of Alumni Day plans for this year and outlined the program for the coming year at a meeting of the Montour Branch of the association, held in St. Peter's Methodist Church, Riverside.

President Harvey A. Andruss spoke briefly, mentioning the changing conditions in education in the postwar period. He presented a color movie showing scenes of Bloomsburg at homecoming and Alumni Day, and some of the activities of the Army University at Shrivenham, England which he took when an instructor there last year.

Ralph McCracken, who presided at the meeting, was reelected president for the coming year. E. R. Reams, of the college faculty, led group singing, with H. F. Fenstemaker at the piano.

Musical numbers were presented by Randall Bartges, tenor who won the district forensic contest recently at Bloomsburg.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Isabel Snyder.

The group passed a resolution of tribute to the families of the late R. Bruce Albert, his father, Charles H. Albert, and Prof. D. S. Hartline.

Members of the board of trustees and faculty present were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Diehl, President Andruss, Dean T. P. North, Dr. Nell Maupin, E. A. Reams, H. F. Fenstemaker, Earl Gehrig, Walter S. Rygiel and Dean John C. Koch.

PHILADELPHIA BRANCH

The first dinner of the Philadelphia Branch of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Alumni since the war began was a delightful affair, attended by sixty former Bloomsburg students and their guests, and held at the Women's Civic Club, 1622 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The toastmaster was Nevin E. Funk, president of the Philadelphia Electric Company. His grandfather, and father were both trustees of the institution when it was the Literary Institute and Normal School.

Following a delicious dinner, Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the general Alumni Association, explained the importance of continuing interest on the part of those who had been in Bloomsburg in years gone by, and urged those present to set up a project, or goal, toward which the group might work, which would be for the betterment of the college.

President Harvey A. Andruss spoke on the importance of the Alumni Association, told of college activities in the past and plans for the future, and commented on colored motion pictures that were shown. These pictures dealt with the last college commencement and homecoming and their comparison with the activities of Shrivenham American (Army) University, in which President Andruss was active for a period of six months while on leave from college duties.

This event, the first of its kind in five years, was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Cool, who were most active in its original organization, while Mrs. Lillie Hortman Irish, Mrs. Mary Moore Taubel, and other members of the committee were responsible for this fine affair, which will continue as a yearly event. The following were present:

Anna Solomon Ruflecht, Stella Shuman Swenk, Mary E. Richards, Philadelphia; Harriette Shuman Burr and Ruell Burr, Cynwyd; Marion Phillips Stitler, Havertown; Edith McMichael Dodson, Lena Rachel Buckman, Beatrice Williams Eichner, Mary Laird, Kate Seasholtz Morris, Philadelphia; Ruth Albert Baer, Norwood, Grace Fenstermaker Frantz, Harry A. SUSQUEHANNA-WYOMING BRANCH

Reports on wartime activities of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and plans for the coming Alumni Day reunions were heard recently by members of the Susquehanna-Wyoming county branch of B. S. T. C. alumni at a meeting held in Montrose Inn.

Three members of the college faculty who attended the meeting were the speakers. They were President Harvey A. Andruss, Dr. Nell Maupin and H. F. Fenstemaker. In addition to his remarks, President Andruss showed motion pictures of the dedication of the Centennial Gymnasium in 1942, and of the Army University at Shrivenham, England, of which he was a staff member last year.

Stuart Button, '17, of Oakland Borough, was elected president of the group. Other officers for the coming year who were elected were Doris VanBuskirk '31, New Milford, vice president for Susquehanna; Mrs. Shaughnessy, Tunkhannock, vice president for Wyoming county; Catherine Bell Hicks '40, New Milford, secretary for Susquehanna county; and Mrs. Lynn Sherwood, Tunkhannock, secretary for Wyoming county.

Mrs. Susan Jennings Sturman, retiring vice president for Wyoming county, presided at the meeting, which was attended by twenty-seven members.

LACKAWANNA BRANCH

Approximately 140 members of the Lackawanna county branch of B. S. T. C. alumni met at a pre-Alumni Day meeting in the Scranton Club, Scranton.

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the college, spoke on the coming activities of Alumni Day and commencement, to be held May 25, and showed motion pictures of recent college activities and of the Army University at Shrivenham, England, taken last summer when he was a member of the staff there.

Dr. E. H. Nelson, of the faculty, now on leave with the state department of public instruction, spoke on projects to be carried out by the various alumni branches.

The group elected the following officers: Margaret J. Dyer, Scranton, president; Eva Morgan, Gilbert Morgan and Anna Naylor Kuschel, Scranton, vice-presidents; Florence Dunn, Jermyn, secretary; and Lydia Bohn, Scranton, treasurer.

The retiring president, Archibald Reese, presided. The invocation was given by the Rev. Peter K. Emmons, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Thomas Francis, Lackawanna county superintendent of schools, was toastmaster. In the program several solos were sung by Helen M. Parris, accompanied by Mrs. Florence Sugarman Settler, and the group sang some numbers.

Attending from the local faculty were Prof. Andruss, Dr.

Nelson, S. I. Shortess and H. F. Fenstemaker.

Sarah E. Richards (Mrs. Samuel Daniels), of Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, died April 10, 1946, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh S. Brown. She was the sister of the late Margaret Richards Lamb and John M. Richards, who also were graduates of Bloomsburg. Mrs. Daniels came back to Bloomsburg in 1943 to attend her sixtieth year reunion.

The following account of Mrs. Daniel's death appeared in the Harvey (Wisconsin) Tribune:

The ranks of this community's pioneers were further depleted last Wednesday when Mrs. Sarah Daniels died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Brown, 2020 Twotree Lane, Wauwatosa, Wis. Although 86 years old Mrs. Daniels' death came as a blow to members of the family for, despite her advanced age, she had been in excellent health and was extremely active.

Born in Clifford, Pa., on August 31, 1859, Sarah Richards spent her early years in that vicinity. A graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1883 she taught school from her graduation until her marriage to Samuel Daniels, at Clifford, on November 25, 1891. Immediately thereafter the couple moved to this community to be among its first residents. Mr. Daniels became active in the real estate business and remained interested in the vocation until his death in 1918.

Locally Mrs. Daniels will be affectionately remembered for her nine years of association with the Harvey Public Library which she served as librarian from 1919 to 1928. A small woman, the quiet refinement of her character blended perfectly with the almost reverend atmosphere of the institution. Mrs. Daniels was held in high regard by both child and adult borrowers.

An avid church member, she became an active participant in the affairs of the First Congregational Church. She maintained her interest in church work even after moving to the Wisconsin community in 1941.

Mrs. Daniels played an important role in the organization of the Harvey Woman's club and was one of its charter members.

Her body arrived here from Wauwatosa on Friday afternoon and funeral services under the direction of the Rev. Gia-Russo, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church of Milwaukee, were held at the Powers chapel on Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Interment was at Mt. Greenwood cemetery.

Besides Mrs. Brown, the daughter with whom she made her home, Mrs. Daniels is survived by two sons, Frank, of Chicago, and Rupert, of Union, N. J. A nephew, John Richards, of this city, who made his home with the Daniels for many years, also survives as do two grandchildren.

Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Fetterolf, 903 West Market Street, Pottsville, observed their 50th wedding anniversary, Monday, June 17.

The celebration of their anniversary was held in the First Reformed Church, when a dinner was served, and a reception followed. Attending were some of those who were members of their bridal party.

Mrs. Fetterolf is the former Flora Bell Jones, the oldest daughter of Eli Jones and his wife Lavina Ohl Jones, Bloomsburg, where the father was engaged in the contracting and building trade. A younger daughter, Lula Jones, has made her home with her sister and brother-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Fetterolf, for the past forty years.

Mrs. Fetterolf, as a girl, attended the public schools of her home town from which she was graduated in 1884. She afterward attended the Bloomsburg State Normal School, now Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was graduated in 1886. After her graduation she taught for a number of years in the public schools at Nescopeck and in Bloomsburg until the time of her marriage to Rev. Fetterolf on June 17, 1896, in Trinity Reformed Church, Bloomsburg.

The officers of East Susquehanna Classis, Rev. C. B. Schneder, D. D., president of the Classis at the time, Rev. C. H. Mutchler, the stated clerk of the Classis, together with the pastor of the church, Rev. C. H. Brant, officiating in the ceremony. Miss Bessie Charles, Brooklyn, N. Y., was maid of honor; the bridesmaids were, Miss Gertrude Scheep, now Mrs. Joseph Townsend, of Bloomsburg, and Miss Lula Jones, sister of the bride. The flower girl was Miss Hazel Row, now Mrs. Hazel Creasy, and organist of the Reformed Church at Bloomsburg. Bruce Jones, who resided for many years in Pottsville, now deceased, was best man. The ushers were Clarence B. Fetterolf, a brother of the bridegroom and Franklin Deaner, a friend of the bridegroom.

Rev. Fetterolf at the time of his marriage was serving his first pastorate in what was then known as the Mainville charge, of which Berwick and Nescopeck were then supply points. As a young man, preparing for the ministry, Rev. Fetterolf took the classical course at Mount Hermon, Mass. In the fall of 1895, he entered the Theological Seminary of the Reformed church, at Lancaster, from which institution he graduated in 1898. During his entire seminary course he served as a supply preacher and pastor of the Mainville charge. At the advice of his Classis and by their unanimous vote, he was ordained to the ministry after his first year in the seminary in 1896. Thus this year also marks the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the ministry. From 1896 to 1898 the newlyweds made their home in Lancaster. After his graduation from the seminary they moved to Mainville, where they continued their work in the charge for three more years. In 1902 Rev. Fetterolf accepted a call from the Lykens and Tower City charge. Living in the town of Lykens and serving also the Tower City congregation for thirteen years or until 1914, he accepted a call from the First Reformed Church, Pottsville, where they have resided ever since.

The work in this church has had a steady growth through the years, the church having been extensively renovated in 1918, when a large pipe organ was purchased and dedicated.

In 1927 and 1928 the whole edifice was practically rebuilt, enlarged and beautified. The deep chancel with its appointments makes the church one of the most worshipful sanctuaries in the city.

The marriage of Rev. and Mrs. Fetterolf was blessed with three children, a son, Harold Leroy, who died in early childhood. Gladys Esther, wife of John S. Crossman, of West Norwegian Street, Pottsville; Ruth Isabel, wife of Amos J. Goddell, of Prospect Park, near Philadelphia. A granddaughter, Constance Rebecca, celebrated her second birthday on the day of this fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of the grandparents.

Eleven of the thirty-six living members of the class of 1886 attended a reception at Hotel Magee Friday evening, May 23, as the sixty-year class opened its reunion activities. The class had an original membership of sixty-eight.

Members attending were the Rev. Dr. N. H. Sanner, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Belle Monie Jones, Drexel Hill; Mrs. Adelle Broughall, Wilmington, Delaware; J. O. Felker, Lewistown; Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Cool, Mrs. Annie Snyder Mausteller, Mrs. Lucetta Moyer White, Miss Ida Bernard, Miss Stella Lowenberg, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Emma Amelia Long Dickson, Berwick.

Guests were Mrs. N. H. Sanner, Pittsburgh; S. C. Jones, Drexel Hill; Henry Fetzer, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Snyder, Miss Mabel Moyer,

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss, Bloomsburg.

The Rev. Dr. N. H. Sanner, of Pittsburgh, arranged the following enjoyed program for Saturday: Greetings, the president; song, "Long, Long Ago;" roll call and communications from members unable to attend; history of events as they concerned the class since its last reunion in 1941; song, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot;" "Sixty Years of Progress;" David L. Glover, of Mifflinburg; reminiscences by all attending; song "Blest Be the Tie that Binds;" and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Sanner. All expressed the hope that they may be able to return for the sixty-fifth year reunion in 1951. There was a wonderful spirit prevailing with the class still as loyal to the Teachers College as they have been to the "Old Normal" of their days in Bloomsburg.

A minister of the Gospel for 46 years and pastor emeritus of Bethany Evangelical and Reformed Church since September 15, 1941, Rev. Harvey I. Crow died at 11:15 A. M. Sunday, June 9, at his home, 1716 West North Street, Bethlehem.

Born February 2, 1865, on a farm near Liverpool, just across the Susquehanna River from Millersburg, Rev. Crow was a son of the late Abraham and Mary Crow. He remained on the farm until he was nineteen years old, then entered Bloomsburg State Teachers College, from which he was graduated in 1888.

Rev. Crow took up the teaching profession and taught for three years in one-room country schools, then for four years in Marysville schools, two years in grammar grades and two years as principal of the high school.

Deciding upon the ministry as a profession, he entered the Reformed Theological Seminary at Lancaster and was graduated in 1895.

In July of that year he married Anna Kass, of Marysville. He was ordained and received his first charge at New Hamburg, Mercer County, the same year. Mrs. Crow died in 1931, the same year in which the new Bethany Evangelical and Reformed Church building at Market Street and 5th Avenue, was dedicated.

Two children were born to the union, Mary Crow, teacher of English in Liberty High School, and Emma Crow, who is librarian at Franklin Junior High School.

Rev. Crow served the New Hamburg Church until 1900. when he was called to the Nittany Valley and Hublersburg congregation in Center County. He remained there until 1911 and during his pastorate in 1908 built a new church at Howard.

September 14, 1911, he came to Bethlehem as pastor of Bethany Church, then located on 4th Avenue, at Schaffer Street. He remained here for thirty years, building the new church and otherwise strengthening the congregation. He was its fourth pastor.

He served as president of both the West Susquehanna and East Pennsylvania classis; was a past president of Bethlehem Ministerial Association; served as a member of the Bach Choir under the late director Dr. J. Fred Wolle; represented the church as delegate to General Synod when the Evangelical and Reformed churches merged, and was a member of the board of trustees of Cedar Crest when the new college was built.

Survivors are the two daughters, Mary and Emma Crow; three brothers, Theodore Crow, Liverpool, Pa.; Rev. H. E. Crow, Reading; J. C. Crow, Mill Hall, and a sister, Mrs. Jacob Fortney, Newport.

Richard A. McHale, of Shenandoah, passed away Sunday morning, March 10, at his home, 212 West Centre Street. His death was unexpected and came as a shock to his relatives and host of friends, as his brief illness was not considered serious.

Born and reared in Shenandoah he was a graduate of the Shenandoah High School and later the Bloomsburg State Normal School. He was a member of the teaching staff of the borough schools for thirty-one years and resigned to enter the real estate business in 1921. He was an auctioneer of exceptional ability and was known throughout the state in this capacity.

Prominent in sport circles, he was a lover of horses and was well known in racing and Fair circles throughout this region. Organizer of the Shenandoah Mutual Fire Insurance Company, he was secretary of the firm at the time of his death, a position he held since the creation of the organization. He was one of the oldest living members of the Shenandoah Elks Lodge. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the lodge. He joined the Elks on April 20, 1920.

A member of the Annunciation Church and the Holy Name Society of the parish, Mr. McHale was very active in the affairs of the church during his younger life.

Highly revered by his family and friends he was regarded as a kind and indulgent father and devoted husband. His popularity was greatly due to his congenial disposition.

Surviving are his widow, the former Anne Gallagher; two sons, R. A. McHale, Jr., and John H. McHale, investigator for District Attorney's office in Washington, D. C.; one daughter, Miss Mary A. McHale, vice principal of the Jefferson school in in Shenandoah.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning, March 13, from his home. Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated in Annunciation Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Friday evening, May 24, the class of 1891 had a delightful evening at the home of Miss Jennie Sheep.

There were twelve back from the class which fifty-five years ago graduated eighty-two. This class continued the program at the college on Saturday. Attending: Elizabeth D. Smith, Mt. Carmel; Mrs. H. B. Rinehart, Waynesboro; Mrs. Phoebe S. Creasy, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Anna Clauser Wasley, Miss Rose A. Cohen, Miss Jennie S. Sheep, Mrs. Alice D. Furman; Harry B. Rinehart, Waynesboro; Edward J. Gornley, Hazleton; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, Bloomsburg; W. A. Turnbach, Hazleton.

The following letter from Mrs. Myrtle VanWie, a former member of the faculty at Bloomsburg and a member of the class of 1896, expresses very well the sentiments of the members of the fifty-year class, which was the featured class on Alumni Day:

My dear Mr. Andruss:

No doubt you have received many expressions of appreciation from the groups holding reunion last week.

My own word of commendation is for the individual attention accorded us elderly women.

I am referring to the courtesy of the students who took us to our rooms, and those who carried our trays at the cafeteria luncheon, or served us in other ways.

Not only the students, but the employees deserve—and should receive—thanks, particularly the gentleman in charge of the elevator, who treated us with filial consideration, and the women who served our breakfast.

All these, both students and employees, rendered their services, not as duties imposed upon them, but with the gracious hospitality of hosts and hostesses entertaining guests. It added much to our enjoyment.

Such a spirit of cooperation pervading an institution merits the highest praise, and you are to be congratulated for achieving it.

May I add that if I could have gone out from College halls with the remembrance of such a prayer as the one you offered for the graduating class, I think I might have been a better teacher.

Sincerely,

Myrtle A. VanWie.

Bartlett H. Johnson, sixty-nine, for a number of years principal of the Third Street school here died Tuesday evening, April 2, at eight o'clock in the West Side Orthopedic Hospital at York. He resided at 2104 West Market Street in that city.

Mr. Johnson's death was due to a heart condition. He had been ailing for three years and a patient in the hospital for two weeks.

After Mr. Johnson left Bloomsburg he resided in York for eight years and then accepted the principalship of the prospect Park schools, which position he held for seven years. He was a member of the Grace Methodist Church of York.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Pauline Johnson, of York; Mrs. George McKee, of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. Wil-

Charles M. Keefer lives at 4 Forest Park, Portland 5, Maine

Henry F. Broadbent, of 1415 New York Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "I have no worth-while news, except that I am now very much interested in two small grandchildren, but I would enjoy hearing anything at all about the other three hundred fifty-five of the class of '98."

1901

The QUARTERLY has been informed of the death of Mrs. Jessie Raup Lloyd, of Matawan, New Jersey. Mrs. Lloyd passed away September 30, 1943.

1905

Miss Anna May Fagan, a member of the Hazleton Senior High School faculty and sister of Dr. P. E. Fagan, city school medical examiner, died at her home at 593 North Church Street Sunday, March 10, after an illness of slightly more than a week.

Miss Fagan first became ill in February but had recovered and resumed her teaching position at the high school annex, where she was a member of the commercial department.

Born in Lattimer, Miss Fagan was a graduate of the Hazle Township High School. She graduated from the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and later received her A. B. and M. A. degrees from Marywood College. After teaching for several years in the Hazle Township High School, she took a position in the Larksville High School where she served as vice-principal. She returned to teaching in Hazleton four years ago as a member of the high school faculty.

Miss Fagan was a member of St. Gabriel's Church and of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality of the parish.

Her parents, Robert and Adelia Fagan, died about twelve years ago, and a brother, Dr. Lawrence Fagan, died six years ago.

Besides her brother, Dr. P. E. Fagan, she is survived by a brother, Dr. Gerald Fagan, of Wilmington, Massachusetts, and three sisters, Elizabeth Fagan and Mrs. Julia O'Rourke, both local teachers, and Mrs. James H. Calder, a former teacher in this city, who now resides in Hazleton after several years in Philadelphia.

The funeral was held from the family residence at 9 A. M. the following Wednesday, with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Gabriel's at 9:30. Interment was made in the parish ce-

Englehart; Mrs. A. L. Chase, Carbondale; Bertha D. Lovering, Scranton; Warren Anstock, Bloomsburg.

1909

County Superintendent of Schools Fred W. Diehl was reelected for the eighth consecutive term, receiving all thirty-seven votes cast at the election held in the court house recently at Danville.

Mr. Diehl was the only candidate presented. All districts of the county were represented with Mahoning and Limestone Townships having one hundred per cent representation. There are only twelve teachers in the county schools who were present when Mr. Diehl took over in 1918 and only two county superintendents are still on the job that were on duty at that time, which is an outstanding achievement for Mr. Diehl, who has been able to carry on so successfully for almost three decades.

During his administration six new buildings have been built in the county. When he came into office there were fortynine one room schools while today there are only nine. There are at the present time twenty-nine buses hauling pupils to school and all but two of the rural schools have electric lights. There are only two directors serving today that were in office when he began as county superintendent.

Ray M. Cole, who has done an outstanding work as head of the public school system of Columbia County since 1938, was unanimously re-elected for a four-year term.

L. C. Mensch, of Catawissa, placed the name of Mr. Cole before the directors, asserting that he has proven a man well qualified for the position and one who is carrying on well. Dean W. B. Sutliff, who was named chairman of the meet-

Dean W. B. Sutliff, who was named chairman of the meeting, at the close of the election asserted that he believed he expressed the feelings of all directors when he said that the unanimous choice of Cole for another term expressed the approval of the directorate for his fine administration during the past four years.

He extended congratulations to the superintendent and said the vote was an evidence of the confidence he enjoys. Further, the chairman pledged continued cooperation from the directors in the advancement of the school program.

The Bloomsburg Morning Press had the following editorial comment on Mr. Cole's re-election:

"Ray M. Cole yesterday was re-elected superintendent of the Columbia county schools for a four year term. The vote was unanimous.

"In the years that Mr. Cole has served the educational interests of this county he has been outstanding in his field.

"He entered the county system as vocational supervisor in 1921 and held that position until named to the superintendency in 1938 to fill a vacancy created by the death of William W. Evans.

"Throughout his quarter century of service in Columbia county he has been a leader. Always willing to consider any one's point of view; always clear in his thinking, always guided solely by what he firmly believes is for the betterment of the boy and girl today, who will be the man and woman of tomorrow, Cole has given this county a type of service that places the county in his debt.

"He is in every sense of the term a public servant—efficient, energetic, pioneering and friendly."

There were forty-three members of the class of 1911 in attendance at a dinner at the Bloomsburg Country Club. Dr. E.

Miss Catherine Louise Harper, daughter of Pauline Sharpless Harper, of Bloomsburg, was married Sunday, May 5, to G. Clayton Bassler, of Lancaster, in a ceremony performed in the parsonage of the Church of God, in Lancaster. The officiating minister was the Rev. C. H. Lefeber, pastor of the church. The bride is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and the Pierce Business School. Mr. Bassler is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and received his doctor's degree at the Pennsylvania State College. He and Mrs. Bassler were formerly employed with the Heyden Chemical Company at Princeton,

Miss Dorothy Jane Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Kline, West Street, Bloomsburg, has been awarded a Rochester Prize Scholarship of $1500, it was learned recently.

The scholarship is granted to students of exceptional intellectual promise, maturity of purpose, good character, good health and personal qualities which should enable their possessor to work happily with her associates.

Miss Kline's application for admission to the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester, has also been approved. She will enter the University in the fall.

Miss Kline has been active in school, church and community activities. At the Bloomsburg High School, where she is a Senior, she is president of Dramatic Club, secretary-treasurer of the band, in which she is also solo clarinetist and accompanist for the Girls' Chorus; a member of Tri-Hi-Y, Press Club and Memorabilia staff. She has studied the work of the academic course, and in addition has taken three years of shorthand and typing.

Recently J. Clair Patterson, principal, announced that she had tied for first honors in the graduating class.

She is assistant organist of the Methodist Church, accompanist for the Young People's Choir and a member of the Senior Choir of that church. She is also one of the leaders of the Junior Department in the Sunday School and is active in youth activities.

For the past five years Miss Kline has been studying piano and organ with Elwood Sober.

Harriet E. Graves (Mrs. Raymond Marsh), of 210 Sedgewick Avenue, Syracuse, New York, reports that she has a second grandchild, F. Raymond Marsh III, now two years old.

Francis B. Eveland, who holds the rank of Lieutenant Commander (M. C.) U. S. N. R., is Dermatologist in the United States Naval Hospital at Memphis, Tennessee.

Major-General and Mrs. Idwal H. Edwards announced the marriage of their daughter Ann Louise, to Lieutenant Commander William A. Robie, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Robie, 43 Zane Avenue, Collingswood, New Jersey, in an afternoon wedding on Thursday, April 25, at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, Calif. Reverend John C. Leffler, rector of St. Luke's, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Robie wore a gown of white satin, enhanced by the veil and Juliette headdress worn by her mother at her wedding, and was attended by Mrs. Bruce Simonds, matron of honor, of Washington and San Francisco. Commander Jacob A. Benz, U. S. N., was best man for Lt. Cmdr. Robie.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Katherine S. Branch, of Pierce Street, San Francisco.

The bride attended Colby Junior College, New London, New Hampshire, and graduated from the University of Texas at Austin and Katherine Gibbs School, New York, while Lt. Cmdr. Robie graduated from Bullis Prep at Silver Spring, Maryland, and the U.S. Naval Academy, class of 1942.

The Robies are temporarily living in San Diego, Calif., where Cmdr. Robie is awaiting orders after an extended tour of destroyer duty in the Pacific theater, aboard the U.S.S.

Melvin and Kves.

The bride was given in marriage by Captain W. B. Mc-Hugh, U. S. N., acting for her father, Major-General I. H. Edwards, now in Germany as commanding general of U. S. Air Forces in the European Theater, where Mrs. Edwards and daughter Katherine expect to join him in June.

Paul L. Brunstetter, of Catawissa, has been re-elected assistant county superintendent of the Columbia county schools. He was recommended by Ray M. Cole, superintendent of schools, and unanimously elected by the county school board at its May session.

Brunstetter is now starting his second term in this position. He is well known in county educational circles and has had a broad experience in teaching. A native of Columbia county, he was supervising principal of the schools of Orangeville and Catawissa prior to his being named by the county superintendent in 1942.

Miss Ruth Hidlay, a successful teacher in the Bloomsburg schools for the past thirty years and who is retiring at the close of the present school year, was honored Monday evening, June 3, by teachers and members of the board of education at the annual Spring get together dinner at the Dutch Hill Church. Miss Hidlay was presented with a radio.

Laurence J: Campbell, president of the recently organized Bloomsburg Teachers Association, presided. He lauded the fine service of Miss Hidlay as did G. Edward Elwell, president of the board of education, and L. P. Gilmore, supervising principal of the schools.

Bloomsburg Baptist Church.

Miss Welliver was the daughter of George W. Welliver, who for many years was the Superintendent of the Bloomsburg Water Company. She was born in Bloomsburg and lived there until graduation from State Normal School. She has taught in Luzerne, Columbia and Montour counties. Of the nineteen years teaching in Montour county, the last eight years have been in Danville Special Class.

Mr. Funk was born in Oklahoma and he was reared in New Mexico. His professional training has been in the Fine Arts. For the past year he has been engaged in teaching Northumberland Special Class children. He has organized Art Groups in Sunbury and Northumberland for those interested in Painting For Fun.

The Rev. R. A. Pavy, of the Danville Baptist Church, performed the ceremony. The Rev. M. C. Hunsicker, of the Bloomsburg Baptist Church, and the Rev. Ralph Hinckleman, of the Northumberland Methodist Church, offered prayers.

First Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert G. Sutliff were recent visitors at the home of the former's parents, Dean and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, of Bloomsburg. Lt. Sutliff was recently discharged from the Air Corps after three years and three months of service. Lt. and Mrs. Sutliff enjoyed a four weeks' vacation in Mexico before coming to Bloomsburg. He plans to return to his peacetime position with Federal service and expects to be assigned to investigating work in New York City.

Warrant Officer Samuel Kurtz, assistant conductor of the Army Air Forces Band and well known Pennsylvania musician, was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon recently. The award was made for outstanding services in the field of music for the armed forces, and was presented to Mr. Kurtz by Brigadier General Burton M. Hovey, Commanding General of Bolling Field, present headquarters for the AAF Band. Kurtz is a former music supervisor in the Bloomsburg and Stroudsburg High Schools.

The class of '31 met in reunion this year. The following officers were elected: Chairman, Clarence Wolbiner; Secretary-Treasurer, Helen Maynard Lake. Chester Zimolzak was elected chairman of a committee to arrange for a breakfast or luncheon for the next reunion. It was suggested a "round robin" letter be started in the class to create more interest among the members. It was discovered that four members of the class have died. After pictures of the class were shown, the meeting was adjourned.

Miss Dorothy L. Schmidt, Presbyterian missionary who last year returned after three years as a refugee and prisoner of the Japanese in the Philippines, spoke recently in the chapel of the Bloomsburg Methodist Church.

After graduating from Bloomsburg State Teachers College and from the Biblical Seminary in New York City, Miss Schmidt was assigned to serve as a Presbyterian missionary to Japan. Her first year, 1937, was spent in Tokyo in language study. Following this period of orientation, Miss Schmidt was assigned to teach in the Hokusei Jo Gakko in Sapporo—on the island of Hokkaido.

In 1940 Miss Schmidt was forced to leave Japan and go to Shanghai, China. After spending some time in China, Miss Schmidt was transferred by the board to the Philippine Islands, where she was assigned to teach in Silliman University in Dua-gute on Los Negros Island.

She had hardly begun her new work there when the Pearl Harbor attack occurred and the Philippines were invaded by the Japanese. The months of hiding in the hills, part of the time in deep tropical forest, under the constant strain of imminent danger, ended in capture, and ultimately internment.

Miss Schmidt was forced to endure this experience in the Santo Tomas camp for three and a half years, until the day of liberation by the American forces.

She is hoping to be among those who will be selected to return to Japan at the earliest possible moment—to continue the work and share in the added responsibility and challenge that this country now faces.

Her story concerns two countries and two peoples, and she tells it in a way that captivates the thought and enthusiasm of old and young alike.

Wilson B. Sterling, of 631 North Jerome Street, Allentown, is Assistant Director of Nurses at the Allentown State Hospital. His wife, the former M. Violette Williams, of the class of 1931, is now teaching in the Children's Institute at the same hospital.

ALDEN J. DANKS

Alden J. (Lefty) Danks, thirty-nine, head football coach at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, died suddenly at ten o'clock Saturday morning, September 21, at the Bloomsburg Hospital from coronary thrombosis.

The end came suddenly and at a time when it was believed his condition had improved sufficiently so that he could return to his home.

It was not only a profound shock to his immediate family, his wife, the former Maudemae Edwards, of Bloomsburg, and his mother, Mrs. Leona A. Danks, of Milton, but to the college and his legion of friends and acquaintances throughout this area and especially in Milton where during his thirteen year tenure as football coach he built the Black Panthers of the Susquehanna's West Branch into a scholastic football power.

While Mr. Danks had apparently not been in the best of condition in recent weeks, he did not impart this knowledge to any one. He took ill during the practice of drills and had to be assisted to the gymnasium by Dr. J. Frank Dame, another member of the faculty. Dr. Gluchoff was immediately summoned. Mr. Danks was in a critical condition for a time but rallied quickly when removed to the hospital. He was in such condition the next day that he wrote out detailed plans for football drills during his absence and turned them over to John A. Hoch, his chief assistant.

Mr. Danks was a graduate of Susquehanna University and secured his Master's Degree at Bucknell. Prior to entering Susquehanna he was a student at the University of Alabama. His marriage took place December 16, 1944. His father, the late George U. Danks, died from a heart condition several years ago. Mr. Danks resided in Elmira, N. Y., until the family removed to Milton fifteen years ago and upon his appointment to the Milton faculty.

Vol. 47—No. 4 THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY December, 1946

Published quarterly by the Alumni Association of the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Pa. Entered as Second-Class Matter, August 8, 1941, at the Post Office at Bloomsburg, Pa., under the Act of July 16. 1804. Yearly Subscription, $1.00; Single Copy, 25 cents.

H. F. FENSTEMAKER, '12 - EDITOR E. H. NELSON, '11 - - Mr. Danks was elected as head coach at the Teachers College during the Spring and after decision was made to emphasize the sport, Mr. Danks was selected and the announcement was made on April 24.

Mr. Danks, who headed the commercial department at Milton, was named to the Department of Business Education of the local institution and as head coach. He immediately started work on his plans for the season, contacting many boys from the area and taking care of many of the details incident to the start of the season. He worked long and ardently throughout the summer and became even busier when the first pre-season drill in the history of the college started on August 26.

He came to Bloomsburg with a program designed to build the Huskies, as he had Milton High, into a football power but stated frankly that his first year was going to be devoted to getting a good nucleus. He promised, however, a team that would always wage a good battle.

Known throughout the region as a stickler for detail and a master strategist, "Lefty" Danks early in his coaching career won the respect of scholastic rivals by sending hard-hitting, fighting ball clubs on the gridiron to out-battle opponents, from schools with larger student populations. In fact, Danks-coached clubs were so successful that championship calibre elevens have become almost commonplace in Milton.

In that thirteen-year period, Danks-coached clubs won 91 games, losing only 27 and tying nine. Seventeen of these losses came during his first two seasons, in 1933 and 34, and in 1944 when the demands of war cut 27 from a squad of 33.

His 1935 "team of destiny," one of the greatest aggregations to wear the Orange and Black, gained state-wide notoriety when, after dropping an early-season decision to Bloomsburg, went on to register a clean sweep against Williamsport, Shamokin, Berwick, Lock Haven, and five other regional opponents which were supposed to make mince meat of the Panthers.

Two of his 1935 "kids" won fame during the past several seasons with National Professional League teams—Tom Miller, of the Washington Redskins, and Jack Hinkle, of the Philadelphia Eagles.

His 1939 team was unbeaten and untied and ranked first in the state offensively and defensively. It clicked off a total of 306 points and held ten opponents to a lone touchdown.

Then, as if it was a perfect swan song to a great career at the Orange and Black school, the 1945 Panthers wrapped up a second undefeated and untied record as they steamrollered eleven scholastic rivals—one of six school boy clubs in the state to do the trick. It scored 326 points with the starting eleven seeing action little more than half the game, while no club was able to puncture the hefty Milton line for a score.

With all this to his credit, Coach Danks brought Milton

High five Susquehanna Football League trophies in the eight years the Panthers completed the circuit. His teams were always noted for their precision and careful drilling. Conditioning was stressed, and regional coaches developed a healthy respect for his knowledge of the techniques of defensive play.

An all-round athlete in his high school and college days, he was a fine southpaw baseball pitcher, his ability in that sport winning him a try-out with the Boston Red Sox.

The body lay in state at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Mahoning Street and Garfield Avenue, Milton, from two to four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, September 24, and was viewed from seven to nine o'clock Tuesday evening at the Dale E. Ranck Funeral Home, Milton.

the services.

Honorary pall-bearers were James Cotner, of Watsontown; William McK. Wright, Dr. J. C. Reed, Dr. Carl L. Willward, William J. Wilhelm, George E. Wertz, Harry Dyer, James C. Tule, Henry Longenberger, Paul Keiser, of Milton; President Harvey A. Andruss, Dean William E. Landis, Dr. E. H. Nelson, William Horvath, president of the College Student Government Association; Edward F. Schuyler, Bloomsburg; Charles Baum, Sunbury; Ray Singley, Williamsport; Walter Levine and I. V. Davis, Lock Haven; Albert O. Humphreys, of Bucknell; Jack Hinkle, Philadelphia.

The "Morning Press" had the following editorial comment on the death of Mr. Danks:

"The sudden death of Alden J. Danks, who came to the Bloomsburg State Teachers College this fall to take over the coaching duties of the football squad, came as a profound shock to the host of friends he won for himself, both at the college and in the realm of high school sports.

"Known as "Lefty" from his school and college days at Susquehanna University, his record of ninety-one wins, twentyseven losses and nine ties while serving as Coach of Milton

High School testifies to his ability as a coach.

"He was gifted with that faculty of both winning and holding the admiration and respect of students with whom he worked. His death severed what promised to be a new era in the real of football at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College."

Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, of Bloomsburg, attended the sessions in June of the Synod of Pennsylvania Presbyterian Church of the United States, held at Wilson College, Chambersburg.

Prof. Sutliff, an elder of the Bloomsburg Presbyterian Church, attended as a commissioner of the Northumberland Presbytery. The Pennsylvania Synod is the largest in the United States.

To Teach In the Near East

Three county men, all graduates of the Bloomsburg State College recently, left for teaching positions in widely scattered cities of the Near East.

They are H. Raymond Chandler, son of Mrs. Ruth Chandler, West First Street, Bloomsburg, who will be an instructor in the commerce department at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon; Harold J. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Miller, Church Street Catawissa, who will teach English at Robert College, Istanbul, Turkey; and Mark C. Wanich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Collins Wanich, Light Street, who has accepted a position as teacher of science, mathematics and physical education at the Cairo School for American Children, Cairo, Egypt.

The three sailed on the S. S. Vulcania, a former Italian passenger liner now being operated by the American Export Lines. The bulk of the passenger list was made up of personnel from this country who will be affiliated with the American schools and colleges in the eastern Mediterranean region.

The Beirut and Istanbul colleges are included among eight universities operated by the Near East College Association, a non-profit organization with headquarters in New York. Operated for eighty-two years, the colleges were kept open during the way

Courses in the universities are given in England and are open to all those qualified at university level who have a command of English. The student bodies are composed of members of American, British and French diplomatic families and of qualified native students.

The Cairo school is a secondary school operated in conjunction with the American University at Cairo and is financed in part by American business interests in that section. The school, on a tuition basis, is open only to Americans, including children of diplomatic officials and American businessmen located there.

All three men will hold their positions for at least three years.

Chandler will teach commercial subjects at the American University of Beirut, located on the shores of the Mediterranean near its northeastern corner. The university has an enrollment of about 2,300.

He is a graduate of Bloomsburg High School with the class of 1938, and of Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1942, where he studied in the department of business education.

Last spring he was discharged from the Army Air Forces after more than three years' service, the greater part of which was spent in Alaska and the Aleutians.

Miller, a graduate of Catawissa High School in 1941 and B. S. T. C. in 1944, majored in commerce and social studies. For the past three years he has been teaching bookkeeping and commercial law in the high school at Phillipsburg, Pa.

He will teach English at the academy, or high school, level in Robert College, one of two colleges in Istanbul under the sponsorship of the near East College Association. The other school there is the Istanbul Woman's College.

Wanich, a graduate of Scott Township High School and a member of the B. S. T. C. class of 1946, is a veteran of World War II. He also has coached soccer, basketball and baseball at Scott. This past summer he took graduate work at Columbia University.

At the Cairo school, which is opening for its second year. Wanich will teach education, science and mathematics at the senior high school level.

During the summers Wanich plans to travel in Europe and may take courses leading to a master's degree at an English university.

The voyage of the Vulcania across the Atlantic and the Mediterranean was expected to take about two weeks. A twoday stop was to be made at Naples before the ship started discharging its educator-passengers at their destinations.

Miller and Chandler attended a luncheon in New York City given for all personnel affiliated with the Near East College Association.

Impressive ceremonies to honor a former student of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, who was killed in action in the Philippines campaign, was conducted recently on the campus by college officials and members of the Science Club. Two small California Redwood trees were planted in a small plot between Carver Hall and Noetling Hall in memory of Earl Harris, Orangeville, former president of the Science Club.

The trees were obtained from California by Mrs. William A. Conrad, Benton, who has been visiting in the Far West. She sent the memorial redwoods to her sons, Wilfred and Royal Conrad, the latter an undergradute at the college. Both boys are members of the Science Club, which has as one of its many projects an extensive tree-planting program.

During the ceremonies, the president of the club, Clayton Paterson, Nescopeck, spoke briefly and introduced Dr. H. Harrison Russell, who represented President Harvey A. Andruss, who was unable to attend. A large number of students attended the exercises which were planned by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, sponsor of the club. Moving pictures of the planting were taken by Professor S. I. Shortess. Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Harris were honored guests at the ceremony.

New Members of the Faculty

Several new members of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College faculty have been announced. Some were engaged in educational work at the summer sessions.

William E. Landis, newly-appointed dean of men, will teach commercial subjects in the Department of Business Education.

Following his graduation from the Indiana, Pennsylvania, State Teachers College in 1934, he taught in the Hershey Industrial High School for eight years and served as head of the school's department of business education. He was also head football coach. He received the degree of Master of Science in education from the University of Pennsylvania in 1939.

Mr. Landis enlisted in the Army in June, 1942, and within a few months he received his commission as second lieutenant. His promotion to a first lieutenancy came in 1943, and a year later he received his captain's bars. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of major.

His Army experience was varied as well as extensive. He was head of the department of typewriting at the Army Administration School, the Stephen A. Austin Teachers College, Dallas, Texas; commanding officer of an A. S. T. unit at the Southwestern Medical College in Dallas, Texas; and Chief of army orientation branch of the Eighth Service Command, embracing the states of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Before being assigned to overseas duty, Mr. Landis served brief assignments with the War Department's Information and Education Division at Washington, D. C., and the U. S. Armed Forces Institute at Madison, Wisconsin.

While overseas, Dean Landis was a member of the faculty of the Army University at Shrivenham, England, where he served as an instructor in the College of Commerce and helped coach the university's football team which won the 1946 championship of the E. T. O.

Just before his discharge he was the executive officer of the personnel staff section of the Information and Education Division, European Theatre, Frankfurt, Germany.

Mr. Landis, his wife, the former Miss Ruby Gahagan, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and their young son, Brooks, are residing in an apartment in North Hall at the college.

Charles H. Henrie, of Bloomsburg, is a graduate of the college in 1938. He is teaching in the Department of Business Education, beginning with the fall term in September.

Until recently, supervisor of distributive education in the York, Pennsylvania, High School, Mr. Henrie has had considerable experience in high school teaching as well as in supervising classes in distributive education for adults.

He began teaching in the Manor Township High School, Millersville, and before leaving there he was appointed head of the business education department. His next position was that of supervisor of distrubutive education at Milford, Delaware, and a few years later he moved to a similar position at Georgetown, Delaware.

While at York, Mr. Henrie supervised adult classes in the field of retail selling and management. Sales-people and managers of retail stores attended his classes. He also taught business education to U. S. Army personnel in evening free-time courses.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Henrie has had practical business experience in retail stores in Bloomsburg, Lancaster and York, while he became acquainted with the problems of office management in various offices in the same cities as well as in the United States Army.

Mr. Henrie received the degree of Master of Education from Temple University in 1943. He has done considerable graduate work in the Research Bureau for Retail Selling at the University of Pittsburgh and the School of Retailing, New York University.

Harold H. Lanterman, of Berwick, for twelve years a member of the Berwick High School faculty, will teach in the science department.

Mr. Lanterman was recently discharged from the armed forces after more than three years of service with the United States Air Corps.

While in the service of Uncle Sam, he was stationed for one year at Miami Beach, Florida, and over two years at Gulfport, Mississippi. At Gulfport he was with the medical corps attached to the Third Air Force. He is an analytical chemist. His work was of a secret nature, but it involved studies being made in the field of sanitation and physiological chemistry.

Mr. Lanterman attended the Pennsylvania State College after graduating from Berwick High School in 1924, but he left Penn State to come to the Bloomsburg State Teachers College where he graduated in 1931. He did his graduate work at New York University and received the degree of Master of Arts in Chemistry and Physics in Education in 1939.

Long interested in music as an avocation, Mr. Lanterman is a well-known pianist, and his artistry helped pay his way through college. He played with a well-known Penn State dance orchestra and traveled abroad with the band in 1929, touring Algeria, Tunisia, Spain, Italy, France, Austria and Germany. While in Germany, he was a guest student at the University of Heidelberg.

Mr. Lanterman has also been associated with the American Car and Foundry Company, having been employed at various intervals as a chemist in the research laboratory at Berwick.

Miss Margaret E. Waldron, of Muncy, has been a member of the mathematics department of the Lock Haven State Teachers College for the past ten years.

She is a graduate of Wellesley College where she received her Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1920. In 1927 she was awarded the degree of Master of Arts by Columbia University, while further graduate study was done at the University of Southern California and Harvard University.

Miss Waldron has had extensive public school teaching experience, having taught in the high schools at Williamsport and Lock Haven. While at Lock Haven she served as supervisor of the junior high school for one year.

She joined the Lock Haven State Teachers College faculty in 1936 after having taught at the Rhode Island College of Education at Providence for a number of years. During four of her eight years at Lock Haven, she served as assistant dean of women. Miss Waldron has moved to Bloomsburg and is residing in Waller Hall.

Dr. J. Frank Dame, of Drexel Hill, has been named Acting Director of the Department of Business Education. Professor William C. Forney, director of the department since 1937, is recuperating from a recent illness.

Dr. Dame taught business subjects and served as head of the Business Education Department of the Upper Darby High School for seventeen years before moving to a similar position in the Washington, D. C., Public Schools in 1942. During his three year stay in Washington, he supervised 140 teachers of business education in junior and senior high schools as well as vocational instructors.

For the past eight years he was associated with the Department of Business Education at Temple University, where he organized a program of graduate study for teachers of business subjects, and he served as Director of the University's Business Education program last year.

A member of the Executive Board of the Eastern Commercial Teachers Association, Dr. Dame is also affiliated with the Pennsylvania Education Association and the American Vocational Association. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the national honorary graduate educational fraternity and holds membership in a number of other state and national professional organizations.

Dr. Dame has written numerous articles dealing with professional training for teachers of business subjects and he is the co-author of "Prognosis, Guidance, and Placement in Business Education, a widely-used textbook for teachers in the commercial field. The book has been published by the Southwestern Publishing Company.

He is a graduate of New York University where he received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1930. In 1934 he was granted the degree of Master of Education by Temple University sity and in 1938 the same University conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Education.

Dr. Dame expects to move his family to Bloomsburg. He is the father of three children, Margaret Ann, Robert and John.

John A. Hoch, assistant to the late Alden J. Danks in the coaching of a number of Milton teams and who came to Bloomsburg with him as first assistant, has been named coach of the Huskies for the 1946 campaign, President Harvey A. Andruss, president of the college, announced recently.

Hoch was a close friend of Danks and no one aside from the immediate family was more shocked by the passing of the well-known coach.

For the season Mr. Hoch, who is also in charge of public relations at the college, was relieved of his work as instructor in English for the season so that he would have more time to devote to his task as head coach.

Dean Landis joined the coaching staff for the balance of the season, teaming with Bob Martin as Hoch's assistants. Landis had considerable experience in coaching at Hershey Industrial School prior to World War II.

Hoch, a graduate of the Pennsylvania State College, broke into the Milton athletic picture as publicity head a decade ago and in 1940 he became junior varsity coach. From 1942 he was varsity line coach and in charge of the forward walls of the championship teams of 1942 and 1945.

He possesses an athletic knowledge of line play and also is well versed in the entire system of football as coached by Danks.

Hoch attended coaching schools under Lou Little, Carl Snavely, George Munger and Clark Shaughnessy.

Married and the father of two daughters, Beverly Ann and Carolyn, Hoch resides at the College. Hoch has an apartment in Waller Hall. * * * * *

Stephen R. Hopkins, of New York City, has been appointed by the Board of Directors as director of the private school of music at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Coming from the position of professor of music of William Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, Mr. Hopkins brings to the college a broad range of experience and training in the field of music, graduating from the Yale University School of Music with the degree of bachelor of music, with major in piano and minor in the history of music.

Mr. Hopkins has also studied at the Royal Academy of Music, the Tobias Matthay Pianoforte School, and the Delcroze School, all of London, England.

Professor Hopkins is giving private lessons in voice and piano, and if enough interest is shown in violin and other form of instrumental music, there will be arrangements made for an additional staff to take care of the demand.

All members of the faculty of the Benjamin Franklin Training School, who were in charge last year resumed their places this term. Miss Grace Woolworth is in charge of the kindergarten; Mrs. Lucille Baker, grade one; Miss Iva Mae Van Scoyoc, grade two; Mrs. Anna Scott, grade four, and Miss Edna J. Barnes, grade six. Miss Thelma L. Major is special class instructor.

Two new members have been added to the Benjamin Franklin School faculty. They are Miss Lorraine Snyder, Pottsville, who will teach grade three and Leonard Gasser, Norristown, who has been assigned to grade five.

Miss Snyder has been an elementary school teacher in Pottsville since her graduation from the Bloomsburg State Teachers College several years ago, while Gasser is a graduate of the Kutztown State Teachers College and holds an M. A. degree from Penn State. He has been pursuing graduate work at Temple University. He has been a teacher in the upper elementary grades in the Norristown public schools.

Miss Edna J. Hazen, director of elementary education at the college, is principal of the school and directs the various activities there as well as the student teachers assigned to that building.

Miss Harriet Smith, head of the commercial department of Findlay College, Findlay, Ohio, has been named instructor in the Department of Business Education at the Teachers College and N. Harvey Deal, Greenville, N. C., a World War II veteran, has been appointed librarian of the institution, President Harvery A. Andruss announced recently.

These two appointments go toward the completing of a faculty that will provide instruction during the coming year for a student body of 750 students, the largest in the history of the institution.

Miss Smith has completed all the work of her Ph. D. degree at Indiana University, with the exception of the thesis and examination.

Miss Smith is a graduate of the Bloomington, Indiana, High School, and the Bedford, Indiana, Business College. She obtained her Bachelor of Science degree from Indiana University in 1935 and the degree of Master of Science from the same university in 1936.

She taught commercial subjects at Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa., in 1936 after receiving her master's degree, but in 1937 she moved to Beech Grove, Indiana, where she taught for six years in the Beech Grove High School.

In 1943, Miss Smith was appointed to the Naval Training Staff at Indiana University where she was an instructor in disbursing and typing, but a confidential assignment in 1944 took her to Washington, D. C., where she was a special teacher for the U. S. Signal Corps.

Following her work in the nation's capitol, she was appointed to the faculty of Findlay College where she taught various business subjects and acted as head of the commercial department. While at Findlay, she was employed by the Ohio Oil Company to teach review courses in shorthand to em-

Miss Smith has had extensive experience in the business world, having worked on different jobs for the New York Central Railroad, stores department, Beech Grove, Indiana. While a student at Indiana University, she had gained valuable practice in secretarial and clerical work, serving in the offices of various members of the accounting department of the School of Business. In 1934 and 1935 Miss Smith was private secretary to E. J. Unruh, executive secretary of the Indiana Council on International Relations.

Always interested in educational affairs, she is a member of a large number of educational organizations, including National Business Teachers Association, American Association of University Professors, American Associaton of University Women and other state and national business and professional groups.

N. Harvey Deal, Greenville, North Carolina, the new Librarian, is a graduate of the East Carolina State Teachers College, Greenville, North Carolina, in 1940. He received his Master of Arts Degree from the George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, in 1941.

A World War II veteran, Deal served with the United States Army from July, 1941, to December, 1945. He is a veteran of the Pacific campaigns and saw extensive service in the Philippine Islands and Japan.

At the present time Deal is completing work for the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Library Science at the George Peabody College at Nashville.

Peter R. Wisher, physical education instructor in the Bloomsburg High School for seven years prior to his entry in the U. S. Navy in the Spring of 1942, has accepted a position on the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, succeeding George C. Buchheit who resigned to continue as an engineer for the Illinois State Department of Highways.

Mr. Wisher is now completing his studies for his doctorate degree at the Pennsylvania State College and also has been doing part time work as an instructor at both Penn State and Bucknell University.

Mr. Wisher is in charge of the floor work of physical education for men; he is instructor at the swimming pool, varsity basketball coach and coach of one of the minor sports.

The new Husky hard court mentor is a graduate of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and taught a year at Girardville before coming to Bloomsburg in the Fall of 1935.

He continued as a member of the local high school faculty until April, 1942, when he was granted a leave of absence to enter the Navy of the United States.

During his period of service, which he entered with the rank of chief petty officer, he was in charge of physical education and much of that time was at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

He served for a time in California and concluded his service at the base at Sampson, N. Y., holding the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, when he was placed on the inactive list.

During the time he was at the local school he was varsity basketball coach for one year, revived track and field athletics and had exceptional success in gymnastics. He introduced the latter sport in the Panther school and built his teams into a power into the state, taking one Eastern Pennsylvania title, several state and some Eastern United States individual titles and being a leading contender for state scholastic team honors upon several occasions.

Upon his being placed upon the inactive list, following the close of the war, he decided to return to school for his doctor-

HOME-COMING DAY

Homecoming at the College, on Saturday, November 2, took on the color of the pre-war days in the first full-scale celebration of the day since 1941. Many alumni returned to the campus, a large number of them for the first time since before the war. They found the College in gala attire for the occasion, with the faculty and student body working together to make the day an enjoyable one.

The celebration opened with an assembly in Carver Auditorium at ten o'clock. The Maroon and Gold Band, under the direction of Prof. Charles Henrie, was on the stage, and played selections before and during the program. The band has been revived after having been inactive for almost four years. There were a number of cheers and songs, and the band featured its efficient corps of baton twirlers. The speaker was Edward Schuyler, editor of the Morning Press and a member of the board of directors of the Alumni Association. Mr. Schuyler, an enthusiastic supporter of athletics at the College, spoke of the formation of the "Husky Club," composed of alumni of the College who make contributions to the support of the athletic program.

The 19-0 victory over Kutztown at the football game in the afternoon added to the enthusiastic spirit of the day. The game was well attended, and the fans left the game knowing that the efforts to bring football up to the standard of the old days had not been in vain. Between halves the Maroon and Gold Band and the Bloomsburg High School Band worked together in a very effective routine, in which the two bands formed the outline of Carver Hall, with the baton twirlers representing the hands of the clock, and the glockenspiels striking the hour.

In the dining hall, for the evening dinner, the table decorations were very attractive. There were orange tapers on the tables, and the centerpiece on each table was a pumpkin holding a lighted candle. On one wall were photographs of all the members of the team, and many slogans were displayed, the one attracting most attention being, "A team that won't be licked, can't be licked!"

The day closed with the Homecoming Dance in the Centennial Gymnasium, with Daryl Stull and his "Collegionaires" furnishing the music. This organization, composed largely of Bloomsburg students, number about fifteen men, and also has several fine vocalists.

Following the complete success of Homecoming Day, the College and the Alumni Association are now turning their attention to Alumni Day, to be held Saturday, May 24, 1947.

Closing the season with the record of four victories, one tie, and three defeats, the 1946 football team at Bloomsburg made a good start in its post-war revival. Plans had been made last spring to revive the sport, and to make every effort to bring to Bloomsburg a good coaching staff and as many good players as possible. The first move was to bring to Bloomsburg the late Alden J. Danks, head coach at Milton High School, and his line coach, John A. Hoch. Mr. Danks and Mr. Hoch spent much time during the summer in interviewing promising football players in the eastern part of the state, and trying to induce them to come to Bloomsburg.

When preliminary practice opened late in August, their work produced good results. A large group of players responded to the call, and were on hand to begin practice.

The season opened with a night game at Athletic Park on Monday evening, September 30, when Bloomsburg met a hard-fighting team from Mansfield. The game ended with the score of 0-0. On Saturday evening, October 5, Bloomsburg went to Jersey Shore and met the strong team from Lock Haven. This was the first of Bloomsburg's three defeats, with Bloomsburg losing to the score of 20-12.

On a water-soaked field, Bloomsburg met its second defeat in a night game played against Clarion State Teachers College. The score was 6-0. The third and last defeat was the game with Millersville, played Saturday evening, October 19. The

Determined to break its losing streak, the team accompanied by the band, went to Shippensburg on Saturday, October 27, to help that institution celebrate Parents' Day. On a pleasant autumn day, but with the field soaked with the heavy rain of the night before, the Huskies began their series of four victories by defeating Shippensburg by a score of 12-7. The following Saturday was Home-coming Day at Bloomsburg, and Bloomsburg entertained the heavy Kutztown team by defeating them, 19-0, before a large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators.

The game played at East Stroudsburg on Saturday, November 19, was expected to be a hard one, and there were doubts in the minds of many as to whether Bloomsburg would be able to continue its record of victories. However, in a brilliantly played game, the Huskies came home with a 7-6 victory. The final game of the season was played under the lights at Athletic Park, when Bloomsburg met Rider College, Trenton, New Jersey. As a fitting close to the season, the Huskies administered a decisive defeat to their opponents, defeating them with a score of 41-6.

Thus ended a season that had promised to be a successful one, but also a season in which hopes were blighted by the death of Coach Danks, who passed away before the first game was played. At the request of the members of the team, line coach Hoch was appointed Head Coach to carry on the work begun by Coach Danks. Coach Hoch is to be greatly commended for the results attained under difficult conditions. He was ably assisted by the assistant coaches, who were Dean of Men William F. Landis and Robert Martin, of the student body.

The nation's elementary teachers received a long-overdue pat on the back recently by Miss Margaret E. Crowley, reading specialist from the Educational Department of the Readers' Digest, who claimed that they have been more successful than teachers in any other phase of public school education. Speaking before a well-attended session of the Elementary Education Workshop at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Miss Crowley praised the oft-overlooked primary teachers for the admirable job they have accomplished in teaching children to read.

Throughout the educational world leaders are beginning to realize the importance of reading in school progress and in eastern United States, alone, ten leading colleges this year are opening a specialized department in which college students will be taught to read in order to be successful in their undergraduate work.

Miss Crowley claimed that the trend today is to encourage oral reading at all levels in the school program, and the junior and senior high schools must be included as well as the elementary school. Only when the teacher works wisely and is willing to spend extra time in developing reading skills in her pupils will older children and adults learn to read satisfactorily.

"Develop vocabulary," Miss Crowley urged, and recommended Norman Lewis' "How to Read Better and Faster" and "Building Your Vocabulary Power" by John Gilmartin to teachers, as well as the person at home, in business, and the professions who wish to improve their vocabulary.

Miss Crowley appeared at the Elementary Education Workshop through the courtesy of the Readers' Digest and was most enthusiastically received by the teachers present. Although there are 51 members enrolled in the workshop, many students from the college and out-of-town guests were present to hear Miss Crowley discuss a subject that is one of the most challenging in elementary education today.

Buchheit Leaves Bloomsburg

George C. Buchheit, coach of Bloomsburg State Teachers College athletic teams since the Fall of 1932, has tendered his resignation to the college in order that he may continue his present position in the engineering department of the Illinois Department of Highways at Springfield, Ill.

In a letter to President Harvey A. Andruss, of the College, Buchheit mentions that for a number of years he has wanted to get away from the coaching of basketball and expressed the belief that with his present position he feels now is the time to make the change.

In another letter to college authorities he spoke of his present position with the state of Illinois and the hope that his resignation will be accepted so that he can continue in that work.

While he has been in coaching practically all of his life, Buchheit holds a B. S. Degree in civil engineering from the University of Kentucky. His Master of Arts Degree from the University versity of Kentucky is in physical education.

In addition to his outstanding work at the Teachers College—where he has developed many winning teams in basketball, produced some of the school's most colorful football elevens and, in pre-war days, built the Huskies into a power in track and field athletics—he was also active in many civic affairs.

A member of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club, he was a director of that club. He also was a member of the council of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, being a past president of the council and for many years the church treasurer.

Mrs. Buchheit was also active, and the family will be generally missed in the community in which they had many friends.

Buchheit is a native of Bardstown, Ill., and Springfield is located not far away. Mrs. Buchheit's parents reside in Springfield, Mo.

The Husky coach, whose tenure here was one of the longest in the institution's athletic history, was not only a good coach but won the respect and friendship of the athletes under him.

As a youth he attended Hillside, Mich., College, the University of Illinois and the University of Kentucky, graduating from the latter institution. His record of scoring more than 20 points in a Big Ten dual meet while at Illinois still stands as a record for that institution. He was an end on the football team.

He was coach of the University High School team at Kentucky and a coach at the University in football and basketball. He later joined the coaching staff at Duke University, being an assistant to Wallace Wade. From Duke he came to Bloomsburg.

When he began his work here, succeeding Thornly Booth, he was head coach of football, basketball and track. His football teams met with fair success and one of them in the late thirties, which included on its roster "Rip" Mericle, "Doc" Harter and "Whitey" Moleski, was outstanding and among the most colorful elevens ever to wear the maroon and gold.

Bloomsburg basketball teams under Buchheit, almost without exception, were winning teams and in the thick of the battles for state titles. He built track and field from scratch and under his guidance Bloomsburg took four state titles. Records now on the college books in that sport were all made under his tenure.

Buchheit was relieved of football coaching shortly prior to the war, when the late Austin Tate was appointed, but he was back in the harness a few years later and when the school had football through some of the crucial years he was identified with the club. Basketball continued without interruption. One year during the war Jack Llewellyn, on the staff of the local Navy V-12 unit, coached the quintet but in all other seasons over the long tenure of Buchheit he was head coach of the sport.

Mrs. Elsie Belle Swope, wife of Walter M. Swope, died on Friday morning, August 23, following a heart attack at her home, 1823 Regina Street, Harrisburg. She was a member of Pine Street Presbyterian Church, the Adult Education Board, the YWCA, the Mothers' Circle of the YMCA, the auxiliary of the Railway Mail Association and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Alumni Committee.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. Manley M. Chaffee, Woodbury, N. J., and Miss Eleanor M. Swope, Princeton, N. J.; a brother, Harry A. Dobbs, Akron, Ohio; two sisters, Miss Mabelle Dobbs and Miss Josephine Dobbs, both of Harrisburg, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning, August 27, in the Snyder Funeral Home, 1720 Regina Street. The Rev. C. Ralston Smith, pastor of Pine Street Presbyterian Church, officiated. Burial was made in Shoop's Cemetery.

Miss Doris Utter and Thomas Hildebrand, both of Danville, were married Saturday, August 24, in the Trinity Methodist Church, of Danville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Long, pastor of the church. The bride has been employed at the Danville State Hospital and the groom is a former student at Bloomsburg. He was recently discharged after serving three years with the Army, two of which were spent overseas in the European Theatre of Operations.

Changes at Bloomsburg

With a successful summer session completed and a good sized post season afterward, the Teachers College began to look ahead to the record breaking fall term and making a number of plans.

The Department of Business Education, which started moving into "Navy" Hall last April after the Navy V-12 program concluded at the college, has been operating there through the summer and by the opening of the fall term on September 9 had all of its instruction centered there, except for office practices.

This building, erected just prior to the war, was originally intended for a junior high school. It lends itself, however, to the needs of the rapidly growing Department of Business Education which already had a capacity enrollment of 300.

There is one suite of three rooms which are used for the typing classes. It is possible to move into any of the rooms without going into the corridor and the suite is of much convenience in this field of instruction.

There are other rooms equipped with pedestal tables and these can be well used in the various business courses. For the present the work in the office practice will continue in Science Hall. This is necessary for it is impossible at this time to lay conduit to the junior high school building to provide current for the electrically operated machines used in this work.

The room on the first floor, originally intended to be used for industrial arts, is given over to a lounge for day men students. This group is exceptionally large and the present day lounge in the basement of North Hall was not adequate.

It appears probable that the home economics room will be turned into a cafeteria and used at noontime only so that day men students may be served lunch.

The college is now considering the possibility of so arranging its program that the table service can be provided for the evening meal in the main dining hall, where the boarding students will be served.

During the war years, when it was difficult to get help, meals were served cafeteria style all of the time. Breakfast will continue to be served that way but, if the help can be secured, it is possible that for dinner in the evening and perhaps lunch, too, there will be table service.

There are a number of returned veterans who have been working at the college during the summer, in addition to taking classroom work, and they have done an excellent job. When there are a sufficient number of students who are interested in jobs in the dining hall then it appears likely that table service will be provided for at least some of the meals.

One of the things definitely planned for the future, President Harvey A. Andruss said recently, was the remodeling of the old gymnasium into a day men's lounge.

This building once the center of all indoor athletic activities and physical education floor work, has not been needed for these purposes since the Centennial Gymnasium was opened in 1942. Since then it has been the scene of some social events but has been used comparatively little.

There is a real need for an adequate lounge for the day men, who number hundreds during the year ahead. Because of the war, no alterations could be made but as soon as conditions now permit this change will be made. The building is so located on the campus that the site would be a most convenient one.

An entertainment course of unusual interest will be presented during the coming months by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College which has announced the securing of five major attractions. The Clare Tree Major Players opened the 1946-47 course Tuesday evening, October 15, when they presented William Shakespeare's MERCHANT OF VENICE in the Carver Hall auditorium at 8:15 P. M.

Other outstanding artists to appear during the season are: Roland Hayes, famed Negro tenor and radio and stage artist, who sang on Sunday afternoon, November tenth; Ernest Levy, pianist, composer and conductor, who presented an unusual concert Friday afternoon, December sixth; Francis James, versatile Canadian soprano, who will give a brilliant recital Friday, February twenty-first; and Samuel Marti, outstanding Mexican violinist, who will be presented in a unique program of Latin-American music early in March.

Although the college course at present lists only five major attractions, there is a possibility of adding other artists to the course, and they will be announced later.

In order to give music lovers of Bloomsburg and vicinity an opportunity to share in the program, college officials are allotting two hundred season tickets to the public. This bloc of tickets is on sale at the present time and is in the hands of students of the college. The cost of the ticket is $4.00 plus the Federal Tax of 80 cents.

Five Bloomsburg graduates were members of a class in the summer session at the graduate school of the University of Pennsylvania last summer. They were Frank Koniecko, Philip Yeany, Florence Faust Yeany, Andrew Fetterolf, and Elwood Wagner.

Summer School Notes

One of the most successful regular Summer sessions in the history of the Teachers College terminates in August. With an enrollment twice that of last year, more than 350 regular college students completed their six weeks work. Besides this large group, there were approximately 140 teachers-in-service enrolled in the session.

The summer recreation program featured several outings, an informal dance, weekly "Open House" nights, a full program of sports activities, and a Summer session picnic. Dean William E. Landis and Acting Dean of Women Iva M. Van

The elementary education workshop, under the direction of Miss Edna J. Hazen, was one of the features of the six-week session. Elementary teachers displayed an unusual degree of interest in the program which developed and demonstrated newer procedures and techniques for use in the elementary schools. Guest speakers spoke to the workshop each week, while special demonstrations in speech correction and the teaching of elementary subjects were presented from time to time. Pupil directed activities were one of the highlights.

Miss Edna J. Hazen, director of elementary education at the Teachers College, announced July 1 that demonstration lessons would be presented at the Training School. Various subjects in the elementary field were taught by regular members of the laboratory school staff in the large room on the first floor of the school.

Members of the staff of the training school this past summer were Mrs. Lucille J. Baker, Miss Harriet M. Moore, Mrs. Edna T. Barnes and Mrs. Amanda K. Thomas. Miss Alice Johnston, of the college faculty, presented two demonstration lessons in speech correction.

The first convocation of the Teachers College regular summer session was held in the College auditorium. It was the first of six assemblies planned for the summer program. President Harvey A. Andruss presided over the program which was highlighted by a colored motion picture, "The Shrines of Yucatan."

Commenting briefly on the problem attending the present summer session at the college, President Andruss called attention to the fact that the six-weeks period was not a "summer session" in the regular sense but the beginning of a new school year. In past years, Mr. Andruss said, teachers-in-service made up the greater part of the school's enrollment, but the phenomenal increase in the number of regular and accelerated students registered this year has materially changed the character of the session.

A brief devotional period was led by President Andruss, who also called attention to the fact that outstanding speakers and artists will appear in the remaining convocations. Dean of men, William E. Landis, conducted the session and outlined plans for various social and recreational activities during the next few weeks.

Over three hundred students of the Teachers College summer session enjoyed a brilliant violin recital as a feature of the third summer session assembly program. Miss Joyce Renee, concert violinist whose artistry thrilled hundreds of convalescent war veterans in a recent nation-wide tour of army hospitals, presented the attractively-arranged program. Her accompanist was Miss Irene Engle, of Bloomsburg.

For her first group of selections, Miss Renee played the beautful "Sanate in E Major," by G. F. Handel. The haunting strains of the adagio movement blended delightfully with the light-hearted allegro to form an enchanting background for the deep-throated music of the largo. She concluded with the movement theme of the presto.

The soloist next selected a colorful group of numbers from the pens of noted Spanish composers. DeFalla's "Jota" introduced the sprightly set while other selections included "Spanish Serenade," by Chaminade; "Tango," by Albeniz; and "Dance Espagnole," by DeFalla. These last three selections were arranged for violin by Fritz Kreisler.

Miss Renee concluded her program with a group of five familiar melodies, "Songs of Home," by Smetana; the "Old Refrain," by Fritz Kreisler; David Rose's lilting "Holiday For Strings," "Poeme," by Fibich, and the "Ghost Dance," by Ellis Levy.

The artist was introduced by E. A. Reams, head of the college social studies department. President Harvey A. Andruss presided over the assembly, which was held in Carver Hall.

It was swing time "up on college hill' July 12 when students of the summer session of the Teachers College danced to the rhythms of Art Wendell's orchestra. The occasion was the Community Government Association's Summer Dance, which was held in the Centennial Gymnasium. The committee in charge planned to entertain more than three hundred students and their guests during the evening.

A backdrop of tall, green palms and lacy ferns provided a cool setting for the mid-summer function which was informal.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

Earle Spicer, noted New York baritone and singer of ballads, was the featured artist on the fourth assembly program of the regular summer session of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, held in Carver Hall. Presenting an unusual program of folk songs and ballads, Mr. Spicer captivated his large audience with a personalized technique that invested his program with high entertainment value.

The noted artist dramatized his songs, acted them out, and spiced them with a flavor all their own. In his first number, "A Cornish Dance," he imparted the rollicking air of the countryside of Cornwall while the lilting mood of Southern England was evident in his rendition of an old English folk song. Tragic love was the theme of "Lord Rendel," an old Scotish ballad.

Relating the story of his ballads before presenting them, Mr. Spicer added much to the listeners' enjoyment. His presentation of the oft-related Barbara Allen, of which there are no fewer than ninety versions, was an accomplishment of distinction and it demanded a type of versatility of voice and distinction possessed by few artists.

Mr. Spicer's accompanist was Merl Freeland, a veteran of World War II and an accomplished artist in his own right. Mr. Freeland's own arrangement of the "Arkansas Traveler" was used during the program.

President Harvey Andruss presided over the assembly and conducted a brief devotional period. E. A. Reams, of the social studies department, introduced Mr. Spicer.

Education is to blame for much that is wrong in the world today, Dr. Leslie Pincney Hill, president of the Cheney State Teachers College and one of the nation's foremost educators, asserted in an outstanding address before the students of the Bloomsburg Teachers College summer session. Many from the town joined with the students to hear the message.

He told the students that as they go into the world as teachers, their mission will be to inform their pupils what is wrong and to introduce to them what is right. Recognized as an outstanding poet, he closed with one of his writings and which dealt with the brotherhood of man.

At the opening of his address he asked the question, "How are we going to live in this world of ours?" He said there are two definite answers. One is by doing the things that are right and living in peace and the other is by doing the wrong things and creating war.

He said that education is to blame for many of the present day evils and he mentioned as some of them the elections of Bilbo in Mississippi and Talmadge in Georgia and the current rise of the Ku Klux Klan.

Rolling Green Park was selected by the students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College as the site for their summer session picnic which was held Wednesday, July 24. The affair was once the highlight of every regular summer session at the college but was discontinued several years ago because of the war.

John Longo, of Sheppton, and Betty Lingle, of Lewistown, were co-chairmen of the social committee of the Community Government Association which planned the event. Aiding Longo and Miss Lingle was a student committee which included the following: Robert Willard, Spring City; Jane Wilson, Waymart; Robert Martin, Edwardsville, and Larry Doster, Hazleton.

Besides the picnic supper, a complete program of activities were planned and included swimming, dancing, games and a soft-ball game between two of the college's league teams.

The event was the highlight of the recreational program of the last half of the regular six weeks' summer session. Dean William E. Landis and Miss Iva M. Van Scoyoc, acting dean of women at the college, were in general charge of this program.

An enrollment of 225 was reported for the post session of three weeks at the Teachers College. This was 25 above expectations.

That brought the total enrollment for the Summer sessions to 825. There were 250 at the pre-session and 350 at the regular Summer session.

war veterans who took accelerated work toward degrees.

Eight courses were offered at the post-session. They were: American government, E. A. Reams; sociology, Dr. Nell Maupin; economic geography, Dr. H. H. Russell; botany, Dr. Kimber E. Kuster; arts and crafts, Miss Elma Major who returned from the University of Michigan where she took graduate work during the Summer; mental tests, John J. Fisher; economics, Dr. J. Frank Dame, and business law, Walter S. Rygiel. Dr. Marguerite Kehr resumed her duties as dean of women at the session. All of the administrative staff continue.

Miss K. Allene Cromis and James A. Krum, both of Bloomsburg, were married Saturday, August 24, in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Bloomsburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edgar D. Ziegler, pastor of the church. Miss Krum is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and the Nurses' Training School of the Geisinger Memorial Hospital at Danville. She is employed as a general staff nurse at the Bloomsburg Hospital. Mr. Krum, now a student at B. S. T. C., served in the Army for twenty-eight months, nine of which were spent in the European theatre.

Bloomsburg In "Who's Who"

Two former presidents of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Dr. Francis B. Haas and Dr. Charles H. Fisher, are included in the 50th anniversary edition of Who's Who in America. Dr. Haas served as president of the college from 1927 to 1930, while Dr. Fisher was president from 1920 to 1923.

One of the most widely known and best loved educators in Pennsylvania, Dr. Francis B. Haas, has been State Superintendent of Public Instruction since 1939.

Following his graduation from the Philadelphia School of Pedagogy and Temple University, Dr. Haas taught for a number of years in various public and private schools in Philadelphia before becoming the assistant director of the Teachers Bureau of the State Department of Public Instruction in 1920.

Two years later he was appointed the director of the Administration Bureau of the department. In 1925 he was commissioned deputy superintendent of public instruction, and later that year he became superintendent.

He came to Bloomsburg in 1927 and served twelve years as president of the college, resigned in 1939 to become State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a position he has filled capably ever since.

Dr. Haas is a member of many state and national committees in the field of education, and his work with the Pennsylvania State Education Association has been outstanding. In recognition of his service in the field, the state association presented him with a distinguished service medal in 1928.

A number of colleges and universities have honored Dr. Haas with honorary degrees. Bucknell University lately followed the example set by Temple University, Juniata College, and the University of Pittsburgh in paying tribute to his work.

Dr. Haas is a member of the Schoolmen's Club, of Philadelphia, the Consistory, of Bloomsburg; and the Irem Temple Shrine, of Wilkes-Barre. He is also a member of a large number of professional educational fraternities and societies.

Long interested in educational affairs, Dr. Fisher is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1904 and the Union Theological Seminary. He received the degree of Master of Arts at the University of Pennsylvania and did further graduate study there and at Columbia University.

After graduation from Union Seminary, Mr. Fisher served two years as secretary of the New York City T. M. C. A. before accepting a position in the York, Pennsylvania, High School. From York, he moved to Trenton, New Jersey, where he was head of the history department for four years.

In 1912 he became the head of the Department of Education of the West Chester State Teachers College and served a part-time role as acting professor of education at Swarthmore College. From West Chester he went to Harrisburg where he was assistant director of the Teachers Bureau of the State Department of Public Instruction, a position he held until 1920 when he came to Bloomsburg.

Mr. Fisher resigned his post here in 1923 to accept the presidency of the Western Washington College of Education at Bellingham, Washington. He remained in that post until 1939 when he was appointed a lecturer in education at New York University, but in 1941 he left the university to become Dean of Instruction at Huron College, Huron, South Dakota.

Since 1945, Dr. Fisher has been business manager of the Washington State Schools For the Blind. He resides in Vancouver, Washington.

Another Bloomsburg graduate in "Who's Who" is Rear Admiral Maiden Oman, one of the outstanding medical officers of the United States Navy, who has had a long and distinguished career in the service. Following his graduation from the college in 1896, he attended the University of Pennsylvania. He was commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade, in the Medical Corps, in 1902 one year after he received his M. D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He advanced through all grades to rear admiral, receiving that distinction in 1936.

Oman served in the Pacific in the early years following the turn of the century but returned to this country in 1905 to serve at the Naval Hospital at Norfolk. A tour of sea duty followed, and in this period, he distinguished himself during rescue operations at Messina following the great earthquake of 1909.

During the first part of World War I, he commanded the hospital ship, Comfort, but he later was placed in charge of the Navy Base Hospital at Brest, France. In the years immediately following the war, Admiral Oman was fleet surgeon on the staff of Admiral Henry B. Wilson and after that, held a number of distinguished posts in the Navy Hospital Service.

At the present time, Admiral Oman is commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Convalescent Hospital at Harriman, New York, a post he has held since 1942.

Admiral Oman wears a number of decorations, including the Navy Cross and the Italian Red Cross medal, which he received for work during the Messina earthquake.

In addition to his naval duties, he has found time to write several books including, "MINOR SURGERY" and "DOCTORS AWEIGH."

One of America's foremost authorities in the field of vocational education is Dr. Lindley H. Dennis, a graduate of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College with the class of 1899.

Since 1934 the executive secretary of the American Vocational Association, Dr. Dennis was associated with the State Department of Public Instruction for more than twenty years. During that time he was an expert assistant in agricultural education. He left Pennsylvania in 1939 to become Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Michigan, but the following year he resigned the position to assume the position he now holds.

Dr. Dennis holds degrees from the Pennsylvania State College and Cornell University. He is a member of a large number

His home is in Chevy Chase, Maryland,

An enviable and distinguished career in the field of education and journalism has been compiled by Dr. John E. Bakeless, of New York State, for whose father the Bloomsburg State Teachers College chapter of Future Teachers of America is named. A graduate of the Normal School in 1913, Dr. Bakeless holds two degrees from Williams College. Harvard University conferred upon him the Ph. D. degree.

After teaching in the public schools of Pennsylvania for a number of years following his graduation from Bloomsburg, he entered the field of journalism and rose from a position as literary editor of the Living Age to become its editor in 1928.

While with the Living Age, Dr. Bakeless became a lecturer on journalism at New York University in 1927, and in 1940 was named assistant professor in journalism.

A veteran of World War I when he served as an instructor in the Officers' Training School at Camp Lee, Virginia, Dr. Bakeless was commissioned a captain in the Infantry Reserve in 1934.

He was called to active duty with the outbreak of war in 1941 and served in various capacities since that time. Entering the service with the rank of a major, he was commissioned a lieutenant colonel in 1942. In 1944 he served as an assistant military attache to Turkey, and in 1945 became a member of the American section, Allied Military Control Commission for Bulgaria with the rank of colonel.

Dr. Bakeless is an author of a number of widely-read books, including "THE ECONOMIC CAUSES OF MODERN WAR," "CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE, THE MAN AND HIS TIMES;" "DANIEL BOONE, MASTER OF THE WILDERNESS," and others. He has also contributed numerous articles to the Dictionary of American History, the Encyclopedia of Social Sciences, and other similar publications. His magazine articles have been widely published.

He is a member of the editorial board of the American Scholar, the Phi Beta Kappa quarterly, and a consultant and literary editor for a number of nationally famous educational publications.

Dr. and Mrs. Bakeless are now in the West, gathering material for the former's forthcoming book on the Lewis and Clark Expedition. * * * * *

M. Jack Crispin, a former trustee of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and prominent Berwick industrialist and financier, is included in the fiftieth anniversary edition of Who's Who in America. Mr. Crispin, who served on the Board of Trustees of the college from 1940 to 1944, has been the president of the First National Bank of Berwick since 1909.

Long identified with civic affairs in Berwick, Mr. Crispin was associated with the American Car and Foundry Company for a number of years both in Berwick and New York City. During the first World War, he served as director of purchase of materials used in the manufacturing of arms for the Allies, and in the years immediately following the war he was engaged in making investments for the company.

One of his proudest accomplishments was his work with the committee in charge of research to compile and complete the Falaise Roll of seineurs of William the Conqueror. He later compiled and published the roll and was signally honored by France in 1937 when he was decorated and made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Mr. Crispin has always been intensely interested in doing things that would make Berwick a better town in which to live. In 1929, he donated to Berwick High School the Crispin Memorial Athletic Field and he also gave land for the Berwick Hospital and Nurses Home. For these and many other generous gifts, Mr. Crispin was officially cited by the Department of Pennsylvania, American Legion, in 1938 for distinguished public service.

He became interested in staging a Berwick Sesquecentennial in 1936 and enlisted the active interest of Berwick-on-the-Tweed, England, for which Berwick is named. He served as General Chairman of the Sesque-Centennial Committee and the part he played in making the affair a tremendous success, the English town named Crispin Road after him.

During the war years, he served as chairman of the War Savings Staff, Victory Loan Committee, and United Service Organization drives in Berwick. He was also Columbia County chairman of the third and sixth War Loan Drives. An active clubman, he is a member of many patriotic and fraternal organizations

Saucered and Blowed

As predicted at the General Alumni Meeting last May, Coach Hoch has built a good football team. We hope you were present on Home-Coming Day, when the squad competed with Kutztown.

A note from Miss Louise Robbins is heartening. She writes that she enjoys reading the Quarterly. May we say to Miss Robbins that she has the honor of being our oldest active alumna in point of years since graduation. Miss Robbins is a member of the class of 1879.

We are pleased to include in this issue a page of business cards of Bloomsburg Alumni. If you want to be represented in the next edition, send a dollar to E. H. Nelson, Business Manager, in payment for the entire year.

John C. Koch, Dean of Men from 1927 to 1946, is now Educational Consultant for the Civil Aeronautics Administration. He is assigned to Region 1, which embraces the thirteen original states. His office address is CAA, 385 Madison Avenue (6th Floor), New York City. Any time you are in New York look him up. He will be glad to see you. In case you do not have time for a call, give him a ring at Plaza 5-5662, Extension 119.

The jeep in which we enjoyed a campus ride on last Alumni Day was furnished free of charge by the dealer, Mr. Ney. Our sincere thanks to him for the fine service.

We are wondering if George Buchheit isn't giving an occasional thought to the cross-country course, and how fast some of the boys might be able to cover it. It used to be a common sight to see Bloomsburg colors come on the football field between halves, leading the harriers in. Our comment to you, Mr. Buchheit is "pleasant memories of teams well coached."

Volume I of "Highlights for Children," June, 1946, came to our desk. It is a remarkably fine piece of work. This monthly publication will become a "must" in all up-to-date libraries for children. The managing editor is our own Caroline Clark Myers '05. Her husband, the noted Garry Cleveland Myers, is the Editor.

See you on Alumni Day.

Plan Revision of Curriculum

A meeting was held to revise the Pennsylvania state elementary curriculum recently in the Benjamin Franklin school. There was a splendid attendance at this opening meeting, with nearly 100 present.

Attending were county and district superintendents, assistants superintendents, supervising principals, elementary principals, supervisors of elementary education, supervisors of special education and classroom teachers.

The welcome to the school officials was given by President Harvey A. Andruss, who emphasized the importance of this group and the need for good elementary schools in the entire educational program in Pennsylvania.

The opening address was given by Dr. Leversia L. Powers. chief of elementary education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

Dr. Genevieve Bowen, elementary supervisor of Bucks county and a member of a committee for the entire state, assisted in placing the whole problem before the group. Both Dr. Powers and Dr. Bowen were here to assist school officials from Central Pennsylvania in organizing the local teachers and all interested in education in revision of the elementary education curriculum for Pennsylvania.

Those attending from Bloomsburg were L. P. Gilmore, supervising principal; Superintendent Ray Cole, Columbia county schools; Miss Edna J. Hazen, Miss Grace E. Woolworth, Miss Iva May VanScoyoc, Miss Lorraine C. Snyder, Mrs. Ann G. Scott, Mrs. Lucille J. Baker, Miss Edna J. Barnes, Miss Elma L. Major, and Harry Gasser, of the Benjamin Franklin school,

Fred Diehl, superintendent of Montour county schools, was elected chairman of the group representative of elementary education in county schools. Thomas Hinkle, superintendent of public schools, Hazleton, was elected chairman of the group, representing independent districts.

Lieutenant Colonel Terry G. Hutton, of Bloomsburg, is attached to the Headquarters of the European Air Transport Service as chief of current operations. His headquarters are located at Wiesbaden, Germany. Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces in March, 1941, Lt. Col. Hutton was employed by the United States Government with the civil service. Since his arrival in the European theater in September, 1943, he has been awarded the DFC, the Air Medal with two clusters, and a unit citation for his participation in battle.

The Editor acknowledges receipt of a large number of personal items, which cannot be included in the present issue of the QUARTERLY, because of circumstances beyond our control. These items will receive priority in the next issue.

1946 Enrollment Establishes Record

When the enrollment at Bloomsburg closed in October, the College had the largest enrollment for full-time and part-time students in the more than a century of its existence.

The total was 843, with 758 full-time students and 105 part-time students. Of the full-time students, seventy-six were freshmen assigned to Bloomsburg by the Pennsylvania State College for their first year of college work. The Penn State transfers comprised thirty-eight girls and the same number of

There were 662 full-time students in teacher-education work. The largest department was the Department of Business Education, with 310 enrolled.

The previous record for regular students was in 1926, when 712 were enrolled. The highest over-all enrollment previously was 824 for the 1938-39 term.

During the war years, when there were numerous night classes, there was a total enrollment of 999. Many of the fulltime students in that period were in military service. The night classes were large, and consisted of residents of the area who were taking courses that would qualify them for work in war plants.

It is planned to admit two new sections at the beginning of the second semester, each section numbering forty. This will require the addition of two faculty members.

There are 403 veterans of World War II, including six women, who are taking full-time work.

There are nine extension courses, with a total enrollment of 134. These classes are being conducted at Sunbury, Kingston, Danville, Mount Carmel and Hazleton.

Selected as one of 105 teachers to instruct children of the American occupational forces in Germany, Miss E. Mae Berger, of 112 North Harrisburg Street, Steelton, sailed for Germany in September. She has taught the intermediate grades in the Steelton High School Building for the past eight years. Only two of the teachers are from Pennsylvania.

She reported at Frankfort-on-Main with the possibility of re-assignment to some other school. While she will have a civilian status, she will be quartered at the military center. The foreign assignment is for one year, and she has been granted a leave of absence by the Steelton school district.

Miss Shirley McCarty, of Nescopeck, and Donald Houck, of Berwick, were married Sunday, August 18, in the Nescopeck Evangelical Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Melvin Whitmire, pastor of the church. Mr. Houck, who was recently discharged after a long period of service in the Army Air Corps, is now a student at Bloomsburg.

Five New Courses Approved

Keeping in step with the problems created by the rapid mechanization and industrialization of modern living, the Teachers College has five courses approved by the State Department of Public Instruction for offering in the near future. All four new courses are designed to afford the students a close and intimate contact with the tremendous factors that influence economic and social life today.

Because of the confusion that exists among many educators and business men, and government officials, as to the status of the single owner business, and the need of a special course of study in the field, the college has had approved a course in problems of small business.

The course is designed to help the student with definite ideas of starting his own business, develop the organization and plans for his own enterprise and assist him in determining the kind of business he should start and where it can best be started.

The course is also set up to help the student orient himself in the changed business economy of the nation and assist him in developing a prospectus of his business for use in getting it launched successfully. An opportunity will be afforded the student to learn of federal and local agencies, trade associations, and other organizations that vitally affect his business, and in this way, prospective store owners may know of the functions and limitations of such organizations.

Along with this course is another up-to-the-minute presentation in personal finance. Based on a definite need for information in the present battle against rising prices, housing shortage, and the problems of investing and saving, the course is designed to deal with the pressing problems of taxation, insurance, buying and owning a home, starting a business, and all other phases of personal financial planning.

Personal finance advice to students who need immediate aid as well as preventative medicine for younger students who have yet to face financial problems are goals which the course

Another popular course is radio broadcasting in the public schools. Here, too, is a brand new offering that fits into the modern scheme. Designed to present a thorough survey of problems incident to the development of short radio programs by teachers and pupils in the public schools, the course will give special attention to script, diction, and timing. It will also stress the general terminology of the radio in industry and give an opportunity for directing productions and the management of such programs.

Approved and already in operation is a course in aeronautics, flight experience, which is being conducted by the college at the Bloomsburg Airport. Three students took flight experience during the post-session, and after fifty-four thirty-minute classes, each was allowed three credits towards graduation in his field of concentration.

The course is part of the pre-flight aeronautics curriculm for high school teachers instituted by the college in 1940. The curriculum leads to certification of teachers in aviation to instruct in the high schools of Pennsylvania in pre-flight aeronautics.

Also approved is a course in biography and autobiography, for the English department.

The course is a survey of the leading biographers and also includes a study of outstanding autobiographers of history. It begins with Plutarch and other classical writers, including Vasari, Pepys, Swift, Walton, Boswell, Johnson, Gibbon, Carlyle, and others among the seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth century writers, and emphasizes Steffens, Maurois and other modern and contemporary authors.

A comparison of current and older biographical methods is included to show the gradual development of biographical writing, while an attempt will be made to trace important social and political trends by showing the achievements of men and women who typify those developments.

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, is listed in the 50th Anniversary Edition of "Who's Who In America." The extensive volume contains biographical sketches of over 40,000 prominent American men and women. It has just been published and is recognized as the most outstanding compilation of its kind in the world today.

President of the college since 1939, Mr. Andruss has had a long and distinguished career in the field of education. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma where he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1924, and two years later he was awarded the degree of Master of Business Administration by Northwestern University. Further graduate study was done at Northwestern in 1928.

After having served as a high school principal in Oklahoma from 1921 to 1924, he became head of the commerce department of the Ponca City Oklahoma High School and served there until 1925 when he became a lecturer in the Northwestern University School of Commerce. From Northwestern he came to Pennsylvania and was supervisor of the Department of Commerce at the Indiana State Teachers College from 1927 to 1930.

His work at the college attracted considerable attention, and he was called here in 1930 to organize the Department of Business Education for the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He served as head of the department until 1937 when he became dean of instruction at the college, and in 1939 he was appointed president of the institution.

Long interested in the field of business education, President Andruss has lectured at various colleges and universities, including New York University, Oklahoma University, and the Oklahoma A. and M. College.

During World War II he was commissioned a colonel and served as education consultant and head of the department of accounting at the Army University at Shrivenham, England. He returned to the college late in 1945.

President Andruss has served as consultant and advisor for a number of the nations well-known business groups. Among them are the Business Problems Committee, Investment Bankers Association of America, Department of Labor of Industry, Cooperative Commission on Teachers Education in Pennsylvania, and the Education Policies Commission of the National Education Association.

Active in community affairs, Mr. Andruss is a director of the Bloomsburg Hospital; a member of the executive committee of the Bloomsburg Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army; Kiwanis Club, Acacia, Bloomsburg Country Club. He is a Mason (32) and a member of the Wilkes-Barre

His prominence in the field of education is extended by the large number of professional education organizations of which he is a member. He is president of the Alpha Alumni Association of Phi Beta Kappa, national and state associations and many business groups, including the National Business Federation. Mr. Andruss is also a member of a large number of honorary professional fraternities.

Along with all his many activities in the educational world, President Andruss has found time to write a number of books. He is the author of "BUSINESS LAW, CASES AND TESTS," "WAYS TO TEACH BOOKKEEPING," and "BETTER BUS-INESS EDUCATION." In addition to these three books. Mr. Andruss has also written many articles and educational monographs for year books, business magazines, and educational journals.

Under his administration, the Bloomsburg State Teachers College has grown larger and developed rapidly, and its contribution to education throughout the state and nation is being felt as its graduates go out into the world better prepared for the tremendous job that lies ahead.

The marriage of Miss Sarah R. Doty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Doty, of West Third Street, and Robert E. Neitz, son of Mrs. Reba V. Nietz, of Anthony Avenue, both of Bloomsburg, was solemnized Friday, September 6, at 4:00 o'clock in the Baptist Church. The Rev. M. C. Hunsicker performed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from Bloomsburg High School with the class of 1943 and from the Geisinger Memorial Hospital School of Nursing with this year's class. Her husband is a graduate of Bloomsburg High School with the class of 1941. A veteran of three years and four months service with the Army Air Corps, including much overseas service in England with the Eighth Air Force, he is now attending Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Dr. Eva Rawlings died recently in St. Petersburg, Florida. She taught for one year in a medical school in Philadelphia, then took up the active practice of medicine for a time, and later did research work in California.

Dr. William B. Mausteller, who practiced denistry since 1902, died October 17, 1946, at his home, 1422 North Second Street, Harrisburg. Death was due to complications resulting from a lingering illness.

He was born April 11, 1872, in Milton, the son of the late John and Catherine Mausteller. Following his graduation from the Milton public schools, and the Bloomsburg State Normal School, he taught for a number of years in Sunbury and Milton. He was graduated from the Pennsylvania Dental School in 1902.

In 1904, while living in Milton, he married Miss Harriet

G. Lamm, who passed away December 27, 1945.

Dr. Mausteller was a deacon of the Market Square Presbyterian Church and vice-president of the J. Henry Spicer Bible Class, of the Sunday School.

A member of Milton Lodge No. 256, Free and Accepted Masons, since 1907, he was a past officer of the following organizations: Perseverance Chapter No. 21, Harrisburg; Harrisburg Council No. 7, Pilgrim Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, and the Harrisburg Consistory. He was a member of the Zembo Shrine Temple.

One of the organizers, recorder, and past sovereign of Conclave No. 4 of the Red Cross of Constantine, he was a member of the Royal Order of Scotland and Grand Herald of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templer in 1943 and 1944. He was a member of the Harrisburg Dental Society, the Pennsylvania Dental Society, and the American Dental Association. He was secretary-treasurer of the Fifth Dental District for the past several years.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maria C. M. Putney, and by two grandsons, Lester M. McClure and Willard L. Mc-Clure, all of Harrisburg.

A prominent radiologist and a former resident of Numidia, Pennsylvania, George Edward Pfahler graduated from the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1894 and received his M. D. degree from the Medico-Chirurgical College in Philadelphia. He holds a Doctor of Science degree from Ursinus College which also honored him with an LL. D. degree in 1942.

Following his graduation from medical school, Dr. Pfahler served his internship at the Philadelphia General Hospital and for a time was assistant chief resident physician at the hospital.

In 1909 he became clinical professor of roentgenology at the Medico-Chirurgical College, and a little later was elevated to a full professorship. Following a period of service there, he left the college to accept a similar assignment at the University of Pennsylvania, a position he still holds. He is also director of the radiological department of the Misericordia Hospital in Philadelphia.

Dr. Pfahler is a member of the board of trustees of Ursinus College and is associated with a large number of national and international radiological societies. He has served as president of the American Roentgen Ray Society, American Electrotherapeutic Association, American Radium Society, and the American College of Radiology.

In addition to his work in the field of radiology, Dr. Pfahler has found time to contribute to a number of medical journals and professional periodicals. His home is in Drexel Hill, Philadelphia.

Edith M. Nesvit, of 131 Maple Avenue, Milton, Pa., has been an active member of the Alumni Association for fifty years.

N. W. Bloss was one of two veteran educators who were saluted by their collegues with the announcement by James Martin, president 'of Luzerne County Supervising Principals Association, of the adoption of a resolution praising their long and faithful service and wishing them happiness as they enter retirement.

The resolution, signed by Mr. Martin and by Gail B Young, chairman of the resolutions committee of the Supervising Principals' Association, points out that both men have served the students and citizens of their communities faithfully and efficiently for many years as "excellent administrators and wise and kind counselors to youth," declares they have "faithfully discharged their duties as members of one of the noblest of all professions."

"Their colleagues in the profession congratulate them as they retire and extend to them the best wishes for good health and true happiness in the years ahead," the resolution reads.

Mr. Bloss began to teach in 1893, two years prior to his graduation from Bloomsburg Normal School, serving in Slocum Township in 1893-94. He taught in Hollenback Township the following two years and returned to Slocum Township in 1896-97.

Mr. Bloss, a resident of Pond Hill, was born October 24, 1874, in Hollenback Township, the 10th of 11 children born to Daniel and Esther (Snyder) Bloss. He received his early education in the Hollenback Township Schools and following his graduation from Bloomsburg Normal School in 1895 took extension courses in Wilkes-Barre.

Twice during his long career he left his profession. Around the turn of the century he entered the grocery business and operated a general store at Pond Hill for eight years. During World War I, he worked for two years at the Sheldon Axle Works.

In all, he served Conyngham Township School District 35 years, as a teacher for 15 and as supervising principal for 20. His last 16 years as supervising principal were continuous. Members of his faculty honored him at a testimonial dinner at Rushin's Forest Hills Inn, Alden, following the close of school.

He entered retirement August 31, just prior to the reopening of schools. Disdaining "rustiness," he has arranged for employment in the office and yard of Sutter Lumber Company, Nescopeck.

A member of Supervising Principals' Association of Luzerne County, Mr. Bloss was a charter member of the Schoolmen's Club of Luzerne County which was organized when Frank P. Hopper was county superintendent of schools. He also was a member of Council 96, Knights of Malta, since disbanded. He is a member of the Jr. OUAM and of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Pond Hill, and is treasurer of the church council.

His wife is the former Mary Elizabeth Ruckel, of Pond Hill. They have two sons, Harold, of Pond Hill, and Ray, of

Charles M. Keefer, 4 Forest Park, Portland, Maine, was among those who were present at the fiftieth reunion of the class on Alumni Day.

Harry Leeds Anwill, 121 Pine Street, Harrisburg, husband of Katherine Coleman Anwill, died Saturday, August 24, following injuries received on August 21, when he was struck by an automobile.

Born on October 14, 1867, son of the late James and Mary Anwill, he started work April 16, 1886 as an office boy for the Great Southern Dispatch, a freight line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and was promoted to clerk in 1887. He was chosen as a traveling agent in the following year and in July, 1903, became Harrisburg agent of the Great Southern Dispatch.

From May 1, 1918, until his retirement on January 16, 1941, Mr. Anwill served as local representative of the Philadelphia Division freight agent's office of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Tribute was paid him for the prominent role he played in obtaining many large contracts for the railroad company, at a dinner in the Engineers' Club rooms of the station annex on April 16, 1936, when a 50-year button was presented to him by V. C. Kline, now an assistant general freight agent in the railroad's Philadelphia offices.

Mr. Anwill retired voluntarily after the railroad had retained him in its service beyond pension age.

Mr. Anwill held membership in Robert Burns Lodge, No. 464, F. and A. M.; the Harrisburg Consistory, Pilgrim Commandery of the Knights Templar, Zembo Shrine, Zembo Luncheon Club, the Dauphin County Historical Society and the Engineers Society of Pennsylvania. He formerly served as a chairman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He was a communicant of St. Stephen's Episcopal Cathedral.

Mary A. Vermorel lives at 690 Summit Avenue, Hackensack, New Jersey.

From Dr. Carroll D. Champlin, of the School of Education at the Pennsylvania State College, comes the following:

"Thanks for the July issue of the Alumni Quarterly, which I always read with a great deal of interest. Also the Association membership certificate, which is a friendly gesture for all of us.

"In your next issue you might include under the 1906 classification my recent trip to Europe—my fourth trip to Europe since 1934:

"44 days in Europe, 7390 miles flown, 4 countries visited: England, Wales, Ireland and France; 50 schools visited, 20 interviews with prominent educational leaders.

"Attended the sessions of the annual conference of the National Union of Teachers in London.

"Made a special survey of the evacuation of 1,300,000 British school children, invalids, cripples, expectant mothers.

"Just returned from the University of Pittsburgh where I had 100 graduate students in the Post-Session. My course was Comparative Education, in which I used much of the fresh material acquired on my trip.

"During the summer I taught 11 weeks, in three different locations; and now I am scarcely able to take a vacation owing to several engagements for service clubs and churches. Since the third of June I have addressed the Kiwanis Club of Bellefonte, Lewistown, Williamsport and State College; and I am now scheduled for Reading and Allentown—and the Erie Rotary Club. Addressing religious conferences September 13, 14, 15 and several women's clubs this fall.

The topics I have been using are:

"European Food for Thought," The European Scene,"

"England's Cultural Revolution," "Our Changing Attitude Towards World Peace," "Our American Interest in the Post-war World," "Our World Horizon," "Education and National Greatness," "Health Needs in Europe."

A prominent Latin American educator and now Dean Emeritus of the College of Education of the University of Puerta Rico, Dr. Juan Jose Osuna graduated from the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1906.

From Bloomsburg Dr. Osuna returned to his native Puerta Rico and taught in the public schools of Mayaguez for two years before returning to the United States to complete his college studies. He received his A. B. degree from Penn State in 1912 and a diploma from the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1915. In 1920 he was granted his M. A. degree by Columbia University, and three years later the same university conferred upon him his Ph. D.

During the period of his graduate study at Columbia, he was appointed professor of education and director of training at the University of Puerto Rico. He was also named director

In 1928 Dr. Osuna became Dean of the College of Education, a position he held until 1944 when he became Dean Emeritus. During his period of service, Dr. Osuna served as acting chancellor of the university for several years.

Always interested in international education, Dr. Osuna served as an exchange professor of education at the Pennsylvania State College and traveled extensively throughout Europe and Latin America, furthering the interests of various educational associations. He is a member of a large number of state, national and international organizations.

Dr. Osuna is the author of "Education in Puerto Rico" and at the present time is an assistant editor of "World Education." He has also contributed a number of articles on Puerto Rico

He and his family are now residing in South Arlington, Virginia. 1907

The many friends of J. A. E. Rodriguez, who is a Certified Public Accountant in San Juan, Porto Rico, will be pleased to see the following extract from a letter recently received from him:

"It was indeed a pleasure to get your card, the other day, with reference to the July number of the "Quarterly."

"Due to the fact that regular mail between continental United States and Puerto Rico is rather irregular at the present time, your card was rather late in reaching me. However, I hurry to send you my subscription to the "Quarterly" and hope I will be getting the July number soon. "The other day I received a letter from Dr. J. J. Osuna, who, for many years, was Dean of the Teachers College at the University of Puerto Rico, but who left two or three years ago.

"I understand that Dr. Osuna is connected with the Inter-American organization that was set up by the United States Government under the leadership of Mr. Rockefeller during the war and that Dr. Osuna has been retained by that organization and is lecturing thru Central and South America. It has occurred to me that it would be a good idea to have Dr. Osuna as one of the commencement speakers on some subject like 'Inter-American Solidarity.' And I am just passing the idea to you in case you wish to take it up with the Board at Teachers College."

Far from the ivy-covered walls of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College are the shell-shattered ruins of Manila in the Philippine Islands, but a famous alumnus of the college is helping rebuild the shattered life of the one-time Pearl of the Philippines. That alumnus is Bishop Robert Franklin Wilner, who graduated here in 1909.

Bishop Wilner, a native of Forty Fort, Pennsylvania, attended Temple University and the Philadelphia Divinity School before being ordained a deacon of the Episcopal Church in

Prior to that, he was engaged in secretarial work in Wilkes-Barre and Philadelphia but an appointment as a missionary to China by the Board of Missions of the Episcopal Church came to him in 1915. For the next ten years he served as assistant treasurer of the China Mission, Shanghai, and later at Hankow.

He became a member of the staff of the St. Stephen's Mission to the Chinese at Manila in 1928 and in 1929 was named assistant priest of the Church of the Resurrection at Baguio. While at Baguio, he was elected suffragan bishop and in 1938 he was consecrated bishop of the Philippine Islands, a post he holds today in the war-torn islands. His home is in Manila.

Assistant Chief of staff, U. S. Army since 1942 Major General Idwal H. Edwards is a graduate of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College with the class of 1914. The prominent Bloomsburg Alumnus, a graduate of the Air Corps Tactical School, Command and General Staff School, and the Army War College, saw service in both World War I and II.

He saw action with the infantry during 1917 and 1918 after having been commissioned a lieutenant in August, 1917. Sensing the future significance of the airplane as a weapon in modern warfare, the young officer transferred to the Air Service in 1920 and rapidly rose through all the grades to become a brigadier general in May, 1942.

He became a major general in 1943, and from 1938 to 1940 he served on the General Staff Corps.

The Normal Teachers' Certificate of Margaret Myers. 1914, has been found in some old files in the office of the County Superintendent' of Schools, Bloomsburg, Pa.

If Margaret will send her marriage name and address to P. L. Brunstetter, Assistant Superintendent, this certificate and a health certificate filed with it will be forwarded to her.

Congressman P. W. Griffiths, a native of Taylor, Pennsylvania, was a student at the college from 1913 to 1916. He received his B. S. degree from Penn State in 1921 and his M. A. degree from Columbia University in 1931.

A veteran of World War I, Congressman Griffiths served as director of athletics at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, in the early '20's and from 1927 to 1936, he coached football at several Ohio colleges. During this period he became a partner in the Griffiths Motor Car Company of Marietta, and since 1934, he has been president of the company as well as the Atlas Chemical Company, of Marietta.

Griffiths was elected mayor of Marietta in 1938, and in 1943 he was elected a member of the 78th Congress of the United States. He was re-elected in 1945.

A prominent clubman, Congressman Griffiths has taken an active interest in civic affairs. His home is in Marietta, Ohio.

The following was received last spring from Elva Brobst Ramage and Russell A. Ramage, who live in Prescott, Arizona:

"We received the card announcing commencement exercises and other events at Bloomsburg on Saturday, May 25. We are sorry that we shall not be able to attend. In truth we never have been able to attend. Our schools here never close until the end of May or early in June. We have been back there a few times, but when we get there the old campus is not like it is at commencement time, and there are very few people around whom we know.

"We wish you to give our kindest regards to the Alumni, and to express our regrets because we are unable to be there to greet them in person."
